Record 85,000 attend Ag Progress Days

Field demonstrations are always popular at Ag Progress. As primary tillage teams of men and machines go through their paces, large crowd lines field adjacent to "midway."

330 exhibitors display their wares

BY LAURA ENGLAND

ROCK SPRINGS — Considered one of the largest events of its kind east of the Mississippi River, Penn State's Ag Progress Days drew a record crowd of 85,000, topping last year's record by 8,000.

With the theme, "Agriculture — Growing for You," Ag Progress Days opened Aug. 23 with a first day attendance of 25,000. Despite this year's lower crop production, the crowds poured in to hear the latest news from the 330 exhibitors and to watch machinery demonstrations in action.

According to Samuel Smith, dean of Penn State's College of Agriculture, two of the more popular events were the equipment demonstrations and the "Ask the Specialist" tents where quests could get answers to their managemanet and production questions.

Smith said he was pleased with the attendance and compared it to that of a Penn State football game, one of the University's more popular events.

Improved parking had a direct effect on the crowd attendance, Smith explained. "It was more efficient," he said, "and there was less delay. Fewer people had to wait."

Smith said Ag Progress Days is a great way to inform others about Pennsylvania agriculture. "It's the best thing we can do to let people in the state know what agriculture is doing," he said.

Ag Progress Days, which ran from Aug. 23 to 25, featured demonstrations ranging from energy conservation in the home, to preventing rural crime, the use of computuers on the farm, family health, knitting and needlework, and a variety of commercial exhibits showing the latest in production and management needs.

Demonstrations were also geared to the youth as a 4-H tent sponsored model rocket launchings, and featured games and crafts. A computer was also on display to give youth an idea of the importance of computers in the future.

Pennsylvania produce could also be sampled at several of the refreshment booths. Also on hand were the state commodity queens and princesses, distributing information and recipe ideas dealing specifically with Pennsylvania grown foods.

In addition to the exhibits at the Rock Springs site, tours of the Penn State research plots and conservation projects were given. Those touring the research plots were able to view the Clark Kerr

Poultry hit by extra 1-2-3 punch

LANCASTER – As if marketing conditions and higher feed costs haven't been enough, area poultry farmers have been hit with an additional one-two-three punch.

First, there's been the Avian influenza outbreak in Lancaster County, which earlier showed signs of abating, but just doesn't seem to want to go away. Some 250 attended an Avian meeting last Friday at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center and were urged to practice the strictest of security measures to prevent the spread from farm to farm.

Second, the hot summer, which has cut severely into production, culminated in last Saturday's 100-degree steam bath and caused appreciable death losses.

And third, the EPA has temporarily revoked Pennsylvania's emergency exemption to use Larvadex, the feed-through larvacide which is being widely used for fly control.

The Avian flu outbreak has been around in Lancaster County since April and is still concentrated in the Manheim area.

At the Aug. 19 meeting, veterinary specialists again stressed the need for maximum security measures to prevent its spread. Strict security will contain the flu, permitting it to run its course and be eliminated through its own self-limiting nature. If not spread, the flu – which is not transmitted through either eggs or meat – will run its course in a flock in two to three weeks.

Poultry farmers were urged to keep ALL UNAUTHORIZED PERSONNEL out of their houses, including service personnel. The flu also can be transmitted in other ways, such as on egg flats or even by wild birds through droppings.

Concerning the heat losses, estimates are placed at about 100,000 in the Lancaster-Lebanon area – primarily among older broilers, the most susceptible.

And, of course, a return to hotter weather in the mid-90's was forecast for this weekend. Last Saturday's 100-degree temperatures were just too much for some ventilation systems.

Penn Packing to re-enter hog buying arena

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

PHILADELPHIA — Area hog producers may get an economic shot in the arm just when they need it.

In the face of a glut of hogs and recent uncertainty about buyers, producers will be welcoming the re-entry of Penn Packing Co., of Philadelphia, into the sales arena beginning next month.

Penn Packing, which closed its doors in June, 1981, will resume operations on September 12 under the name of Butler Foods, Inc., according to Ed Hall Jr., hog buyer.

Butler will be coming into New Holland, Lancaster and Vintage to buy through the regular auction channels, Hall said.

Initially, Butler plans to process about 3,000 hogs a day, with as many as possible being bought locally in Pennsylvania, Jersey, North Jersey and Maryland, Hall explained.

The planned kill figures of about 15,000 hogs a week would put Butler at about half of the weekly number being slaughtered and cut in early 1981 prior to the closing.

Future plans may call for the establishment of buying stations in places like Northern Pennsylvania, Hall added.

Previously, Penn Packing had operated a buying station at the Green Dragon Market, processing some 2,000 hogs a week. But there are no plans to resume the station there, Hall said.

The re-entry of Butler Foods into hog buying is expected to shake up area marketing – just as its closing two years ago had its effects.

But this time, the effect should be positive.

Back in 1981, the closing caused about a $1.00 per hundredweight drop in prices.

The re-opening of operations may cause a similar positive effect on the market this time.

And, any positive effect on the market couldn't have come at a better time for hog producers.

Stronger market trends have been in evidence lately and the impetus of another major buyer may help prolong and even strengthen this trend.

Any positive market signs are particularly welcomed now as producers face twin problems of

The P & L Service Program is an important part of every DEKALB flock's profitability Profitable pullets and layers are what the DEKALB P & L Service Program is all about. It's an easy way to achieve optimum genetic potential from your DEKALB DK* or XL-Link* chicks.

Body frame measurement. Sanitation. Vaccinating. Lighting. Weighing. Performance goals. The P & L Service Program covers them all, beginning three weeks before your DEKALB chicks arrive and continuing through their entire production cycle. Plus, the P & L program is compatible with most self-designed service programs.

A production program that's free, easy and available with every flock of DEKALB DK or XL-Link chicks. Ask your DEKALB representative about the P & L program.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

AUG. 29-SEPT. 4, 1983

Rain and sun — still time for fun.

Cranberry harvesting begins . . Germany invaded Poland Sept. 1, 1939 . . Last quarter of the moon Aug. 31 (Wed.) . . Average length of days for the week, 13 hours, 10 minutes . Capt Meriwether Lewis and William Clark began their expedition Aug 31, 1803 . . Treaty of Paris ended Revolutionary War Sept. 3, 1783 . . New brooms sweep clean but old ones know the corners

Ask the Old Farmer: Have you ever heard of "apple tree" sailors and do you know what they were and why they were so called? J B.S , Norfolk, Conn

Yes Deep-water sailors sneered at the coasters because they did business in shoal water They did not navigate in the proper sense and were said to smell their way from port to port along the coast. In thick or stormy weather they were said to hold a course by keeping within the smell of the apple trees ashore. It might be added that there was a certain amount of truth in this The "land smell" can be detected for miles at sea and many a canny coaster took advantage of the fact

Home Hints: To reheat baked potatoes, dunk them in hot water before cooking in a moderate oven

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Week starts rainy and cool, sunny and mild into weekend; then showers, warm temperatures

Greater New York-New Jersey: Rainy and cool all week

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Week begins cool with showers; rain north, cool remainder of week

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Clear, hot showers west most of the week; rainy and warm toward end

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

A large manila envelope arrived in the mail the other day. At first, it looked like dozens of others that come weekly.

But then the return address caught my eye. The Department of Defense? Ag newspapers generally don't get much mail from the Defense Department. Denim and khaki don't blend very well.

I could have done without this piece of mail very easily, too.

The envelope contained a fancy report entitled: "The World Grain Economy and Climate Change to the Year 2000: Implications for Policy." It's Part III of another of those bureaucratic think-tank studies first begun way back in 1976 following the scare headlines about the world cooling down and the possible effect on farming.

In addition to questioning the overall worth of the study, which isn't much more than 50 pages of Washington D.C. jargon, I take strong objection to who did the study and why.

It was done by the National Defense University -- part of the Department of Defense.

President of this "university" is a lieutenant general in the Air Force (ours naturally).

Even the postage to mail out the report is paid by the Department of the Army.

Other cooperating groups and agencies included the USDA, Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and the Institute for the Future, of Menlo Park, Calif..

To any of these groups and particularly Ag Sec. Block, I'd like to pose a couple of questions:

Why is such a study about our possible future capability to produce food done by the Defense Department?

And, why is the bottom line of this study stress the possible use of food as a weapon to shape future international policy?

Also, I'd like to know if these fancy futurists with the $2.00 words like "scenarios" and "methodology" are ever going to learn the bitter lesson of using food as a weapon.

Each time food has been used as a political weapon American farmers have paid and paid dearly.

How many grain embargoes must backfire for the lesson to sink into the thick skulls of our national leaders?

Two paragraphs from the foreword of the study by Lt. Gen. John S. Putsay, USAF, president of the National Defense University, should stick in the craw of every farmer in the country:

"Another development (of earlier parts of the study), not totally unexpected, has been the relevance of study results to U.S. national policymaking. The study team anticipated that the research, although highly technical in its early stages, would ultimately have implications for national security. The team was pleased to note the Carter administration's responses to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan took cognizance of the conclusions of draft copies of the reports sent to high-level policymakers in key agencies. NDU is equally pleased that a draft of this concluding report is being integrated into the report of the Reagan administration's Global Issues Working Group.

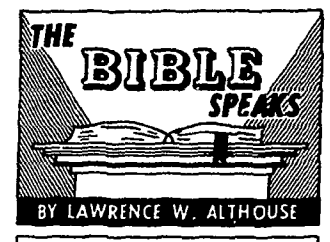
"The role of U.S. "food power" in U.S. policies remains unresolved, and this report is helpful to the continuing discussion. A major conclusion of the study is that the United States can consider its proper role in the world food situation for the rest of the century without great fear that major climatic changes will significantly upset the calculations. This study provides the scientific base which enables planners to have at least some degree of confidence that their plans will not be undermined by climatic change."

In plain English, the report and the National Defense University is not only taking credit for helping to bring about the Afghanistan grain embargo, but says that climate changes should not have much effect on using the same tactic in the future.

I have only one comment, actually two, for General Putsay and the Defense Department:

Get out of agriculture.

And, stay out.



MORE THAN A SURVIVOR
August 28, 1983

Background Scripture: Esther.
Devotional Reading: Psalms 31: 19-24.

"I'm a survivor" has become an increasingly universal creed. It is based on a conviction that, no matter what may come upon us, the most important thing is for us to find some way to survive the experience. It may mean compromising one's principles, submitting to humiliation, and even participating in some form of evil or debasing activity - so long as it enables us to survive.

Eyed in the cold light of reason and morality, it must be evident to us that, although being a "survivor" is greatly to be desired, it is something that should not be bought at the price of our own damnation. The problem is that when we are confronted by this choice - between surviving and maintaining our integrity - reason and morality are often clouded by our instinct towards self-preservation.

IN THE KING'S PALACE

The story of Esther - or Hadassah - is a shining example for all of us who are tempted to choose survivorship over discipleship. Esther, as Queen to the powerful King Ahasuerus of Persia, must have assumed that she at least would be safe from the anti-semitic plots of Haman. She was shocked when she learned of his terrible plots against the Jews, yet she realized that there was nothing she could do, for it was forbidden for even a queen to attempt to interfere in the rule of her husband.

Mordecai, her adopted father and leader of the Jewish exiles, sent a message which startled her from her complaceny. "Think not that in the king's palace you will escape any more than all the other Jews." The king's palace, although it had seemed safe and secure to Esther, was no place to hide. For, even if she should escape physical harm from Haman, she would not escape the deep stain of guilt for having failed to speak for her people. "For if you keep silence at such a time as this," warned Mordecai's messengers, "relief and deliverance will rise for the Jews from another quarter, but you and your father's house will perish. And who knows whether you have not come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

HOLD A FAST

Mordecai's words were able to penetrate Esther's survivorship defenses. She knew that she had to at least try to save her people. She also realized that she needed help beyond herself and so she asked for spiritual support: "hold a fast on my behalf... I and my maids will also fast as you do." At last she saw things clearly and she made the response that guaranteed that she would be more than a survivor:... I will go to the king, though it is against the law; and if I perish, I perish.

Only thus did she become a survivor in the truest sense of the term.

To Be Alert For Silo Gas

The dry weather and heat stress has really affected the corn growth. Much of the corn did not develop ears, and stalk size was reduced to about one-half of normal size. This condition increases the danger of poisonous gases - known to farmers as "silo gas". We urge our farmers to discuss this hazard with their employees and all family members. These gases can develop from one day to 14 days after the silo is filled. Most of these gases have a chlorine-laundry bleach odor and irritate the eyes and respiratory system. Some are yellow, some brown and some colorless. Don't take any chances — warn all your people of the danger of silo gas.

Never enter a partly filled silo without running the blower for at least 15-20 minutes. These gases are heavier than air and will come down the chute and into the barn. Be very careful around recently filled silos this year.

To Prepare For Local Fairs

We are rapidly approaching the time for local fairs. These times should be happy events — but once in a while they are not because planning was not done ahead of time. This is the time to take necessary precautions to help prevent the possiblity of your taking diseases to the fair with your poultry or animals or bringing infection home to your farm.

Many fairs require health charts and specific tests or vaccinations for animals and poultry. Be sure to read the health regulations carefully. And, it doesn't hurt to be more strict than what the regulations may require. Animals or poultry with any form of communicable ailment should be left at home.

When animals or poultry leave the fair and go home, it's important to have a place where you can isolate them and observe them closely for a period of time before returning them to their herd mates. If in doubt, consult your veterinarian for advice.

To Apply For Gasoline Tax Refund

I would like to remind our farmers that applications for the Pennsylvania Liquid Fuel Tax Refund should be filed before September 30.

Farmers may apply for an 11 cent per gallon refund on all liquid fuels used in non-licensed tractors when used off the highway for agricultural purposes, or non-licensed power farm machinery used for actual farm work. This includes fuel used in all auxiliary engines or balers, elevators and other stationary equipment.

The liquid fuel tax is for all farm production fuel used between July 1, 1983 and June 30, 1983.

The people who have not already received applications should apply by writing: Board of Finance and Revenue, Room 409, Finance Building, Harrisburg, PA 17120 or by calling 717-787-3365.

Remember, applications received after September 30 will not be honored; they must be filed on time. The time to do it is now.

Keep in mind — this is not money the State is giving you — it's money you already paid, you are just applying to get it back. It may not seem like much but 11 cents per gallon on 5,000 gallons is $550.00.

To Determine Fertilizer Needs

The early fall months are good times to do soil testing and learn what fertilizers will be needed for the 1984 cropping season. When the fertilizer needs are known this fall, some of them can be applied to the soil, and others can be ordered. In this way the needed analysis of fertilizer is more available and the vegetative growth will have time to absorb some of the plant nutrients. This is especially true with alfalfa and some of the perennial grass crops. When soil tests are made in the fall, the land owner has more time to locate and deal for his lime and fertilizer needs.

Report supplied by USDA

Compared to last week's close, Slaughter Steers and Heifers ranged .75-1.25 lower through Wednesday of this week. Aside from some slight improvement Monday, prices trended lower daily, led downwards by a declining beef trade. Fairly liberal Slaughter rates also factored in the downturn, and a bearish tone governed the market at midweek. Steers under 1050 lbs. and Heifers under 950 lbs. again in narrow demand and discounted accordingly. Cows fully 1.00 higher. Bulls steady.

Steers comprised 47 pct of the week's receipts: Heifers 41 pct.; Cows 5 pct; Feeders 3 pct. Four day receipts 11874, last week 10097; year ago 9724.

STEERS: at the close scattered loads and part loads Choice 2-4, 1050-1300 lbs. 61.00-62.60; some 975-1050 lbs. 60.00-61.50. Load Choice, some Prime mostly 4's 1375 lbs. 61.00. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 975-1150 lbs. 59.00-61.50. Good 57.00-59.00. Good 2-3 Holsteins 1150-1250 lbs. 52.00-53.00.

HEIFERS: Scattered loads and part loads Choice 2-4 950-1050 lbs. 58.50-60.50; several lots 875-950 lbs. 57.00-58.50. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 900-1025 lbs. 56.00-58.00; some 875-925 lbs. 55.00-56.00. Good 52.00-56.00.

Average of LS-214 detailed quotations for 900-1100 lb. Choice Steers 61.50; 1100-1300 lbs. 62.52. Average cost Steers 61.57, average weight 1106 lbs. as compared 67.09 and 1120 lbs. a week ago. Average cost Heifers 58.88, average weight 989 lbs.; as compared 59.61 and 984 lbs. a week ago.

COWS: High Cutter, Utility and Commercial 1-3 38.00-40.00. Canner and Cutter 35.00-38.00.

BULLS: 1-2 1100-1700 lbs. 46.00-48.50.

Watch for shorebird migrations

UNIVERSITY PARK — Shorebirds such as sandpipers and plovers, flying south from the Artic Circle, are common around lakes and ponds in August. That's because the fall migration of shorebirds reaches its peak in Pennsylvania this month, says Merrill Wood, author of "Birds of Pennsylvania" and retired faculty member in zoology at Penn State.

Equally common migrants in Pennsylvania during August, he added, are herons such as the Great Blue Heron and the Great Egret. These are seen along shallow streams, lakes, and ponds.

One sure sign of fall migration is the appearance of the Solitary Sandpiper, Wood affirmed. This sandpiper often goes to the coasts of Argentina so it gets an early start from the tundras of the farm north. He said the peak migration of waterfowl, on the other hand, comes in late October.

Many surprising and interesting facts on birdlife can be found in "Birds of Pennsylvania", a paperback guidebook published by the Agricultural Experiment Station at Penn State. The volume features 201 original pen-and-ink drawings of the most common birds in Pennsylvania plus facts about 381 species found in the Commonwealth. It is printed in black and white.

The guidebook is available for $2.25, tax included, from "BIRDS", Department 6000, University Park, PA 16802. Checks or money orders should be payable to The Pennsylvania State University. At Penn State, copies are available in room 204 of the Agricultural Administration Building. When ordering by mail, allow at least two weeks for delivery.

A monthly description of Pennsylvania birdlife tells what may be seen throughout the year. For each species, the guidebook includes abundance, seasonal occurance, habits and status change, and general breeding and wintering ranges.

New sale record at Union Co. West End Fair

LAURELTON — The Union County West End Fair enjoyed another successful Junior Livestock Sale. The 54 animals belonging to Union Counties 4H and FFA members reached a new sales record of over $15,200.00. This new record surpassed last year's record sale by more than $2,300.00.

In the market steer category the 975 lb. Grand Champion Steer exhibited by Crystal Zechman brought $1.21 a lb. and was purchased by Dean Metzger of Metzger's Custom Butchering, Winfield. Reserve Champion Steer was exhibited by Crystal Knechel and was purchased by Ezra Yoder of Rock Oak Country Kitchen for $1.13 a lb.

In the market hog division the Grand Champion was exhibited by David Murphy, R.D. #1, Millmont. Murphy's champion 215 lb. FFA hog was purchased by the Hatfield Buying Station, Danville, for $2.10 a lb. Tri-County Bank, Mifflinburg, purchased the Reserve Champion Hog from Rodney Walter for $1.15 a lb.

4H member Patti Snook walked away with both top honors in the lamb category. Patti's 113 and 115 lb. Suffolk Cross lambs captured both the Grand Champion and Reserve Champion Lamb honors. The Grand Champion was sold to Clifford Valentine of the Lewisburg office of Farm Credit Service for $2.55 a lb. while the Reserve Champion was sold to Byerly Brothers Meats for $2.25 a lb.

In all, this year's sale included 13 steers, 27 hogs, and 14 lambs. Each member could sell 2 hogs, 2 lambs, or 1 steer at the sale that they raised as project animals in their respective clubs.

Reserve Champion Lamb owned by Patti Snook was purchased by Byerly Brothers Meats for $258.75.

Reserve Champion Market Hog exhibited by Rodney Walter was purchased by Lynn Shambach of Tri-County Bank, Mifflinburg for $261.05.

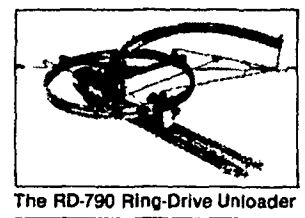
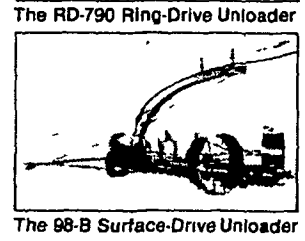
THE PATZ SOLUTION:



The RD-790 Ring-Drive Unloader



The 98-B Surface-Drive Unloader

Reliable Year-Round Feeding

Patz silo unloaders help you feed on schedule all year round. Both the Model RD-790 ring-drive unloader and Model 98-B surface-drive unloader feature a double-hook gathering chain with hardened steel cutters and claws that rip through frozen and packed silage to deliver a steady flow of silage day after day.

Sharp power cutters keep silo walls free of silage buildup. And your unloader starts free of obstruction at the push of a button.

See us today for details on how Patz silo unloaders take a little of the chore out of feeding time.

We are setup to serve you with a full line of Patz equipment and have a large inventory of parts in stock.

Our service man has several years experience working with Patz equipment, in both installation and repairs.

We are anxious to work with all Patz equipment users and future prospects.

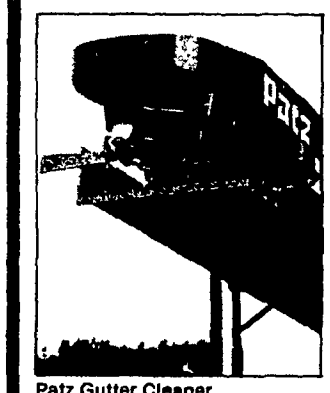
THE PATZ SOLUTION:



Patz Gutter Cleaner

Rugged, Dependable Gutter Cleaners

Patz makes gutter cleaners you can depend on year after year. The proven one-piece forged steel hook-and-eye link lets you adjust chain length or replace links and flites by hand, without tools. And steel flites feature wear shoes that withstand rugged wear.

Thinking of stacking manure? Consider a Patz Tripod Supported Stacker or a Swinging Slide Stacker. One motor and reducer run both the gutter cleaner and the stacker for economical operation.

See us today for more information on the Patz way to more reliable gutter cleaner performance.

Lancaster Co. fair season opens at E-Town

ELIZABETHTOWN — The Lancaster County fair season opens this coming week with the Elizabethtown Fair, which will feature the crowning of a Supreme Champion this year.

The Elizabethtown Fair begins a six-day run on Monday, which is devoted primarily to the receiving of entries.

Competition gets underway on Tuesday with the rabbit show at 10 a.m., the swine show at 4 p.m., the goat show at 7 p.m., followed by the bake show at 8 p.m.

The two main events on Wednesday are the sheep show at 11 a.m. and the beef show at 7 p.m.

Thursday's schedule includes the dairy show at 11 a.m., arts and crafts auction at 6 p.m., the crowning of the Supreme Champion at 7 p.m., followed immediately by the Sale of Champions. The Supreme Champion will be selected out of the champions of the dairy, beef, swine and sheep shows. A revolving cup trophy will be awarded.

On Friday, there's the Tractor Pull at 7 p.m. and the selection of Miss E-Town at 7:30 p.m.

The fair winds up next Saturday with the art and craft show, pet and animal parade and the arm wrestling contest.

The remaining Lancaster County fair schedule includes:

Ephrata Fair – Sept. 20-24.

West Lampeter Fair at Lampeter – Sept. 28-30.

New Holland Farmers Fair – Sept. 28 - Oct. 1

Manheim Fair – Oct. 3-7.

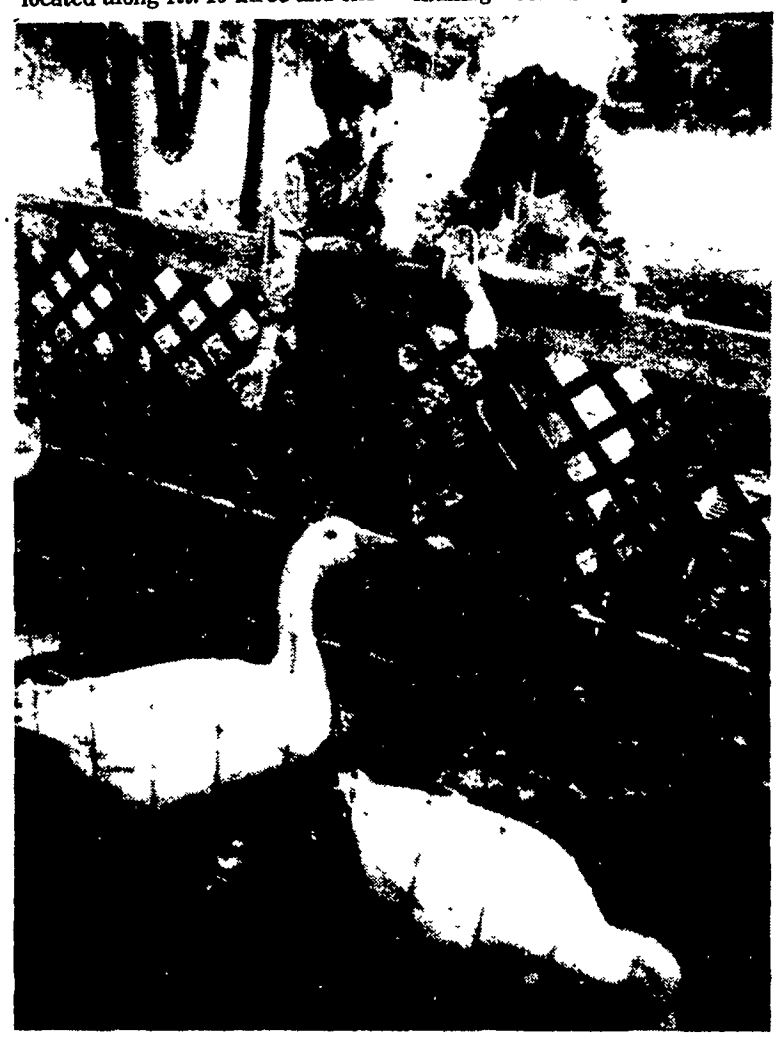
Hay Creek festival features engines

JOANNA FURNACE — One of the largest exhibits of turn-of-the-century stationary gasoline engines will be on display at the annual Hay Creek Valley Fall Festival at historic Joanna Furnace in Berks County Sept. 9-11.

The Fall Festival opens at 10 a.m. Friday, Sept. 9, and features a hoedown that evening. The site is located along Rt. 10 three and one-half miles north of the Pa. Turnpike Morgantown interchange.

The Hay Creek Valley Fall Festival is a 25-acre celebration where the sights, sounds, and smells of yesteryear come alive. The festival returns visitors to a time when people were friendlier and everything was homemade.

Visitors can enter the iron-making community of Joanna Furnace and examine the remains of the furnace stack, the blower/engine house, the office/store and various other structures. See how charcoal and pine tar pitch were made at Joanna Furnace, which is located in both the Pennsylvania and Nation Registers of historic sites.



Examine what is likely to be one of the largest technological history exhibits in Southeastern Pennsylvania. See huge traction engines, many over-50-year-old gasoline powered tractors and more than 100 turn-of-the-century stationary gasoline engines, all operating! Stroll through the Fall Festival and see the antique car display and numerous restored vehicles.

A blacksmith will handcraft exquisite kitchen utensils. Talk to the broom maker, the basket maker, wheelwright, coopers and many more.

See a steam powered threshing machine, sawmill, and shingle mill all operating. Taste freshly stone ground corn meal and pressed cider. Enter the old Hay Creek Valley and step back into time where the smells of hickory fires and coal fired steam engines saturate the woods and mountains.

Visitors can start out both Saturday and Sunday with a sausage and pancake breakfast from 6:30-9 a.m. At noon and again at 5 p.m. steam whistles announce that it is time to eat. On Saturday from noon to 5 p.m. there's a chicken barbecue with all the trimmings.

Cream comes to top in milk boat carton race

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

RISING SUN, MD. — Colorful flags cracking overhead in a sun-splashed breeze, a dozen "boats" slipped into the waters of the four-acre Lovdal Lake as the 1st Intergalactic Invitational Point to Point Milk Carton Boat Race got underway last Saturday afternoon.

Nearly 400 spectators cheered their favorites and applauded as some crafts immediately pulled ahead, with paddles - or arms and legs - flying furiously.

Other nautical creations sailed a bit more ponderously, taking erratic turns and hanging low in the water.

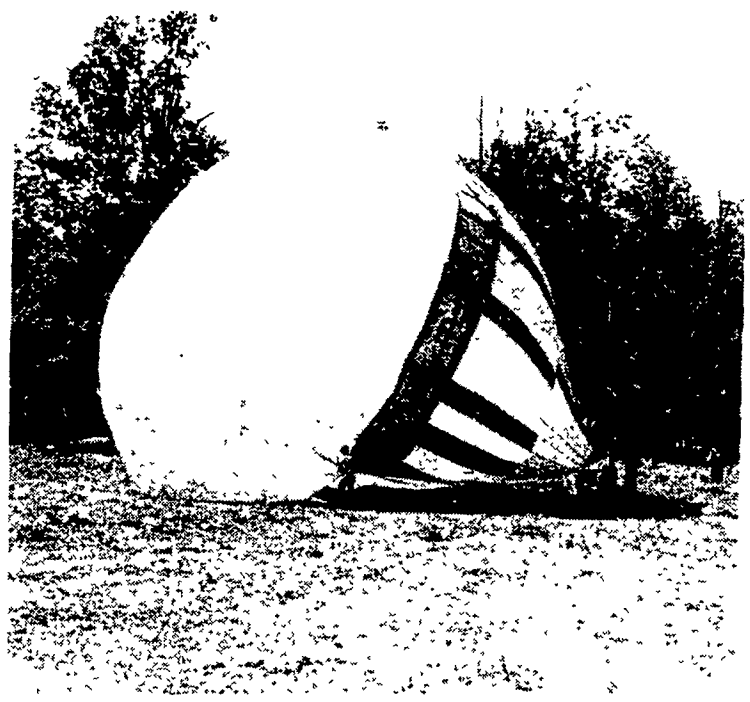
And a few floated back to shore – piece by piece.

Hosted by the Bob and Warren Knutsen families at their Lovdal Holstein Farm, south of Rising Sun, the great boat race was the brainchild of the dairymen brothers, who are active in various dairy industry organizations.

In the wake of intergalactic race

Lovidal Lake at Knutsen Farm showed trail of stray milk cartons as some craft needed a canoe tow back to shore.

Promotion not hot air



Added attraction was John Blair's hot air balloon with its "M-M-Milk" promotion.

Early trouble

Some crafts started disintegrating pretty quickly.

And they're off

Prone paddler on Cosmic gets off to good start and wins first heat.

Intended as both a milk promotion and a fund-raiser for the 12 invited church youth groups, the race generated nearly $1,000 and earned each group a minimum of $60.00, plus special prize cash awards.

Sponsors included Interstate Milk Producers, Dairymen, Inc., the Maryland Holstein Association and Sun Pharamacy, plus numerous contributors. Donations from the crowd also helped swell the coffers.

Paul Ayers, of Newak, Del., donated several old milk bottles for sale during the race. (Ayres, a milk memorabilia collector and owner of the Mooseum, was featured in Lancaster Farming in the June, 1982, dairy issue.)

Most entries were built of plastic milk jugs, with many using well over 100 of the containers in construction. Duct tape, glue, string and even baler twine were in evidence as part of the design in boats dubbed such labels as "Udderly Ridiculous," "Boat of Many Colors" and "The Last Resport."

A few, however, utilized cardboard cartons, with an abundance of staples.

Several area dairy princesses and farm queens comprised the judging team to select design awards. Heading the group was newly-crowned Maryland Dairy Princess Robin Hill, of Kent County.

Assisting her were dairy princesses Karen McMann, Baltimore and Harford County, and Denise Ambler, Chester County, Pa., and farm queens, Shelly Krause, Cecil County, and Carrie Pringle, Baltimore County.

An inspection committee, made up of representatives of sponsors, checked the boats for adherence to the race rules. Inspectors were Dick Hall, Interstate; Sam Foard, Dairymen, Inc.; and Raymond Armacost, Maryland Holstein Association's milk promotion committee.

Named the Prettiest Boat was the "Boat of Many Colors," created and crewed by members of the Elkton United Methodist Church. Congregation members assisted in saving the 131 plastic jugs in the design; and, according to a youth advisor, some even altered their milk buying habits to aid in the collecting.

Most original and the craft using the most milk containers was the "Cosmic Cow." a raft-type design made of 336 quart-size chocolate milk cartons.

(Turn to Page A24)

Summer job project

Paul Owens saved 170 half-gallon milk cartons on his summer job at a Boy Scout camp. It took him and his paddling partner Susan Johnson a week to put entry together.

Prettiest craft

Brown victorious at Fayette Co. Holstein Show

UNIONTOWN — After winning 10 firsts, two seconds and one third placing, Walter Brown, Connellsville, was well on his way to earning both the grand champion and reserve grand champion honors at the 14th annual Fayette County Black and White Show, Aug. 2.

From his seven individual first place winners, Brown's 3-year-old entry was named senior champion and grand champion overall. Circle-B Carlo Prince Vickie was sired by Kanzabrook Matt Carlo. Reserve honors went to Circle-B Carlo Marlene Lurie, a 4-year-old also sired by Carlo.

Brown's remaining three first place earnings were in the best three females, produce of dam, and the dam and daughter classes.

Showing the junior champion winner was Raymond Brown, Acme. Brown's senior yearling calf, Circle-B Michele Bootmaker, sired by Circle-B Bootmaker Marty, won the honor. The reserve heifer was an intermediate calf, Stonee-Ridge Persuader Amy Gem, owned by Randy Brown, Acme, and sired by Plushanski Persuader.

Named the show's grand champion bull was Feren-Valley Boots Ryan, a senior bull calf owned by Albert Michael Ferens, Dunbar, and sired by Sweet-Haven Lochinvar Boots.

The reserve title was won by Michael Ruby, Smock, and his junior bull calf, Ru-Be Charlene Marvex Conquest, sired by Lawcrest Marvex-Twin.

Lloyd Ebersole of Sire Power, Tunkhannock, served as show judge.

Championship trophy sponsors were Kevin Brown Tractor Sales, Southwest Dairy Supply, Uniontown Farm Equipment, Taurus Service Inc., Jackson Farms, American Breeders Service, W.C. Widdowson, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Leonard.

Walter Brown, Connellsville, and his 3-year-old Holstein were named the grand champion winners at the 14th annual Fayette County Black and White Show. The cow, named Circle-B Carlo Prince Vickie, was sired by Kanzabrook Matt Carlo.

Hort germplasm bank needed

UNIVERSITY PARK — The science of horticulture needs a "germplasm" bank to preserve the best basic plants and to move ahead in creating superior new varieties, declared the director of the U.S. National Arboretum, Washington, D.C., during an international meeting of seedsmen recently at Penn State.

"We have no germplasm bank of a single bedding plant," stated Henry M. Cathey, keynote speaker at a banquet heralding the 50th anniversary of All-American Selections, the national non-profit educational organization that evaluates new varieties of flowers and vegetables.

"Agronomists, on the other hand, are storing away their arsenal of prime plant species," he said. "These agromonists are exploring and collecting plants from their total geographical range and are preserving them for future generations of breeders."

Seedsmen from eight countries heard Cathey describe radical changes in product handling and variety of plants through the years. He claimed "great interest" exists among gardeners in planting hardy grasses, hardy ferns, and wild flowers that will clothe a garden for all seasons. Gardeners want plants that need only a minimum of transplanting, pinching, spraying, and pest management.

He noted that Ladybird Johnson, wife of the late president, has helped organize and fund a national organization to conduct research and distribute information on native wild flowers.

The Inernational Seedsmen's Conference at Penn State was attended by representatives of seven foreign countries — Canada, Costa Rica, Denmark, France, India, the Netherlands, and West Germany.

Fleuroselect, the European counterpart of All-America Selections (AAS), honored AAS with a certificate for 50 years of leadership in evaluating new varieties of vegetables and flowers.

Does your Barn Cleaner have a chain this strong?

Remember the tractor picture we used to demonstrate how strong our 5/8" barn cleaner really is? Well, we still use tough, durable chain links in our barn cleaners to assure years of highly dependable barn cleaning. Our chain has the toughest link around. No bolts or pins to shear . . . no hooks to straighten or break.

Smooth-running oval design offers more flex around the corners. Less power is needed. No nooks or crevices to trap corrosive acids. Dependable steel paddles are welded right to the links for long life. No pins or bolts to loosen. Steady, double-tooth sprocket drive. We use two teeth to drive the outside of the link for steadier drive, reduced wear. Easy, chain length adjustment with forged connector links.

We have conversion kits, too!
Give your present barn cleaner a new lease on life. Our replacement parts are adaptable to almost any make barn cleaner.

Look into highly dependable barn cleaning. Call your nearby Cornell dealer or give us a call: (717) 869-1227

TYRONE — If you're looking for an efficient feeding and record program for your beef operation, or if you're interested in keeping abreast of current livestock legislation, then you'll want to meet one Huntington County cattleman who says he's willing to offer his help to keep the beef industry healthy.

Whether sponsoring a tour of his farm or meeting with cattlemen throughout the state, J. Paul Espy shares his farming "secrets" with others, hoping that his help will have a positive effect on the beef industry.

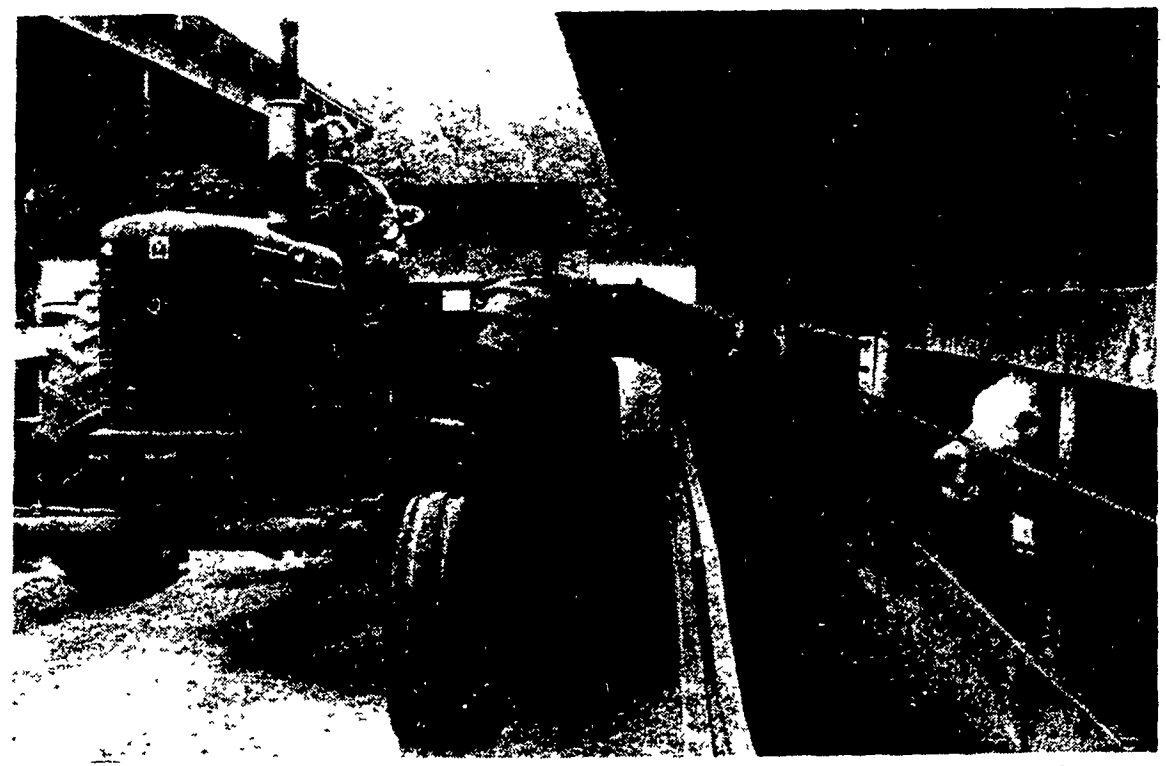
"I want to see the industry kept healthy," Espy confirms, "and I'm willing to offer my help."

Espy, president of the Pennsylvania Beef Council, owns a 650-acre feeder cattle operation in the Spruce Creek Valley near Tyrone. Starting his business in 1972, Espy has increased his yearling marketing quota from 400 to 1000 cattle.

Espy credits his record-keeping system, considered by many as one of the best in the state, for his success. Through his records, Espy says he knows where and where not to buy cattle. This is accomplished by comparing the records of individual cattle.

"Determining the performance of different breeds of cattle, their frame size and their origin," Espy says, "are the most important reasons why I keep an up-to-date record system."

When the cattle are bought, they are immediately recorded in the books. Espy records their ear tag number, the date purchased, the cattle breed, their origin, the cattle's weight when purchased, full feed, the cattle's weight when sold, and the selling date. Also recorded is the rate of gain per day.



With the help of Bill Showalter, the current 700 cattle on Paul Espy's Greenridge Farm are fed a total mixed ration twice daily. The feed is mixed in a mixing wagon equipped with an electronic scales for an accurate measure of the feed and feedstuffs.

J. Paul Espy, president of the Pennsylvania Beef Council, is concerned with the marketing and promotion of Pennsylvania beef, saying if cattle aren't marketed, there won't be much beef production in the state in 10 years.

By watching the rate of daily gain, Espy determines when an animal should be sold.

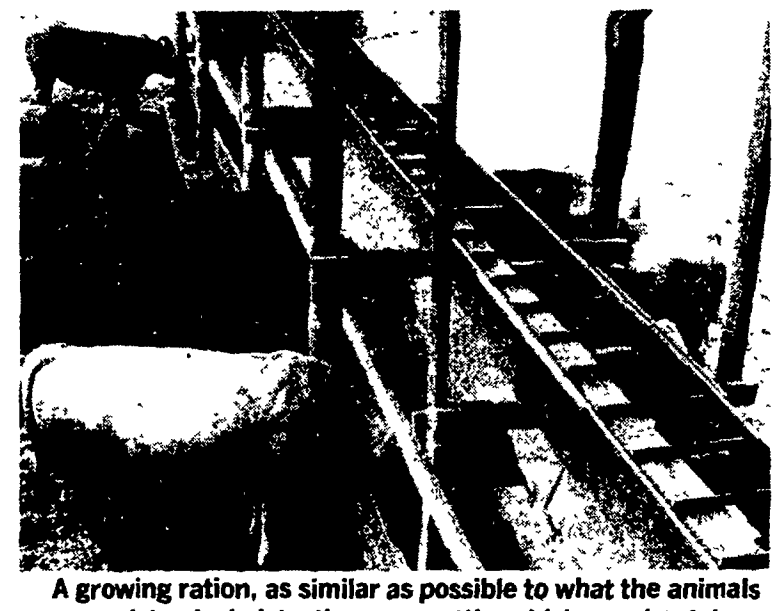
"The cattle are weighed every three weeks," he says, "and once the rate of gain drops below two and a half pounds from the previous weight, I think about selling them."

Currently, the cattle on Espy's Greenridge Farm are averaging a daily rate gain of two and three-fourths pounds per head. This gain is maintained through a total mixed ration consisting of corn silage, high moisture corn, shelled corn, alfalfa haylage and minerals.

Espy buys his cattle, weighing between 600 to 800 pounds, and feeds them to approximately 1200 pounds. Newly purchased cattle are kept in a starting pen and fed a ration similar to what they are used to.

A growing ration is fed to the cattle for about three weeks. The ration is 25 percent ground shelled corn, 60 percent corn silage and 15 percent alfalfa haylage. Mixed in are minerals and Bovatec, a substance that enables cattle to get more out of the feed as it goes through the stomach, Espy explains.

When the cattle reach 900 pounds, they are switched to a finishing ration consisting of 30 percent shelled corn, 20 percent high moisture ground corn, 42 percent corn silage and eight percent alfalfa haylage. Minerals and Bovatec are again added.



A growing ration, as similar as possible to what the animals are used to, is fed to the new cattle which are kept in a starting pen. The ration is fed for two to three weeks.

The feed is mixed in a mixing wagon equipped with electronic scales, Espy explains, and the cattle are fed from a bunk. With the scales, the feed is measured and the proper proportions are determined. A chart is placed on the front of the wagon, listing the requirements for both the growing and finishing rations.

Espy grows all his own feed and says he got a 20 percent increase in production from his crops last year. He attributes this to his manure handling procedures. The manure is removed from the feedlots twice a week and is stored in an in-ground pit. The manure is then hauled out and injected into the soil.

"This method (injecting manure into the soil) helps to minimize run-off," Espy says, "and maintains a majority of the nitrogen."

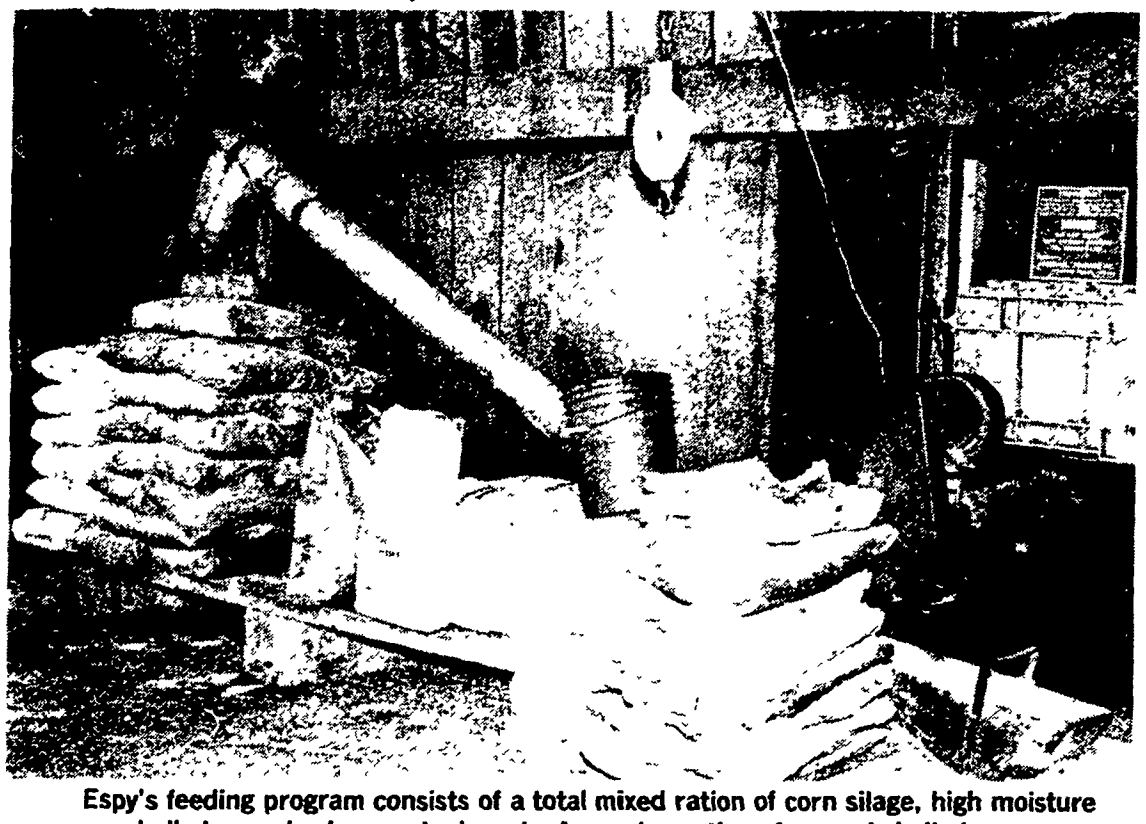
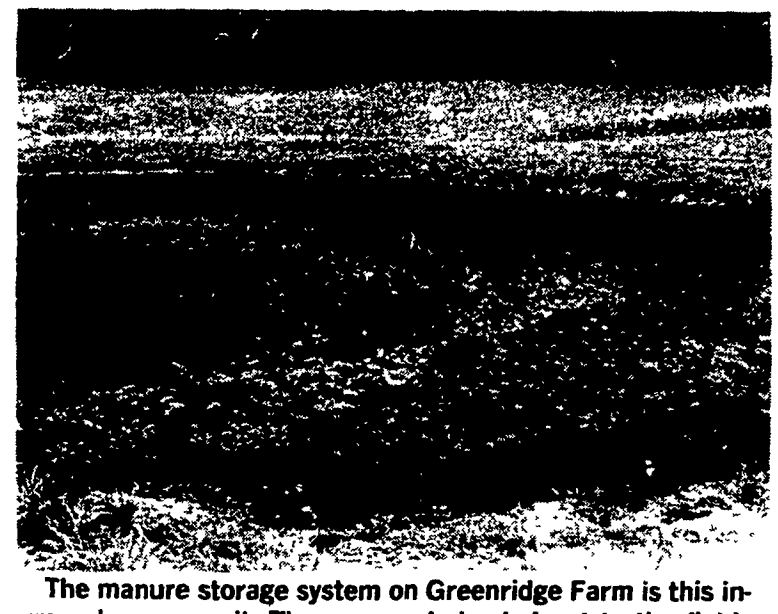
(Turn to Page A38)



Espy's feeding program consists of a total mixed ration of corn silage, high moisture corn, shelled corn, haylage and minerals. A growing ration of ground shelled corn, corn silage and alfalfa haylage is fed to the under 900 pounds cattle, and those over 900 pounds receive a finishing ration of shelled corn, high moisture ground corn, corn silage and haylage.



The manure storage system on Greenridge Farm is this in-ground manure pit. The manure is hauled out to the fields and injected into the soil, a method Espy says minimizes run-off and maintains a majority of the nitrogen.

Byler 3-year-old wins Huntingdon Fair, Central Pa. honors

BY PATTY GROSS MOCK
Staff Correspondent

HUNTINGDON — An outstanding three-year-old cow owned by Jefferson Byler, R1 Petersburg, went home with the highest award last Saturday following the Central Championship Holstein Show at the Huntingdon County Fairgrounds.

Byerlawn Correlation Spice first caught the eye of Judge Lowell Lindsey, Guelph, Ontario, Canada, in her 3-year-old division. From that time on "Spice" was a winner everytime she walked into the show ring. The first place blue ribbon in her class was followed by the best udder of the group and the show's best female - bred and owned by exhibitor. She was selected the senior champion female, which was finally topped by the honor of grand champion.

A Kishview Correlation daughter, the champion Holstein is out of Byerlawn Riley Blossom.

The applause filled night brought a busy, but worthwhile week to a close for the Byler family. The premier dairy animal was named grand champion of the Huntingdon County Fair earlier in the week. Talk around the dairy barns was that "Spice" would be tough to beat in the championship show. Those veteran showmen knew what they were walking about.

She edged out the aged cow entry by Singing Brook Farms. Singing Brook J Dale, owned by the Obie Snider family, Imler, captured the reserve grand champion of the Central Region Show.

The reserve champion, sired by Paclamar Astro Jet, is out of Singing Brook BE Daisey. She garnered several other high ranking prizes, including first place aged cow, best udder and production of her class and reserve senior champion.

The brilliant showing of Singing Brook Farms paid off when it was announced that the Snider family won the premier breeder award of the show. Singing Brook also surpassed other entries by walking away with the best three females and the dam and daughter class.

Premier exhibitor of the show was awarded to the John Foster family, Globe Run Farms, Petersburg. The Foste's excellent exhibiting has seen Globe Run Farms enter the winners circle many times over the years making this their 25th year of showing cattle.

Junior championship and Reserve championship honors were earned by Paul and Sharon Fox, Golden-Circle, Rockwood. They also won best 3 females in the junior division.

Approximately 150 quality Holsteins participated in the show, chaired by John Foster, Jr. of Globe-Run Farms, Petersburg. The judge complimented the superb animals parading before him in the ring. Stating that the Central Region Championship Holstein Show is a real fine group of cattle judge Lindsey went on to tell the recording-setting attendance that it is a wonderful show to be proud of.

The top three placings in each class follow
Junior Bull Calf 1 Raymond Edwards 2 Jefferson Byler, 3 E James McMath
Senior Bull Calf 1 Charlene Pearce
Junior Yearling Bull 1 Terry Branstetter & Steven Hoover, 2 Charles Hershberger 3 Allenor Holstein Farm
Senior Yearling Bull 1 R Wayne Harpster
Champion Bull - Terry Branstetter & Steven Hoover
Reserve Champion Bull Charles Hershberger

Overall winner was the "S.S. Bongo" and its crew from the Colony Baptist Youth, Rising Sun.

A special "Titanic" award, given to the entry that went down "with the most class," went to the S.S. Caterers, of Rising Sun Methodist Church.

As the last milk jugs were going down, a milk-promoting hot-air balloon was being inflated by a ground crew that included members of a New Jersey dairy farm family.

The John Hubschmidt family was lending a hand with the giant floating aircraft and helping owner, John Blair, Bridgeton, N.J.

Martha Hubschmidt originated the milk promotion idea when her brother, Blair, put together his hot air craft. She stitched together a 6-foot by 40-foot banner that reads "M-M-Milk" in 5-foot letters, and is attached to the side of the balloon.

Truly a "homemade design," the nylon sections of the balloon were each cut by Blair from special nylon parachute fabric, numbered and stitched together on a sewing machine.

Blair then wove a gondola basket of wicker to carry him and his equipment, and a passenger or two.

Although the Blair-Hubschmidt ground crew had the balloon partially filled with propane-heated air, a brisk wind prevented the planned launch.

However, the craft has flown its milk promotion message several times this summer, including appearances at the county fair and dairy day.

The Hubschmidt's milk 120 registered Holsteins on their Hubby's Holstein Farm at Bridgeton, N.J.

Cosmic cow, built of chocolate milk cartons, was picked most original and highest carton-count winner with 336 cartons.

Queens Manor dominates NW Pa. Holstein Show

MEADVILLE — Queens Manor Leadfield Associates, which dominated the earlier Western Pa. Championship Show, outdid itself at the Northwest Pa. Holstein Show at the Crawford County Fairgrounds on Wednesday.

Queens Manor's Ed Doeberiener collected 14 blues, including the senior and grand champion laurels in the 413-entry field at Wednesday's show. In the W. Pa. Championship the Leadfield Associates string had garnered 12 blues.

The senior and grand champion is a senior two-year-old, C. Apoulo Fenelope Fury, classified VG-87, and owned by Queens Manor Alstar Holsteins and Brubacher Brothers. Breeder is Reagan Daigle.

Fury earlier had taken first-place in the three-year-old class at the Quebec Spring Show, where age grouping is different. Sired by Mississippi Fury, her dam is Apaulo Baronet Penelope. She was also an honorable mention senior yearling All American in 1982.

In all, the Queens Manor Leadfield entries took blues in junior calf, senior yearling, junior get of sire, dry cow four years and under, dry cow five years and over, junior two year old, senior two year old (the senior and grand champion), five year old, best udder by owner bred, best 3 females, produce of dam, daughter-dam, dairy herd and senior bull calf (champion bull).

Queens Manor also was the Premier Breeder and Exhibitor.

The Reserve Grand Champion was shown by Morrell Farms, of R3 Cochranton. Merrillea Citamatt Marie, bred by Alan Merrill, took first place in the three year olds.

The reserve champ's sire is Sir Glenridge Citamatt and the dam is Frogmore High Mia. The granddam has records to 19,322 milk and 779 fat and is classified VG-88.

The reserve champion bull, the second place senior bull calf, was exhibited by Marlene Baxter, of Stoneboro, Mercer County. She also had the reserve junior champion, the second place senior yearling.

The junior champion was shown by Justin Doeberiener. She was the first place senior yearling.

Records broken at Venango Fair sale

BY NANCY KUNICK
Staff Correspondent

FRANKLIN — Sixty head of livestock were sold at the Venango Co. 4-H Market Livestock Sale last week at the Venango Fair. Record prices were set for the Grand Champion Market Lamb, Grand Champion Market Hog and Reserve Champion Hog.

The Grand Champion Market Hog owned by Jeff Ritts of Seneca sold for $5.50 per pound. The 245 lb. porker was purchased by Fryburg Roller Mills. The shattered record of $3.00 stood only since 1982.

Also outdone was the 1982 Reserve Champion Hog price of $2.80 per pound. Jeff's brother Scott owned the Reserve Hog which weighed in at 235 lbs. and was purchased by the First National Bank of Franklin for $3.50 per lb.

Also at the 8th annual 4-H Market Livestock Sale April McQuistons' six-month-old, 125 pound Suffolk took the spotlight as he sold for $5.75 per lb. to the First National Bank. Top dollar had been $3.50 paid in 1980. April is a 4-Her from Harrisville. She mentioned that her lamb was "sold" again to raise money for a new PA system.

Reserve Grand Champion Market Lamb sold for $3.25 per lb. to Titusville Agway. The 115 pound lamb was owned by Bonnie Ross, a member of the Cherrytree Chargers 4-H Club, from Titusville.

Lamb owners have another chance to garner a Grand Champion at Venango. Dick Shaffer, leader of the Cherrytree Chargers, mentioned that there is a "pair of lambs" class. These are then sold as a pair at the Livestock Sale.

This year Grand Champion Market Pair of Lambs went to Taylor Cotton. He was paid $1.45 per lb. by Gahrs Market for a total of 246 pounds. Reserve Gr. Ch. pair owner Darrin Shaffer received $1.20 per lb. for 259 lbs. of lamb from Mowry Meats.

Shaffer pointed out this was the first year 4-Hers were limited in the number of projects they could sell. "They can sell two projects", he said. This means they could sell a pair of lambs as one project and still have a lamb, hog or steer. They are limited to one steer though.

Grand Champion Market Steer sold for $1.80 per pound. The buyer for the 1200 lb. animal was Fryburg Roller Mills. Owner Troy Shearer was proud of his Simmental Hereford.

The 1400 lb. Reserve Champion Steer sold to Titusville Agway for $1.10 per pound. Lori Gilliland of Emlenton of Venango County owned the Simmental Hereford.

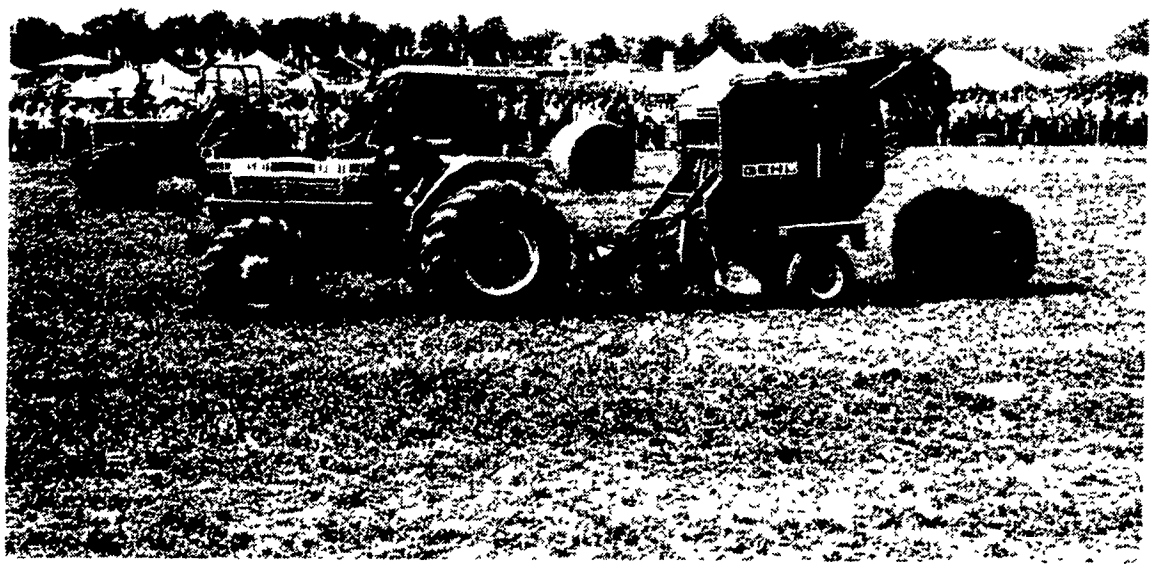
Memorial Apple Museum, a collection of apple tree varieties. The museum was constructed to preserve the varieties grown throughout Pennsylvania.

Although Ag Progress Days was considered a success by this year's officials, plans for next year's event got underway yesterday. Under the leadership of Joseph Harrington, Penn State professor of agronomy and overall chairman of Ag Progress Days, the committee begins immediately to evaluate the event and look for improvements.

This is important, Smith said, to begin planning for 1984 while everyone's thoughts are fresh in mind.



Scranton addresses Republican outing at Penns Cave

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

CENTRE HALL — Lt. Governor William Scranton addressed a large gathering of Republicans Tuesday evening, as the Centre County Republican Committee and the Pennsylvania Ag Republicans met at Penns Cave for their summer outing.

Centre County GOP Committee Chairman Floyd Fisher welcomed Republican party members from across the state and introduced honored guests, including, Secretary of Agriculture Penrose Hallowell, Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Chester Heim, Senator J. Doyle Corman, Representative William F. Clinger, and Centre County Representative Lynn B. Herman.

Hallowell commended the Pennsylvania Ag Republicans for their work, and said due to the success of their efforts he has recently been entertaining questions from Republicans in New York state who are looking to form a similar organization in their state.

The gala event that drew over 200 Repulbicans included a chicken barbecue, musical entertainment and the opportunity for social exchange.

Following the barbecue Lt. Governor William Scranton addressed the group, atop a flatbed wagon. Talking about the Republican party, he said, that we are seeing a tremendous resurgence of a state that has been traditionally Democratic.

"We are a state facing, at this time in our history, an enormous economic, political and social challenge," said Scranton. "We are a state that in many ways founded this nation politically. We are a state that in many ways founded this nation economically, with the industrial revolution, and we are now facing a new era. We are facing an era of economic challenge from our 49 other states, and from many nations of the world."

"We are facing an economic challenge from technology and from dominace of the large industries of the industrial revolution. And we are facing a time when this very proud and very strong industrial state must show the leadership it takes to adapt to the realities of a new time."

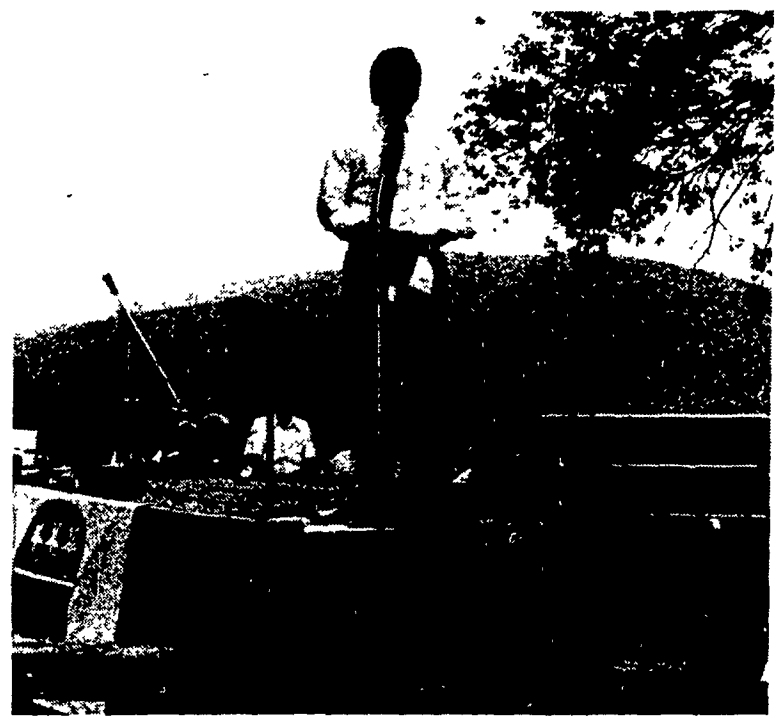
"I think the ability for that type of leadership resides in the Republican party," said Scranton.

"It is going to be very important that we as a party, show this state and demonstrate to the people of this state that we as a Commonwealth have what it takes to meet the enormous challenges that face us."

"And one of the ways that we are going to do that, one of the ways we are going to prove to ourselves as a state, I am positive, is not to turn our backs on what has been our traditional strengths, but to improve upon them, nurture them, and to make them work for a very proud and better future. And there is no more and no greater strength of importance to Pennsylvania historically than Pennsylvania agriculture."

Scranton urged fellow Republicans to attend Ag Progress Days, "It is a tremendous experience," he said, "not just because you get to see a lot of fancy equipment, and not just because you get to talk to a lot of fine people and eat a lot of very good food. But because you get a sense of the richness and diversity, and the excitement and even the experimentation that is going on in Pennsylvania agriculture. And you begin to understand that what has been a traditional strength of Pennsylvania, can very much be a strength of this state in the very difficult years we face ahead in the future."

In his closing remarks, Scranton urged party members to work for the election of Republicans to the judicial branch of government. He said, "We in Harrisburg can work for days, weeks, and months on end to introduce legislation that makes sense, only to have those decisions turned around months later by the judicial branch of government.



Lt. Governor William Scranton addressed a gathering of the Centre County Republican Committee and the Pennsylvania Ag Republicans from atop a hay wagon.

Morris addresses Penn Ag Democrats

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

STATE COLLEGE — Samuel Morris, chairman of the Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, was the featured speaker at the annual luncheon of the Penn Ag Democrats.

Boyd E. Wolff, chairman of the Penn Ag Democrats, welcomed members and introduced invited guests to the luncheon at the State College, Holiday Inn, held in conjunction with Ag Progress Days.

In his opening remarks, Wolff reported a continued growth of the organization, with current membership now at 118. Senator Michael A. O'Pake, a member of the Senate Ag Committee of Pennsylvania, said that he sensed the growth of the Penn Ag Democrats and their interest in agricultural policy in Pennsylvania, and encouraged them to keep in contact with legislators.

Morris, who gave regrets that he could not kick off his talk with a good news-bad news joke for lack of good news, said that despite difficult economic times and the serious drought that is plaguing farmers, legislators are working on new programs to correct some of the injustices confronting them.

Speaking about the troubled milk security, Morris said, the situation is unfortunate, with the funds depleted by three previous bankruptcies it does not look like there will be any money available for Schep's producers.

"We need something different," said Morris, referring to the current Milk Security Fund. "We are thinking seriously of reworking the fund, modeling a plan similiar to the that used in Wisconsin."

The Wisconsin milk security plan requires semi-annual reporting from the milk dealers, explained Morris, and it has an established ratio of liabilities to assets, once the ratio drops below the established level, contributions are automatically collected. Under this plan farmers are paid first, other creditors receive payment after the farmers.

"This is one area," said Morris, "where we need more regulation. We need to meet with Sen. O'Connell who is the father of the Milk Security Fund."

Morris reported that he is on a committee currently drafting a revision of House Bill 115, the Agricultural Development Authority bill. Morris said the bill needs state appropriations. It is an attempt to help young farmers get started in the business, and keep our stock of farmland in agricultural production, by providing low interest loans. It is not intended to further the commodity surplus problem, but it is intended to provide a means for young farmers to take over the family farm or a similar farm.

Morris encouraged farmers and legislators to get involved in directing legislation concerning non-point pollution of water, before the EPA forces regulation on farmers.

"There is no word yet on disaster relief for farmers effected by the drought," reported Morris.

A meeting of the executive committee followed the luncheon.

Tested boars sell to educated buyers at Penn State

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

UNIVERSITY PARK — Dr. Paul Wangsness, head of Penn State's Dairy and Animal Science Department, greeted buyers and spectators to Pennsylvania's 6th Performance Tested Boar Sale, Wednesday evening. The outdoor sale held at the Pa. Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center, was graced with beautiful weather. The sale was sponsored by the Pa. Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with Penn State University and the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council.

In his salutations, Wangness said, that every businessman in pork production is looking for some advantage to help their program. He said, "We hope that buying a performance tested boar will give you that advantage."

Before the sale began Elwood Houser, president of the Pa. Pork Producers Council, with assistance from the audience, drew the names of four winners to receive $100 each against the purchase of any of the boars sold that evening. The four winning names drawn from the barrel were, Glen Tothrow, Dennis Cooper, Dwayne Aurand, and Leon St. Clair.

With blue skies jutting through the skeletal-like structure of the Ag Arena under construction in the background, auctioneer Harry Bachman, joked with the spectators to run for it's cover in case of rain. But it couldn't have been a more pleasant evening for the event, as 47 boars from 16 breeders sold while the sun, setting behind Beaver Stadium, slowly dimmed to darkness as the sale ended.

All the boars sold were performance tested on the same criteria. All the boars were fed for rapid growth under test conditions. The boars were five to seven months of age.

Requirements of the sale stipulated that all boars sold must have an index of 90 or more points, a soundness score of 2 or more, and an underline score of 2 or more.

The average boar of this group was indexed at 100 points. If a boar is indexed at 120 points, it is considered to be 20 percent better than the average boar tested.

Scoring was done by a committee of three, as boars came off test, according to the National Swine Improvement federation recommendations, using a range of 1 to 3, with 3 being ideal. Boars were rescored by the sale committee prior to the sale.

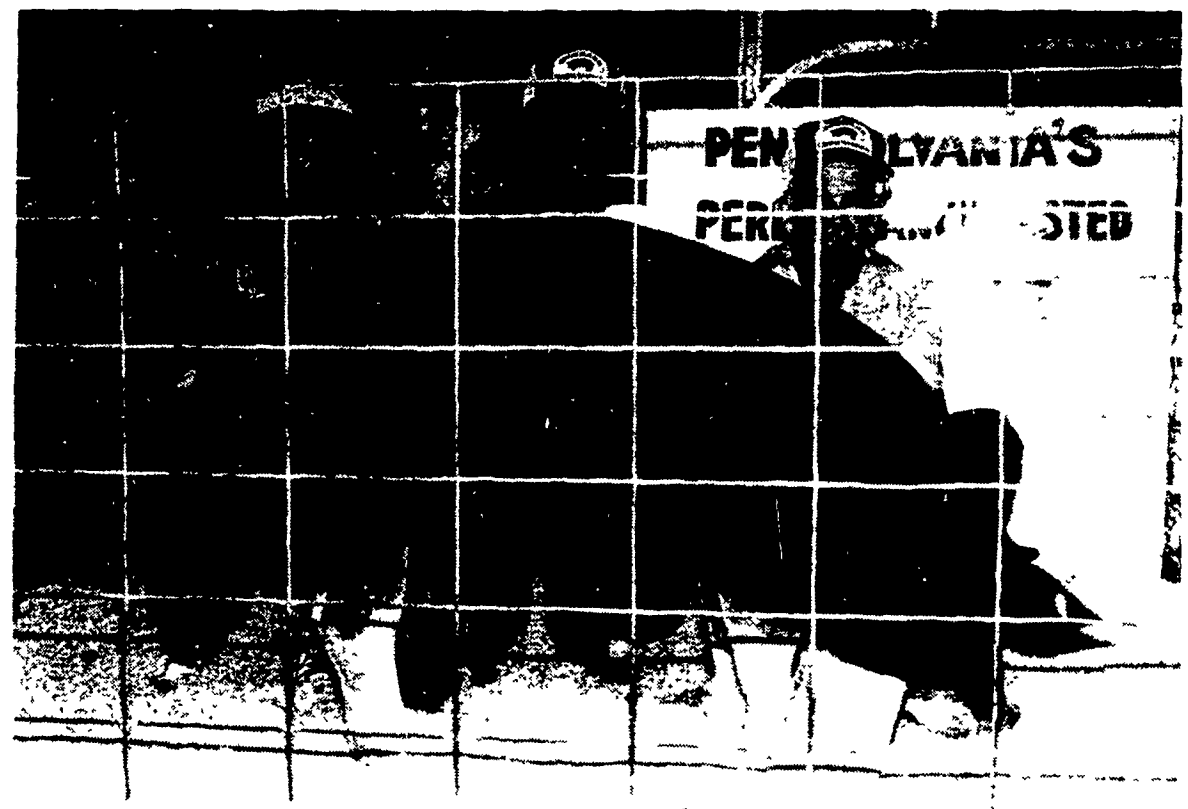
Since coming off test, boars were fed 4.5 pounds of feed on the floor daily and allowed to run on a runway beside other boars, to increase their aggressiveness, sexual maturity, hardiness, soundness, and desire to breed. to breed.

Listed in the accompanying table are the more critical values of the 10 selling boars in the sale. Buyers were given additional data for each of the boars, including, starting weight, number of litter mates, gain ratio, fat ratio, loin eye and lean cut percentage.

Top selling boar in the sale was a Yorkshire consigned by Miller's Yorkshire Farm of Spring Grove. The boar indexed at 129, with a daily of 2.36 pounds sold for $1050 to Hillside Acres, Lenhartsville.

After all the figures were tallied, Bob Kimble, manager of the Meat Evaluation Center, had a good sale report to give, with a sale average of $506.81 for the 44 head sold, and a sale total of $22,300.

Two Berkshire boars sold for an average of $450. Eight Hampshires sold for an average of $637.50. Five Landgrace boars sold for an average of $460. Sixteen Yorkshire boars sold for an average of $535.93. Thirteen Durocs sold for an average of $417.30.



The number one selling boar in the performance Tested Boar Sale, was this Berkshire, consgined by Clayton Winebark, on the right. The boar was purchased by J. Richard Townsend of Fayette County to upgrade his commercial pork breeding program. Debbie and Shelly Townsend also pictured, will use the boar to breed gilts this fall to farrow in February and March for showing pigs in next year's Fayette County Fair.

Gleam shines at Holstein Ag Progress Sale

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

CENTRE HALL — Many of Pennsylvania's Holstein breeders elected to drive to Centre County on Tuesday to attend this year's Ag Progress Day. But when Ag Progress Days closed at 5 p.m. those Holstein breeders didn't drive home, they headed due east on route 45 to Centre Hall, where they attended the Holstein Ag Progress Sale. The sale was held at the Grange Fair Grounds and was sponsored by the Mifflin County and Centre County Holstein Clubs, with assistance from the Penna. Holstein Association.

Auctioneers, Mark Glick of Belleville, and V. Art Kling of Landisburg, did the selling honors, as 46 of Central Pennsylvania's finest Holsteins were led across the auction block.

Selections for the sale were made by Roger T. Green and Jay Howes of Warriors Mark. Green also served as sale chairman. Howes assisted the two auctioneers and buyers by reading the pedigrees.

Ebon-Blanc Tradition Gleam an eight-month-old heifer with papers pending, brought the highest bid, topping the sale at $3700. The Gleam heifer was bred and consigned by Centre County young dairyman Thomas Hartle, Lonely Spot Farm, Bellfonte. Hartle shares his dairy cattle judging and selection expertise with Centre County 4-H'ers as a volunteer coach of the County's 4-H dairy judging team.

Roger Green purchased the Gleam heifer for Amelio Curti, of Wakena, Calif. Gleam's dam, All That Glitters Glows, in her first lactation has made a 151 day record of 10,417 pounds of milk and 313 pounds of fat, she is projected to make a 305 day first lactation record of 17,871 milk and 567 fat.

Gleam's granddam was classified VG as a three-year-old, she is projected at nearly 20,000 in her second lactation.

Gleam's third dam is rated EX-2E, with records over 23,000.

The second high seller was Bransdale Elevation Rosalie-ET, a yearling heifer, with three brothers in France, and a maternal brother, Brans. Redemption, in service at LABC.

Rosalie was consigned by Terry Branstetter, of Tyrone, she was purchased by Richard Whitlock of Em-Tran, Mt. Joy.

Rosalie's dam was rated VG 87 as a 5-year-old, and has records over 25,000 milk, 1100 fat as a 4-year-old.

Sale clerk Doug Hershey reported a sale average of $1475 on 46 head sold.

Use honey syrups

LANCASTER — Want to add a different taste to your canned fruits? Use a honey syrup. Almost any kind of fruit that can be processed can be packed with honey syrups.

Apricots - Process normally, but prepare the syrup by mixing 1 1/2 quarts of water with 1 3/4 cups honey (for 10 pounds of apricots). Boil the honey and water until all of the honey is dissolved, then pour over the packed apricots. Process normally.

Cherries - For enough syrup for 5 1/2 pounds of cherries, mix 1 1/2 cups of honey with 4 cups of water and boil until the honey is dissolved. Process the cherries as you would normally.

Peaches - Make the syrup for raw packed peaches from 1 1/2 quarts of water and 1 3/4 cups of honey. Boil the syrup until honey is dissolved. Makes enough for 10 pounds of peaches. Process normally.

Pears - For enough syrup for 50 medium sized pears, boil 2 quarts of water and 3 cups of honey together until all of the honey is dissolved. Process normally.

Most fruits can be canned with the raw pack method using either thin, medium or heavy syrups. Honey syrups can be made for this purpose.

Thin syrup - Mix 1 1/2 cups of honey to 4 cups of water. Boil until honey is dissolved. Makes 5 cups of thin syrup.

Medium syrup - Mix 2 cups of honey with 4 cups of water. Boil until honey is dissolved. Makes 5 1/2 cups of medium syrup.

Unleash pasture's milk potential with

UNIPEL® Pellet Power!

If you want to find out how much milk production potential a pasture really has, try a fertility program of UNIPEL 20-10-10 pelleted fertilizer.

Its Pellet Power will get responses you'll like. Protein content and total digestible nutrients of grass and hay will start to increase dramatically. You'll produce more nutritious forage, graze more cattle and graze them longer. Pastures will bounce back faster after grazing and cutting, too.

Quick-acting and long-lasting forms of Nitrogen and Phosphorus chemically combine with available Potassium in each individual pellet for immediate and season-long feeding. They fortify pastures with milk-producing power... Spring, Summer and Fall.

Let's discuss soon how UNIPEL 20-10-10 fertilizer can help your pasture to more milk-producing profits.

50 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN FEED LIQUIDS

Colored breed winners picked at Kutztown

BY ROBIN PHILLIPS
Staff Correspondent

KUTZTOWN — There were two major changes to the 1983 Kutztown Fair and both added to the comfort and spaciousness of the dairy cattle being exhibited there. This year the dairy show was split. The Holstein show was featured on Monday evening and the Holsteins were excused Tuesday evening to make room for the Colored breeds to move in on Wednesday morning, and were shown on Thursday night.

This, along with the addition of an enclosed wash rack, made the fair a much more pleasureable experience for all exhibitors and even with the many spectators moving through the isles to view the cattle there was never any overcrowding the entire week. Although most of the youth missed having friends there with the other breeds, all exhibitors are looking forward to the addition of a new dairy barn, tentatively scheduled for next year. In previous years a tent was used, but because of several close calls with storms knocking the tent down on cattle, it was decided to go with the less desireable, but safer, split show for 1983.

The biggest show of the Colored breeds was the Guernsey show with over 40 entries. Foxie Springs Falcon Lady, owned by Jon Andrew Zollers (Andy), Mertztown, was awarded the Grand Championship rosette. Andy Zollers was not present to show his Champion 5 year old since he is in Sweden on the Rotary Exchange program. But, when he left, he and his family met Tenna Ross, a Rotary Exchange student from New Zealand. "I just met them when I met their son, Andy, and they said, would you like to show some cows, and I said 'great' ", explains Tenna. Tenna was at the Kutztown Fair this week with the Zollers family and showed the Grand Champion for Andy.

Tenna lives on a dairy farm in New Zealand, milking Holsteins and Ayrshires. On Wednesday evening at the fair, she gave a slide presentation about her country to all exhibitors and spectators in the big show ring. She has been in the states for seven months, traveling to different host families throughout the United States every three months, and is scheduled to return home in January. Stating that she liked Vermont, Pennsylvania, and Oregon the best so far, "because of the natural beauty in them," Teena says, "but I don't like drinking plastic milk", her definition of the store bought milk. "I like country milk", she says. When she was asked how she liked our cows and the fair, she stated, "The standards are high... you got to have top quality cows to be able to compete here." She explained that in her country, the cattle are shown with the handler walking forward and that exhibitors had the option to clip and many did not. Teena stated that she liked the colored breeds the best and the Ayrshires back home. Currently residing with a host family in Furlong, Pa., Teena is with the Zollers family during the fair only. She looks forward to beginning art school next year and loves painting landscapes. "She's a fantastic person", Mr. Zollers explains as he says that "meeting kids like this is great... nothing bothers her". Zollers explained that all Rotary Exchange students are extensively screened before being selected. Many youth try for the program and the Zollers family felt honored twice with having their son, Andy, selected and then being able to meet Teena.

The Zollers family milks approximately 24 registered Guernsey on their "Stone Mill Farm", Mertztown, and the 4-H'ers, William, Sherri, and Andy, exhibit their prize winning herd at all the local fairs.

Taking the Reserve Championship honors of the Guernsey breed was Golden Dew Bobs Rose Lha, the 5 year old entry of Clayton Snyder, R1, Oley. This was the first time 14 year old Clayton achieved this success. He exhibited 4 Guernseys at the fair and one Holstein.

Other placings in the Guernsey show (with the open show placings first and then 4-H) were as follows:

Tenna Ross, Rotary exchange student, holds Grand Champion Guernsey, owned by Andy Zollers, who is in Sweden as exchange student.

Taking the top honors in the Open Jersey Show was first time winner, Irish Creek Samson Eileen, a three-year-old owned by Dana and Debra Stoudt, R1, Bernville. Bred and shown by David and Robin Phillips, R1, Mohrsville, Eileen was crowned the Grand Champion over Jersey Acres Q. Rhoda, Reserve Champion, owned and shown by Patricia Dreisbach, R3, Hamburg.

The Grand Champion, a very good - 87 daughter of Samson, resides at Irish Creek Jerseys, R1, Mohrsville, where her owners are assembling their herd of Jerseys and Holsteins. The Stoudts' are new in the dairy business and this is the first time one of their cows has achieved this success. "Eileen" is currently milking in the 60's and has been projected to over 14,000 on her current record.

The Reserve Champion of the open show, Patricia Dreisbach's entry, Jersey Acres Q Rhoda, was also awarded the Grand Championship of the Youth show. "Rhoda" is a daughter of S.S. Quicksilver of Fallneva. Reserve Champion in the Youth show went to Wilderness Samson Silk, 2 year old entry of Patricia Dreisbach. Another fancy daughter of Samson, "Silk" was recently appraised very good - 87, as a two year old. Judge Jack Miller, herd manager of Rothrock Holsteins, said that the Jersey Show featured three outstanding individuals when he pointed out these three cows.

Stump, Balthaser win Kutztown showing, fitting

BY ROBIN PHILLIPS
Staff Correspondent

KUTZTOWN — The Kutztown Fair opened on Monday with the judging of the Holstein showing and fitting animals beginning in the afternoon and followed by the open and youth Holstein Dairy Show.

The judge for the evening was Ronald Heffner, Jefferson, Frederick County, Md. Associated with Remsburg Sales Service, Heffner also operates Heff Haven Holsteins.

It was obvious from the many smiles that the juniors received from the judge, that Heffner was enjoying his job and he concluded his evening with, "Juniors, you did a real nice job."

Tammy Balthaser, R1, Bernville, took top honors in the Fitting division with her Holstein heifer, Mabel. This was the first Championship for 14-year-old Tammy. She received the Lester W. Seidel Memorial Trophy as Grand Champion Fitter.

The Reserve Championship honors went to Naomi Herbert and her heifer, Kiss. This was the second time for the reserve honors for Naomi who hails from R3, Kutztown.

The Championship Showman of the evening went to Doris Stump and her animal, Candie. In giving Doris the nod, the judge stated, "this young lady's done an exceptional job." Also the first time to the championship circle for Doris, she received the Lester W. Seidel Memorial Trophy. Doris is the daughter of John and Rita Stump, R3, Bernville. Gary Bicksler, R1, Richland, took the Reserve title in showmanship with his animal, Amber.

KUTZTOWN — Top honors in the sheep show at the 1983 Kutztown Fair went to 9-year-old Amy Eshelman, daughter of Larry and Susan Eshelman, R6, Sinking Spring. Amy, along with "Lucky" received Grand Champion Market Lamb with "Lucky" weighing in at 123 pounds. Residing at Rainbow Acres with her parents, Amy raises purebred Oxford sheep but purchased "Lucky" at the Spring Market Lamb Sale in Allentown earlier this year.

Showing and Fitting were shared by James Heffner, Grand Champion Showman and Joshua Grim, Grand Champion Fitter and Reserve Champion Showman. Reserve Fitting honors went to Ruth Grim, Joshua's sister.

James Heffner repeated his performance as Champion Showman in 1982 with "Penny" who was also Champion Suffolk and bred by Howard Kline, R2, Reading. The son of Wilson and Mary Heffner, James and his brother and sister own 45 sheep on their Golden Acres Farm in Fleetwood.

The Grim siblings, Joshua and Ruth children of Joshua and Naomi Grim, R2, Breiningsville, also took their share of the champion rosettes with their Hampshire and Dorset sheep. "The first couple of years, we helped alot, but this year they do it all", their parents stated of the childrens efforts in raising and showing the 40 head of sheep on their Elm Grove Farm.

Goat winners picked

KUTZTOWN — Judge Richard Stonebeck, Oxford, nodded Debbie Price, R2 Douglassville, to most of the top placings in the 1983 Goat show at the Kutztown Fair. Debbie owns 17 goats along with her Guernseys and plans to become a veterinarian. Right after the fair she will be leaving for Penn State to begin her studies.

Debbie and her goats were awarded Grand Champion Nubian, and Reserve, Grand Champion Alpine and Reserve, and Debbie was also picked as Grand Champion Fitter and Reserve Champion Showman. "If I would rate her, I would give her a 99," the judge stated of Debbie. "All in all, a perfect fitting job", he concluded.

Grand Champion Showman went to James Heffner as the judge stated that he was very pleased with "the excellent showmanship I've been seeing today".

Penn Packing

higher expected marketing numbers through the remainder of the year and increased feed costs due to both PIK and the drought.

As far as hog numbers are concerned, marketings are still expected to be up some 10 percent through the remainder of the year. To combat the pork glut, producers have been urged to market at lighter weights and then cut back on breeding herd size.

And, while some effects of PIK and the drought have already been felt, noone really knows yet what the full effects will be. Those will have to await harvest.

This year, farmers may finally find out how accurate those billions-of-bushels figures that the USDA throws around really are. As Payment-In-Kind payoffs are made, it may finally be known how much corn there really is in storage. And when the combines get in the fields – or stay out because of the drought – there may be a better idea of just what this year's yields may be.

So, with this extra amount of uncertainty facing hog finishers (and other livestock operators as well), is it any wonder that any favorable market sign will be welcomed.

When Penn Packing closed two years ago, labor costs were cited as the primary reason by company officials.

Similar problems were recently experienced at A and B in Allentown, where threatened closing was reversed through operational concessions.

Poultry punch

The Larvadex revocation ordered by the Environmental Protection Agency went into effect on August 19. A number of states with emergency exemption to use the larvacide were told to halt all shipments, sales and use as a poultry feed additive.

Meat and eggs from poultry fed Larvadex could be used, as well as material already in feed bins. But no new formulations could be made.

The EPA listed its reason that one of the elements of Larvadex may be a possible carcinogen.

State veterinary officials stressed that the suspected element was not new and any possible residues would be miniscule.

Ciba-Geigy is working closely with the EPA concerning the review of Larvadex. It had received extensive testing, including use in Lancaster County prior to the granting of the emergency exemption.

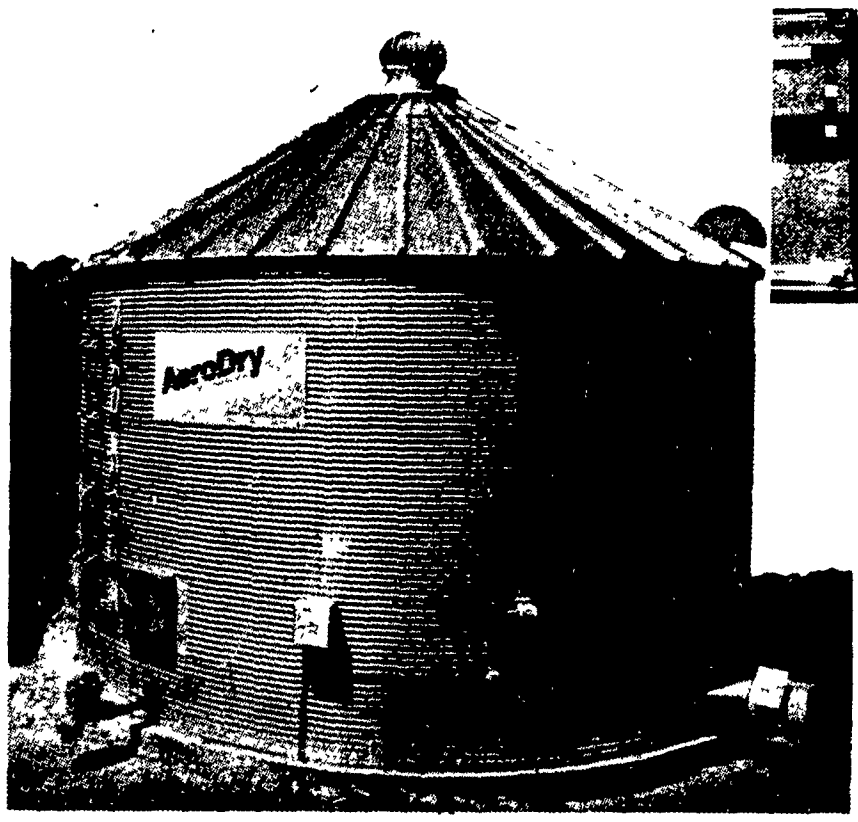
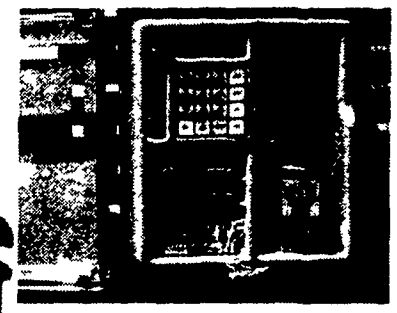
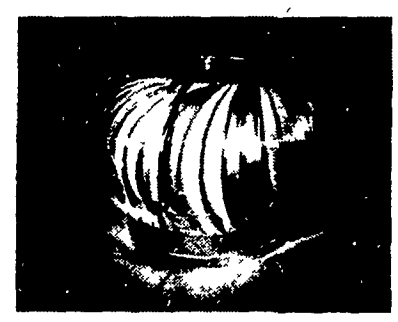
THE AERODRY™ COMPUTERIZED GRAIN MANAGEMENT SYSTEM...







Grain drying with a difference

Dozens of grain growers throughout the area have discovered the AeroDry difference over conventional heat drying systems. They're making more money from their drying operation for four key reasons:

Reduced Shrink Loss
No heat means less damage in drying the grain. You get heavier corn with over 50% less shrinkage than heat drying, that means more grain in your bin.

Better Grain Quality
With AeroDry drying, grain isn't cracked or damaged by heat. More natural starches, sugars and other nutrients are retained for better feed quality and higher test weights.

Tax Benefits
AeroDry Systems qualify for up to a 15% energy credit in the form of an investment tax credit. Added to the 10% grain storage investment credit, that's a total credit of 25%.

The AeroDry System can be installed in any new or existing bin up to 16 feet high. If you're drying grain, or selling to the elevator, you can't afford not to see an AeroDry System. Please call or mail in the coupon and we'll send information and arrange a demonstration. Put the AeroDry difference to work for you.

Tremendous Energy Savings

The AeroDry System uses a unique fan and bin floor set-up to dry grain. It's computer controlled for maximum efficiency. Since no gas is used, no heat of any kind, energy costs are 25% of conventional heat dryers.

Fisher wins steer title

KUTZTOWN — Sixteen-year-old Kirk Fisher earned the high rosette in the Market steer classes with his heavyweight Charolais entry. Kirk owns 25 head of Charolais with his brother and purchased his winning Grand Champion from Royal Charolais, in Greensburg. Reserve Champion Market steer went to Todd Bennicoff, R2 Kutztown, with his Angus steer. Todd was also named Grand Champion Fitter of the show. Judge Glenn Flickinger stated, "He's gone the extra mile", when referring to Todd's efforts in fitting his steer.

Judging the show, Glenn Flickinger of Lancaster County, a cattle specialist at Pennfield Corporation, awarded the following places.

Champion pig not raised by a farmer

BY KIMBERLY HERR

LANCASTER — This year's Grand Champion pig at the Lancaster County 4-H Pig Round-Up and Sale, which took place Thursday at Lancaster Stockyards, was not owned by a farm youth.

Instead, the 215-pound Duroc gilt was the property of Floyd Huber, a 15-year-old East Earl R2 resident.

If he does not live on a farm, how did he ever get interested in pigs?

"Just by getting involved in 4-H," Huber explained.

He is a member of the New Holland Community 4-H Club and has been showing pigs for six years. This was the fist year he took Grand Champion, although he was a first place class winner last year. Huber is the son of Ivan and Fern Huber.

Huber bought his pig from Wyand Durocs and Tamworths, Maryland, after reading their ad in Lancaster Farming. He showed two other pigs, winning another first and a second place.

The Reserve Grand Champion was owned by Tom High, 17-year-old son of Floyd and Dorothy High.

His 225-pound pig was a Duroc-Hampshire-Yorkshire cross. High bought a gilt two years ago at an FFA show and bred her to a Duroc owned by Rick Pfautz, Ephrata, to produce this year's Reserve Champion.

High, who lives on a 21-acre farm in Ephrata, was participating in the 4-H show for the first time, but he has shown pigs in various FFA shows. He is a member of the Lincoln Community 4-H Club.

Did he think he would win?

"I thought I maybe had a pretty good chance," High said.

There were 41 exhibitors in the show and sale. There were 123 pigs shown and 134 sold. The overall weight was 29,345 pounds, with 219 pounds being the average weight.

Matt Parsons, swine Extension specialist from Penn State, was the judge for the show.

"They were excellent quality pigs," Parsons said.

He explained he was looking for "pigs that are lean, free from fat, with evidence of muscling in them."

Other top winners were Tim Pfautz, Stevens, with the Champion Pair, weighing in at 195 pounds each, and Liz Chapman, Manheim R5, with the Reserve Champion Pair, weighing 225 and 220 pounds.

Prices were down from last year. The Grand Champion brought $2.40 per pound, down 77 cents from last year.

The Reserve Champion brought $1.50 per pound, down 50 cents from last year. Both were purchased by Hatfield

The Champion and Reserve Champion pairs each brought $1 per pound.

The overall average of 59.09 cents was down 17.28 cents from last year's 76.37.

LIGHTWEIGHT — Class 1 1 & 2 Jeff Wagner, Bainbridge R1, 2 Alex Hartzler, Mount Joy R1 Class 2 1 Shawn Haldeman Manheim R3, 2 Scott Trimble, Peach Bottom R2, 3 Laura Folker, New Holland R2 Class 3 1 Michelle Dean, Strasburg R1, 2 Chad Folker, New Holland R2, 3 Mike Pfautz, Stevens R1 Class 4 1 Michelle Dean, 2 Dave Fisher, East Earl R2, 3 Chad Folker

FITTING AND SHOWING — Junior 1 Tod Pfleiderer, 2 Chad Folker, 3 Shawn Haldeman Senior 1 Mike Pfautz, 2 Tim Pfautz, 3 Floyd Huber

The Reserve Champion pig, owned by Tom High, left, was also purchased by Ezra Good for Hatfield Packing at Thursday's 4-H Pig Round-Up.

Berks Breeders Make Plans

LEESPORT — Berks County Rabbit and Cavy Breeders Assoc. have some exciting plans for this fall. The first ARBA sanctioned show in the county in many years will be held at 9 AM October 23.

This show which is open to the world will take place at the new Community Center Building at the Berks County Agricultural Center, just north of Reading off Route 183. Eight rabbit and cavy judges from five states have been secured to place the 29 sanctioned breeds. Dozens of trophies and placement ribbons to fifth place will be awarded.

Delicious homemade food will be available that day. For show catalogue write: Mrs. Dolly Bare, 529 N. Wyo. Blvd, Wyomissing, Pa. 19610.

On Sept. 6 at 7:30 PM, Dr. John Harkness, veterinarian from Penn State University will speak about rabbit diseases, treatments and prevention. This meeting is open to the public and will be held at the Agricultural Center auditorium.

The Reading Fair's rabbit show for Berks County raised animals will be Sept. 20th at 6 PM.

Recently the county 4-H fair was held. Approximately 70 rabbits and cavies were shown by 20 4-H'ers. Best of Breeds were as follows: Angora-Candi Wittman; Himalayan and Rex-Heath Fisher; Dutch and English Spot-Charlene Plushanski; English Lop and Satin-Tracey Weaver; French Lop-John Hussman; Mini Lop - Beth German; Netherland Dwarf-Scott German; New Zealand White - Chris Bubbenmoyer; New Zealand Red - Billy Stoffregen; Mixed - Chris Blatt. Best in Show was Chris Bubbenmoyer's NZW Sr. Buck. Best Opposite Sex was Tracey Weaver's Siamese Satin Sr. doe. Best cavy was a tortoise shell and white Sr. boar Teddy and Best opposite sex was a TS&W, Sr. sow American, owned by Charlene Plushanski.

Mike Pfautz to be 'Future Farmer' in Japan

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

STEVENS — It's been a hectic, jam-packed week for Mike Pfautz, member of the Cloister FFA at Ephrata and past Eastern Regional Vice President of the Pa. FFA Association.

He wound up his job as a salesman for Gehman Feed, Denver.

He found out he finished as Eastern Regional proficiency runnerup in ag sales and service.

Of course, there's the normal duties around home associated with the family's farm market.

He had to get ready for his final county 4-H hog roundup, too.

And, there's one more thing. On Tuesday, he takes off and heads for Japan for a three and one-half month stay with Japanese farm families.

Mike, one of the best-traveled of the 1982-83 state officers on the banquet circuit, thus becomes one of 11 FFA'ers in a Work Experience Abroad program funded under a grant from the President's Youth Exchange Initiative of the U.S. Information Agency.

Actually, Pennsylvania has two participants in the program and both are from last year's state officer roster – one from the east and one from the west.

While Mike was the Eastern Regional Vice President, his counterpart in the west, Amy Winklosky, of the Derry Chapter in Westmoreland County, has also been selected for the program.

As Mike poured over maps, tour guides, instructions and other material for the trip, his enthusiasm about the visit bubbled through.

"It's been pretty hectic getting ready, but I can't wait to get started," he said.

He's been making such a detailed study of the material that he's already found a restaurant in Tokyo that specializes in Pennsylvania-Dutch pies. A slice of Japanese shoo-fly should do wonders for any hunger pangs for home.

On Tuesday, he flies to San Francisco on the first leg of the trip to Japan.

He's bound for Kanagawa, located along the coast southwest of Tokyo. The first 12 days will be spent in a language familiarization course.

During his stay one day a week will be spent in classrooms at the Hiratsuka Agricultural High School in Kanagawa. He'll live and work with host Japanese farm families.

There'll be a midpoint evaluation of the program with the embassy attache at the National FFA Center in Japan. And, he'll also attend the National Convention of the Future Farmers of Japan.

After additional stay with a Japanese farm family, Mike will wind up the trip with a few days in Hong Kong from Dec. 10 to 13.

In front of family's farm market.

During his Japanese stay, Mike will be taking a lot of slides and will be putting together a program. So, area FFA chapters and other groups looking for an accomplished speaker can call on him beginning next year.

"I'll be missing the Ephrata Fair and the National Convention this year," Mike lamented a bit.

"But this is a real unique opportunity."

But Mike has a couple more Ephrata Fairs remaining as an FFA'er. And he'll be attending the FFJ convention.

And, then there's the 1984 National Convention in Kansas City.

Mike plans a run at state endorsement to try for national office.

It's not only a busy week for Mike.

It looks like a busy year or more coming up.

Penn State profs applying know-how to round bales

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

STRASBURG — Two Penn State agricultural engineering professors have developed and are now testing an applicator for infusing anhydrous ammonia into round bales. Associate professors, William L. Kjelgaard and Paul M. Anderson worked together to develop a cold flow converter that facilitates the conversion of liquid anhydrous ammonia into a vapor phase for application into round bales.

The purpose of applying anhydrous ammonia is to increase the protein content of the bale and to reduce spoilage during storage, said Kjelgaard. The two professors have gotten a patent on the converter portion of the applicator.

Kjelgaard explains, "Anhydrous ammonia has been used for several years now as preservative and to increase the protein content of silage. We are applying the same principles to round bales with this new system."

At present Kjelgaard and Anderson are conducting research at Penn State and in the field to substantiate the effects of varying amounts of anhydrous ammonia applied to round bales.

Three farms, one in the western part of the state, one in the central section, and the Ken Groff farm in Strasburg, Lancaster County are cooperating with the Penn State ag engineers. The three farmers who use round bales in their feeding programs, agreed to have some bales treated with anhyrous ammonia, and will make observations as the forage is fed out, on the quality of hay, its palatabiltiy, and refusal rate, to assist Kjelgaard and Anderson in their field tests.

In research conducted at Penn State the forage is analyzed by infrared analysis to evaluate the nutrient quality of the forage.

At the farm of Ken Groff, Kjelgaard, treated round bales of hay, haylage, and corn fodder with two levels of anhydrous ammonia. The 800 to 1000 pound bales were broken down into three treatment groups. One treatment received 9 pounds of anhydrous ammonia per bale, another 4.5 pounds per bale, and a control group of the same forage received no treatment.

The bales were tagged with the type of treatment applied to it. When Ken Groff feeds the bale to his dairy herd he will make visual observations and record them for

Prof. Kjelgaard trips the valve on the cold flow applicator, demonstrating how the liquid and vapor phase of the anhydrous ammonia flows by gravity into the round bale.

The applicator mounted on the bed of a half ton pick-up is backed into a round bale for applying the anhydrous ammonia, used as a preservative and to increase the amount of protein contained in the bale.

Cooperating dairyman, Ken Groff, in the back, looks on as Professor Kjelgaard and his research assistant, seal a plastic bag around this bale after application of anhydrous ammonia.

FEATURING THE NEW METALERT ™
Saves Cutterheads & Cows

Avoid costly cutterhead damage and hardware disease with a Sperry New Holland forage harvester equipped with Metalert electronic metal detector.

Even "clean" fields hide tramp metal — broken rake tines, sickle sections, lost hitch pins, metal fence posts, barbed and baling wire. Big pieces can chip or break cutterhead knives and result in costly repairs and downtime. Small pieces can end up in livestock feed, lead to hardware disease, and cost you valuable dairy or beef animals.

Metalert protects the cutterhead by stopping the harvester's feedrolls and attachment drive the moment a piece of iron or steel enters the feedrolls — before it gets to the cutterhead.

Invented by Sperry New Holland in 1975, the Metalert system is now optional on the three largest pull-type harvesters and standard on both self-propelled units.

Wayne holds record junior livestock sale

HONESDALE — Hatfield Packing purchased six pigs for $1,640.60 at the Wayne County Junior Livestock Sale held in conjunction with the Wayne County Fair. Sixty-six 4-H & FFA pigs were sold, as well as 54 lambs and 21 steers.

According to Clyde Eltz, chairman of the Wayne County Junior Livestock Sale, the 4-H & FFA members and leaders have expressed appreciation to Hatfield Packing for traveling some considerable distance to participate and support the sale.

Eric Megargel, left, R5 Lake Ariel and a member of the Western Wayne FFA sold his market hog to Hatfield Packing, represented by Doug Clemens, right. The 204-pound hog brought $1.50 per pound.

One hundred forty one 4-H and FFA animals sold for a total of $39,785.65. Total live weight produced was 21 tons. The average prices, including the two Grand Champions in each species, were $.84 for steers, $1.08 for pigs, and $1.10 for lambs. Average prices not including the two Grand Champions in each species were $.77 for the steers, $1.05 for the pigs, and $1.02 for the lambs.

Top volume buyer was Thomas Thiede who purchased nine steers, seven pigs, and five lambs for a total of $10,685.30.

Buyers of other champion animals were as follows: the champion light weight steer raised

A member of several farm organizations, Espy is directing his energy towards his position as president of the Pa. Beef Council.

"My main concern is marketing," he says. "If we don't market, we won't have much beef production in ten years."

To try and correct this problem, the Council is working on a beef check-off in which 25 cents per slaughter head will go towards the promotion of beef. Pennsylvania will be the 34th state to adopt the check-off, Espy says.

In addition to the check-off, Espy believes a more healthy environment is needed for the state's meat packers. This, he adds, will help increase demand for beef production as the industry does a more professional job.

"A better grade of cattle, more slaughter houses and more packing plants will help increase marketing," Espy says.

Handing out promotional materials on beef quality and cuts to schools and in shopping centers can also have a positive effect, Espy adds.

Espy, named the 1983 Cattleman of the Year, puts his energy into a number of organizations. He is a member of the National Cattleman's Association and in 1981 served on the board of directors. A member of State Secretary of Agriculture Hallowell's Animal Industry Advisorey Board, Espy also works with the Penn State College of Agriculture Advisory Board.

An alumnus of Penn State, Espy graduated in agricultural education and received his master's degree in 1971. He and his wife Barbara, a high school English teacher, and his two children, daughter Jamie, 14, and John, 12, bought their first farm in 1966. Since then, they have purchased three more.

Espy says he plans to increase his operation, but he doesn't know just when. His future dream, he says, is to have a computerized system to weigh the cattle.

"The computer could identify the animal and weigh it electronically," he explains. "The animal would be sent through a chute to market if it failed to reach a 2.5 pound gain."

The system is half-perfected now, Espy says, but this is his dream, along with seeing the beef industry make a turn-around and stay healthy and strong.

Kjelgaard's field research.

"The applicator is mounted in a half ton pick-up," explains Kjelgaard. "The anhydrous ammonia is stored in a tank at 150 p.s.i. From the tank the anhydrous ammonia goes into a metering device that regulates its flow into the cold flow converter. The cold flow converter (the white cylinder pictured above the ammonia tank) facilitates the expansion and separation of the anhydrous ammonia into two phases, a liquid phase, and a vapor phase. The liquid phase accounts for 85 percent of the mass flow, while the vapor phase accounts for 15 percent of the mass flow of the anhydrous ammonia into the bale. From the converter, both the cold liquid and the cold vapor flow by gravity through a hose into a metal needle-like injector place in the center of the round bale."

The anhydrous ammonia diffuses throughout the bale. Kjelgaard notes that the treatment can be done at anytime, but it may advantageous to do it soon after baling to get the greatest preservative effects.

"Treatment of hay that is slightly moldy, will wipe out the mold," said Kjelgaard, but notes. "We will know more after we have results from our field tests and research at Penn State is complete."

"THE BIGGEST REASON WE BOUGHT OUR HARVESTORE® STRUCTURE WAS FOR THE CONVENIENCE!"

BARRY & BRIAN GOOD
Mohrsville, PA

"In October, 1982, when we erected our HARVESTORE grain structure, our herd average was 17,839 lbs. milk and 638 lbs. butterfat," says Brian. "Now our herd average is 19,498 lbs. milk and 685 lbs. butterfat and climbing!"

According to Barry, "We were always having low butterfat tests with dry shelled corn but the high moisture corn in our HARVESTORE System has brought it up. The cows just seem to eat the high moisture shelled corn better than the dry grain. Last year one of our best cows made 2.6% butterfat on dry corn," says Barry. "On her first test on HARVESTORE high moisture corn she made 3.6% butterfat after only two weeks into her lactation!"

"The highest our herd ever reached in butterfat was 669 lbs. two-and-a-half years ago," say the Good Brothers. "Since October our butterfat has jumped 47 lbs. to 685 lbs. butterfat."

Brian relates, "We really get nice, consistent feed out of our HARVESTORE System.

According to Brian and Barry, "The biggest reason we bought our HARVESTORE System was for the convenience. When you farm 400 acres of land you need time to get the field work done."

Barry says, "Everything on this farm gets high moisture shelled corn; even the dog eats it! At weaning, the calves really go for the high moisture corn. They really pick up good and that saves a lot on purchased calf feed."

Horse Blood Flows from Generation to Generation

BY ROBIN PHILLIPS
Staff Correspondent

BERNVILLE — Just as her stallions pass along their excellent conformation and disposition, so does this horsewoman pass on her abundant "horse sense" and knowledge to her children. Meet Jennie Miller, the "Jen" of Jen-Air Acres, who along with her husband, Clair, own one of the area's largest Quarter Horse breeding farms.

Jenn, with the help of her daughter, Crystal, and her granddaughter, Angie, (Crystal's daughter) train and show the Jen-Air Quarter horses that Jenn has been breeding since 1955.

"I was vaccinated with horse serum," Jenn states, as she explains that her interest in horses has always been in her.

Although her first horse was a grade thoroughbred which she purchased when she was 11-years-old, Jenn says that it wasn't until after she was married and her husband purchased a Quarter Horse colt that she realized that the only breed of horses for her were Quarter horses.

"My husband's the one that wanted the Quarter horses," Jenn states. That first colt was purchased in 1959. "Working with him, (the colt) I found out their disposition, their attitude, is extremely desireable."

After this, "I had no rest in my pants until we went out and found this mare," Jenn says, referring to "Kayol Bueno", one of their first Quarter horse mares purchased.

With this modest beginning, Jenn has built the Jen-Air herd up to approximately 25 purebred Quarter horses, including their brood mares, show string, two stallions standing at stud, and the young stock for sale.

"We basically breed the old type Quarter horse," Jenn states about her stockier, stronger boned, individuals in the barn.

Meaning that there is less thoroughbred influence in their horses, Jenn states that it is the quiet and calm disposition of the true Quarter horse that she breeds for. "You pick an ideal and try to stick to it," she says, speaking of the different trends in the bloodlines throughout the breed that come and go.

Saying that she does not believe in "women's lib" and stating that "I don't think you have to be helpless to be feminine," Jenn did take time away from her beloved horses to have one son and two daughters. To her daughter, Crystal, she has passed her own "horse sense".

"She's as involved or more involved", Jenn says of Crystal, who does predominantly all of the showing of the Jen-Air stock.

One of the more notable residents at Jen-Air is "Steel Bar Aces High," a beautiful dapple grey gelding who Crystal has trained and shown to Reserve Champion Bridle Path Hack horse in Pennsylvania in 1982 and Register of Merit in 1982. He has also qualified for the World Quarter Horse Show in Oklahoma. Bred by Jenn, Aces High is a son of "Bar Steeley Bar," one of the Jen-Air stallions standing by stud on the farm.

Riding since she's been in diapers, Crystal works "Aces High" every day and the horse has recently received his Superior Award, an award given by the American Quarter Horse Association for outstanding achievement. About his sire, "Bary Steeley Bar," Jenn states that "unfortunately not a lot of his children have been shown."

The other stallion at the farm is "Bueno Call," bred by the University of Maryland, who has his own string of successful offspring. A three-year-old daughter, "Call Me Tootsie," is shown by the third generation of horsewomen at Jen-Air, Angie, Crystal's daughter. Shown to high point horse in Walk-trot by her granddaughter, Jenn states, "I'm very proud of them, they make a fabulous pair."

Eight-year-old Angie was taken on trail rides by her grandmother when still an infant and has grown to love horses. She possesses that "extra touch" that both her mother and grandmother have made so successful.

Another offspring of "Bueno Call" is "Call Me Mareish," the high point weanling mare in 1982. "Bueno Call" was shown to Reserve Champion reining horse in Maryland as a three and four-year-old and is now 10 years old and proving himself as a sire of champion Quarter horses with excellent conformation.

Stating that "it's quality rather than quantity we deal in," Jenn says "it gives me great pride in seeing someone else's horse that they bought from us, beat us."

She states that they usually only sell young, untrained animals since the horses do not "stick around too long," since many buyers come to pick out their horse soon after it is born.

For beginners looking to purchase a horse Jenn gives the following advice: 1. Go to a reputable breeder - someone who wants to sell you a good animal to keep their good reputation. 2. Look for a good disposition. A good disposition will make anything you want to do with the horse, a lot easier. 3. Look for sound, straight legs with strong bone.

About Quarter horses, Jenn states that you can't beat their good nature and calm disposition.

For those "horse people" who already have their horse and would like the success that Jen-Air has, Jenn advises, "The more blood, sweat, and tears you put into it, the more you get out of it." As for showing, "you really have to have them in top physical condition. You have months of work before you're ready," Jenn states.

"You don't produce a top athlete overnight," she says for those people that think they can go into a show and win "just like that."

At Jen-Air, Jenn and Crystal work each of their show horses a ½ an hour to three hours every day. Youngsters are put on the walker to build up stamina and muscle and to exercise off any extra fat.

During this interview, the author had along her two small daughters and as we walked from horse to horse and also among the band of blood mares it was noticed that there was never any hint of biting or kicking. Jenn attributes this to the Quarter horse temperament she has been breeding into her stock, but also states that many novices make the mistakes that turn their horses into "biters."

"You handle the mouth only when necessary," Jenn states, and adds that her horses receive their treats in their feedbox. "The mouth is something that you respect," she repeats adding that the horse was cursed with a soft nose that people like to pet when a horse would rather by scratched on the neck or back.

"A good horse will appreciate his back scratched and you'll be better off than giving him treats," she concludes.

"I'm a real stickler on worming," Jenn also states.

The stock at Jen-Air is wormed from birth and receives additional treatments his entire life. "Too many people are neglient on keeping their animals free of parasites," Jenn says. The stock at Jen-Air is prided on their growthiness and shine to the coats.

Look for Jenn, Crystal, and Angie at any of the Quarter horse shows throughout the state and often in neighboring states. You can be sure that the excellent temperament and prime Quarter horse conformation will be there to see in future generations of Jen-Air stock, as the future generations of the family continue the tradition.

Ladies Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas

Lancaster Extension Home Economist

SHOPPING HABITS ARE CHANGING

As money gets tighter and tighter, patterns in supermarket shopping are changing, according to a recent study conducted by Woman's Day magazine and the Food Marketing Institute.

The study states that almost two out of three shoppers feel our economy is not going well. The high cost of utilities and the cost of food are the two major concerns today.

Most shoppers are now shifting their focus from the quality and nutritional content of the food they eat to the cost. Among study participants who have made changes in food purchases, 55 percent said they changed to save money, not to improve the quality of their diet. Some other changes caused by the economy are the following:

—74 percent of the people surveyed have cut back on convenience foods.

—66 poercent said they don't worry about brand names because they buy according to price.

—45 percent have switched from a supermarket that they like to one that they don't simply because of price.

—66 percent check newspapers and magazines for coupons more often than they used to.

—66 percent buy large packages more often because they are often cheaper by the ounce.

—63 percent stock up when they find a bargin rather than buying just what is needed.

In addition, consumers are more likely to pay attention to unit pricing, go shopping with a list, try new products, buy generic brands, and buy unadvertised specials then they did a few year ago. They are also less likely to buy gourmet foods, serve pre-cooked foods bought at the store, or eat at fast food restaurants.

In general, shoppers are becoming more careful and demanding when pricing products and more willing to try new products. Buy they are less careful and less demanding about nutrition. How do your shopping habits compare to those in the survey?

KEEP FOODS INSECT FREE

Some of the most common household foods are highly attractive to insects. Grains, cereals, packaged mixes, cookies, pasta, dried fruits and spices - red pepper, paprika and chili powder - invite insect infestation. To ensure that these foods remain insect-free, consider the following measures before storing them in your home.

—Clean all grains and edible seeds to remove dust and broken seeds. Fanning or sieving will remove most foreign materials. Store these foods in airtight containers, place in a cool, dry place and check periodically.

—Inspect food before you buy. If you find evidence of insects, take the product to the grocer. This will prevent infestation of other packages.

—Buy quantities that can be used quickly, unless planning to repackage or freeze.

—Transfer foods to glass or metal containers that can't be penetrated by insects. Jars with screw-on lids are best.

—Keep storage and counter areas clean. Do not allow food particles to accumulate on shelves or in cracks. Vacuum storage area with a crevice tool that reaches into cracks. If this is not possible, use a brush of cloth. Do not use soap and water. This will wash food particles into crevices and cracks where they can develop mold.

—Clean under stove, refrigerators and other large appliances regularly.

—Check dog, cat and bird food regularly. These products may contain insects that will attract others into your home.

Start a New Lawn

Q. True or False: There isn't much to do in the garden during fall?

A. False!

Lots of jobs can be done in fall. For instance, it is a perfect time for starting that new lawn you wanted.

The first step to a good lawn is a soil test so you know exactly what condition the soil is in. Your local Penn State Cooperative Extension office will, for a small fee, provide you with a kit that explains how to have your soil tested. Soil test results will give you information about nutrient levels, soil pH (acidity/alkalinity), and offer recommendations to help correct any problems in these areas.

When your fertilize, follow the recommendations on the soil test results and read the label on the fertilizer bag.

When starting a new lawn, the middle number of the three numbers found on fertilizer packages is most important. The middle number represents the element phosphorus, essential for good root growth. Use a fertilizer with a "superphosphate" formulation since this form of phosphorus is used more efficiently by the seedling. Also, use slow-release fertilizer since it will give you continued nutrient release during germination and throughout the early growing period.

When you apply lime, follow the soil test result recommendations. Lime raises soil pH, and for most turf and pH should be from 6.0 to 7.0 (7.0 is neutral, above this is alkaline, below is acidic). Don't be afraid to use the lime —it isn't expensive, so use what is needed — a light dusting just won't do the job. Apply the lime and fertilizer with a broadcast of drop spreader.

In addition to lime and fertilizer, many soils need to have organic matter added. About one inch of peat moss or about two inches of well-rotted manure or composted material will add some nutrients, improve the soil structure and improve the water-holding capacity of the soil.

Rototilling is the next step for soil preparation. Rototilling mixes in the lime, fertilizer, and organic matter while breaking up the soil. Loose soil lets grass seedlings get good root penetration and aids in improving drainage.

After rototilling, remove any debris (such as rocks) that turn up. Finally, grade the soil using a large rake and create a slight slope away from structures so water will not drain towards them. Be sure to avoid steep slopes since they are difficult to establish and maintain.

Adams Poultry Queen Named

GETTYSBURG — The Adam's County Poultry Association selected the 1983-84 Poultry Queen last Saturday, at the Dutch Panty, Gettysburg. Three contestants were required to present three to five minute presentations on some facet of the poultry industry alone with a personal interview with the judges.

4-H'ers Attend Citizenship - Washington Focus

LEBANON — Tony Allwein, Lebanon, and Deb Bolles, Mt. Zion, returned home recently from Washington D.C., after attending Citizenship-Washington Focus - a week-long experience in citizenship and leadership training at the National 4-H Center.

Tony and Deb were two of 69 4-H members from PA and 8 states participating. The program is designed to help young people understand the structure and function of our system of government, the heritage of our country and the importance of active participation as citizens.

Using the nation's capital as a "classroom", the program included a day on Capitol Hill to meet with members of Congress and see government in action. On the visit to Capitol Hill they met with Representative Robert Walker. The Pennsylvania delegation also presented Senators Arlen Specter and John Heinz, III with a Penn State Nittany lion. Later, they sat in on the Congress and listened to a debate over sending aid to Central America.

Field trips to historical and cultural sites as well as to federal agencies and community organizations were among the most informative and exciting parts of the week, according to Deb and Tony. Some of the most interesting field trips were the night views of Washington, agencies and organizations (Social Security Administration), Capitol Hill Day, Kennedy Center, the United States Navy Yard where Casper Weinburger was in attendance to view the summer ceremony of pageantry and precision. They also went to Burn Brae dinner theatre and saw "My Fair Lady."

In workshop sessions at the National 4-H Center, the young people discussed contemporary issues and concerns, and ways in which skills and knowledge gained during the week could be applied to the 4-H program here.

"Action on the Hill" workshop was the most interesting. The objective was to help understand the process of how the legislative branch of government functions by debating an issue through a simulation of how a bill becomes a law.

One of the best parts of the experience was being able to share ideas with other 4-H members from across the country. For Tony and Deb, highlights were citizenship - learning about government, seeing government in action, collecting aluminum cans to be recycled, "make your vote count" where 4-H'ers voted on various issues concerning 4-H and nationwide problems.

As part of the learning experience, Tony was elected to represent the Pennsylvania delegation as a Senator for the week.

Citizenship-Washington Focus is conducted by National 4-H Council in support of the 4-H program of the Cooperative Extension Service of the state land-grant universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Deb and Tony were selected to attend on the basis of leadership and participaton in county, state, and local 4-H activities.

Franklin County 4-H Shepherds

The Franklin County 4-H Shepherds recently traveled more than 200 miles on county roads to visit every member's farm and to inspect and grade their project market lambs.

Following the tour, the club had lunch at Caledonia State Park and spent the afternoon swimming.

Tempt Them with Tomatoes

You see them in large gardens, small gardens, flower beds and even in pots on patios. Tomatoes are, without a doubt, a very popular vegetable.

Because of that popularity, this time of year usually produces an abundance of the juicy red vegetable as the plants sometimes produce more vegetables than you bargained for.

Don't let them rot on the vine or go to waste on the kitchen windowsill. Instead, use them in soups, sauces or casseroles to be used now or frozen for a cold winter night when a fresh vegetable taste will be welcomed.

EASY SPAGHETTI SAUCE

1 basket tomatoes
2 cups vegetable oil
3 pounds onions
3 tablespoons garlic chips
4 hot peppers or 1 tablespoon crushed red peppers
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup salt
2 tablespoons oregano
1 teaspoon sweet basil
4 (12 oz.) cans tomato paste

Place all ingredients into blender and simmer 1 1/2 to 2 hours or until desired thickness is achieved. Seal in pint or quart jars.

CHILI SOUP

2 onions
1 pound hamburger
1/2 quart tomatoes
15 oz. can kidney beans
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon chili powder

Put two tablespoons fat in pan and brown minced onion. Add hamburger and fry until brown. Add tomatoes and browned hamburger to kidney beans. Add seasonings and simmer together for 30 minutes.

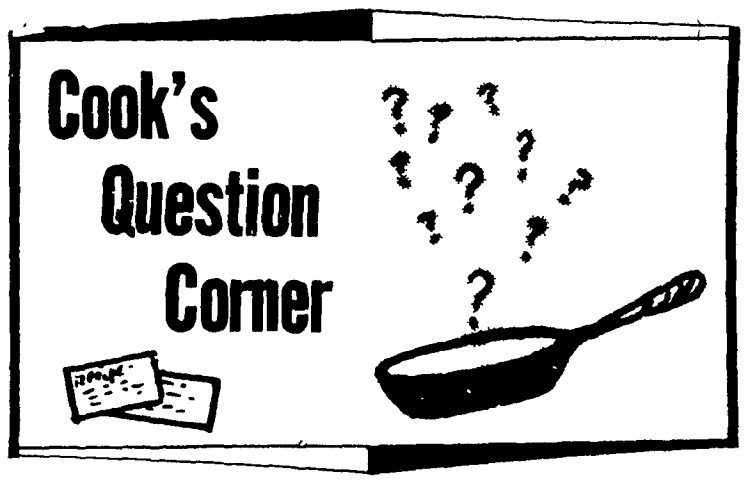
In addition to using tomatoes as a main dish, they make a great side dish. Pictured above are cucumber, onion and tomato slices, a light addition to any meal.



ANSWER — In response to the question on icing used in decorating cakes, we received two answers. Mrs. R. Beiler, Quarryville, sent this recipe.

3 Little Bakers Frosting

2 cups confectioners sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 egg white
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup shortening

Mix on low speed for about five minutes.

ANSWER — Marian Newswanger, New Holland, also sent an icing recipe.

Buttercream Decorating Icing

½ cup butter
½ cup solid vegetable shortening
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/8 teaspoon sale
1 pound (about four cups) confectioners sugar
3 tablespoons cool cream or milk

Cream butter and shortening together with an electric mixer. Add vanilla and salt. Beat in sugar, one cup at a time, beating well after each addition. Scrape sides and bottom of bowl frequently. Add milk and beat at high speed until light and fluffy. Keep icing covered with lid and store in refrigerator when not in use. If icing gets too soft while decorating, place in refrigerator until desired consistency. To use buttercream as a frosting, thin with two tablespoons of milk.

CREOLE STUFFED TOMATOES

3 slices bacon
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup chopped onion
6 medium tomatoes
1 cup whole kernel corn
1 teaspoon seasoned salt

Fry bacon in skillet until crisp. Drain and set aside. Remove drippings, leaving about one tablespoon. Saute green pepper and onion slightly. Meanwhile, prepare tomatoes by removing top slice and center core from each. Scoop out pulp.

Add pulp, corn and seasoned salt to vegetables in skillet. Heat thoroughly. Crumble bacon and add to vegetable mixture saving some of the bacon for garnish. Fill tomato cups and top with remaining bacon. Bake in shallow dish in moderate oven at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes.

SPANISH RICE

2 cups cooked rice
3 slices bacon
1 onion
2 tablespoons green pepper, diced
2 tablespoons diced pimento
2 cups tomatoes
salt and pepper to taste

Fry bacon until brown. Dice bacon and add onions, pepper and pimento. Cook about 4 minutes longer and add tomatoes and rice. Simmer for 20 minutes.

PIZZA SAUCE

8 quarts chopped tomatoes
10 small onions
1/2 stalk celery
6 sweet peppers
1 tablespoon sweet basil
1 tablespoon oregano
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1/4 cup salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup oil

Boil for 3 1/2 hours. Strain, heat and can.

Tempting Tomatoes

GREEN TOMATO-APPLE PIE
pastry for two-crust pie
2 cups skinned, quartered and thinly sliced green or pink tomatoes
3 cups thin, peeled apple slices
2/3 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1/3 cup granulated sugar
2 to 3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter

To peel green tomatoes easily, place in boiling water. Let stand for 2 to 3 minutes, or until skins can be slipped off. Combine tomatoes, apples, sugars, flour, cinnamon and salt. Place mixture in a pastry-lined 9-inch pie pan. Dot with butter. Adjust top crust and flute edges; cut steam vents. Bake at 425 degrees for 10 minutes, then bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

TWIN CHEESE VEGETABLE TORTE
5 large meaty tomatoes, wedged
1 large red onion, thinly sliced
1 summer zucchini squash, chunked
1 1/2 cups instant rice or 3 cups cold cooked rice
1 ball Mozzarella cheese, sliced thin
1 small green pepper, thinly sliced
1 teaspoon parsley flakes
1/2 teaspoon basil
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup Parmesan cheese
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder

Using a 4-quart round, clear mixing bowl or a 4-quart round baking dish, layer the following: 3 tomatoes wedged, 1/2 onion, 3/4 cup instant rice or 1 1/2 cups cooked rice, 1/2 zucchini, 1/2 each of parsley flakes, basil, garlic, salt, pepper, oregano, 1/2 sliced Mozzarella cheese. Repeat layering order using remaining items. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and bake covered at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Remove cover during last 15 minutes of cooking time for reduction of liquid.

LASAGNA
28 ounces of spaghetti sauce
2 small cans tomato soup
1 medium onion
2 pounds hamburger
1 pound lasagna noodles
1 pound provolone cheese

Brown meat and onion in a skillet. Mix tomato soup and spaghetti sauce in large pan. Heat. Add meat and simmer a few minutes. Boil noodles according to directions on the pan, place a layer of noodles than a layer of sauce, a layer of cheese. Continue placing in layers, ending with sauce. A piece of leaf oregano may be added to sauce. Place casserole in oven at 400 degrees and bake for 1/2 hour or until cheese is melted. Serve hot.

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

F'all. Barely more than a month away.

Even without the calendar to tell that tale, a look around the countryside offers mute hints that the autumn of the year is appallingly near at hand.

Already the seasonal vibrant colors are making their debut, as sumac that borders the roads nearby have turned scarlet and the tulip poplars have begun dotting the woodland floors with golden-hued leaves.

Thistles in the fencerows that were missed by the mower blades entice birds and butterflies. Swallowtails, yellow laced with black on gossamar wings, flit from one to another of the purple-thatched blooms, sampling the nectar from deep down in the fresh flower heads.

Wild canaries, though, prefer the ripened heads, and perch carefully on the jagged thistle stems, pulling seeds from the depths of the wispy, dried tops. Their persistent working through the fluffiness loosens little sections of the ripened heads, and parachute-like wisps drift away on the breezes.

In the shade along the edge of the woods, blackberries entice a berry lover to come and sample the shining, fat fruits, but the long thorns on the stems grab at the fruit picker in self defense.

Purple elderberries are more cooperative, dangling their upside down umbrella clusters of small, round fruits down from slender, vining stems.

Along the creek that murmurs through the heifers' pasture are plentiful, thick stands of mint tea, maturing with green tasseled flower heads dotted with tiny, pale lavendar blooms. Just walking near them fills the nostrils with the bracing, minty fragrance.

Skies have lost some of the humid heaviness that lingered so long earlier, and are now of the deepest, cool blue that has replaced the haze of mid-summer mugginess.

Brilliant white clouds of whipped-cream puffiness mark this subtle change of seasons, as they float from horizon to horizon, their shapes changing, but their path around the planet endless.

Slender blooms of goldenrod burst into brilliant color along the hayfield edges, a few late honeysuckles add their fragrance to the afternoon warmth, and the barberry bushes wear emerald-green chains of berries along their branches.

Berries of all kinds, thick and abundant this year, suggest that the outdoor pantry is being readied with plentiful supplies to feed the furred and feathered creatures during the impending chills to come.

Silently, unobtrusively, Nature goes on with her preparations, already setting the scenery against which the next seasonal act of her unending drama will take place.

4-H Leaders Sponsor Forum

LANCASTER — Pennsylvania 4-H leaders will have an opportunity to meet with more than 200 leaders from 12 other states at the Eastern Regional 4-H Leaders' Forum in Mystic, Conn. October 20-23.

The forum is designed to help leaders develop program management skills, gain new program ideas, share interests and resources available in the Northeastern area, and to motivate and inspire leaders and staff to greater efforts on behalf of the 4-H program.

Delegates will participate in a variety of seminars and workshops of their choice. In addition, they will have a half day tour of the beautiful Mystic Seaport Museum.

The forum offers a unique opportunity for 4-H volunteer leaders to learn, to grow, to meet new people, and to visit a quaint and beautiful area of the Northeast. If you are a 4-H leader and are interested in such an experience, contact your County Extension Service office.

HOW TO MAKE FEED MORE DIGESTIBLE, MORE PALATABLE, AND MORE NUTRITIOUS
Install a LONG Oxygen Limiting Glass-Lined Storage System for storing high moisture grain and medium moisture forages. Our glass-fused-to-steel wall sheets and roof panels, and the breather bag system limit the amount of oxygen which contacts the feed, thereby limiting the amount of fermentation that occurs within the structure. Feed stays fresh longer and the need for drying equipment is eliminated.
Feed tastes better too, and helps obtain greater milk production and weight gain at a more economical price.
Come in today and let us show you how a LONG Oxygen Limiting, Glass-Lined Storage System can help you save money.

Sweatshirts and overdyed jeans

Why spend more for cropped sweatshirts, over-dyed jeans and stone-washed denims when you can make your own with scissors and supermarket dyes.

Cropped sweatshirts are simply regular sweatshirts minus the arms, necklines and midriff. You can cut a V-neck, scoop neck, cap sleeve, short sleeve or bare midriff with ease and then wear it alone or over a T-shirt.

Stone-washed jeans get their soft, faded look from industrial washing machines and pumice stones. You can duplicate the look, however, with a special fading product from the supermarket.

Overdyed jeans, on the other hand, are basically bright-colored denims. They can be made at home with heavy concentrations of supermarket dye.

To make your own fashions, you can either purchase inexpensive sweatshirts, jeans and jackets or use items you already have. In fact, overdying is easier when your denims are older.

It's no problem if your jeans are stained or faded. Home "stone-washing" helps fade away satins, while overdying hides stains and brightens colors. In the case of cropped sweatshirts, you can probably cut off problem spots.

Here are directions for making fashionable new looks:

SWEATSHIRT: Materials: Scissors, white chalk.

DIRECTIONS: 1. Decide how you want to cut your sweatshirt. 2. Draw your cutting lines with chalk. 3. Try on sweatshirt and adjust cutting lines, if necessary. 4. Cut sweatshirt along the chalk lines. 5. Wear cropped sweatshirt alone or over a contrasting T-shirt.

SHAPING: 1. For short sleeves: Cut halfway between elbow and shoulder. If desired, roll up sleeves. 2. For capped sleeves: Cut sleeves just past the shoulder. 3. For a crew neck: Cut away 1½ inches all around the neckline. 4. For a low neckline: Cut a V-neck or scoop neck, as desired. Be careful not to cut neckline too low or sweatshirt will slide off your shoulders. 5. For a cropped midriff: Cut sweatshirt to navel.

OVERDYED DENIMS: Materials: You'll need supermarket dyes and old denim jackets, skirts or jeans. Suggested colors are Rit brand Fuschia or Purple.

DIRECTIONS: 1. Follow directions on the dye package, but make the following changes: 2. Use very hot water. 3. Use twice the concentration of dye indicated. 3. Soak the clothes for at least 30 minutes. 4. For a matching top, drop a 100 percent cotton T-shirt in the dye bath.

STONE-WASHED DENIMS: Materials: You'll need "Fast Fade" by Rit, available in the dye department of most supermarkets.

DIRECTIONS: 1. Follow manufacturer's directions for fading denims. 2. For a '50s look, cut jeans off at the ankle. Then slit jeans a few inches up the sides.

Hunterdon Co. Holds Beef Show

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Two dozen beef cattle were exhibited recently in the Hunterdon County 4-H Beef Show at the Flemington Fairgrounds. Jeff Sneeringer, Hanover, judged the entries.

The Grand Champion Steer overall was owned by Ross Mills, Princeton. Greg Novak, a Delaware Township member, took Reserve Grand Champion. C.G. Higgins, another Princeton resident, had the Grand Champion Female. Taking second place in that division was Robert Mehlman, Chester.

Traci Kennedy, a Flanders 4-H'er, received first place in the Hereford Division. Reserve Grand Champion recognition was earned buy Allyson Neuberger, Pennington. Mills took first in the Angus class, followed by Novak. Princeton resident, Jason Reighard, captured top prizes in the Charolais group. Higgins placed second in that class. Grand Champion Crossbred Steer awards went to Novak.

Sandra Mayer of Glen Gardner owned the second place Crossbred Steer. Robert & Heidi Mehlman placed first and second, respectively, in the Angus Heifer group. Grand Champion Charolais Heifer honors were presented to C.G. Higgins.

Awards were also given in the Fitting and Showmanship classes. The Beginner Fitting Class winners were: Jason Reighard, first; Miss Mayer, second; and Eric Ekholm, third. The Intermediate Fitting Winner was Miss Kennedy. Kristin Sandorff, Califon, placed second, while Heidi Mehlman was third. Allyson Neuberger placed first in the Senior Division. Mills and Novak placed second & third, respectively.

Miss Mayer earned first place in the Beginner Showmanship. Sandy's sister, Bridgette, earned second. Third place honors were presented to Ekholm. Miss Kennedy took first in the Intermediate Showmanship class. Higgins earned second while Scott Shepherd, Glen Gardner, placed third. In the Senior Division, Novak was first, Mills second and Miss Neuberger, third.

All participants are members of the Hunterdon County Beef and Super Steers 4-H Clubs.

How Hot is Lightning?

When Benjamin Franklin walked into a field with a kite, a string and an iron key, he was lucky he lived to tell about what happened.

He was trying to find out everything he could about lightning, and he did. But he realized he could have been killed by the electricity in lightning. In fact, a person who later tried to repeat Franklin's experiment died during that recreation.

Here's a quiz of little-known facts about lightning.

1. Why type of lighting is most common?
a. Lightning that occurs inside a cloud
b. Cloud-to-cloud lightning
c. Cloud-to-ground lightning
2. How long is a bolt of lightning?
a. a few yards (meters)
b. 8 miles (13 km)
c. 100 miles (160 km)
d. Any of the above
3. How hot is a bolt of lightning?
a. As hot as boiling water
b. As hot as the surface of the sun
c. More than twice as hot as the surface of the sun.
4. Why do you always see lightning before you hear thunder?
5. What causes thunder?
a. A lightning bolt makes the air around it very hot, very fast. When the hot air hits the cooler air surrounding, it a booming sound is heard.
b. Clouds that are charged with electricity bump together.
6. Does lightning happen when there isn't a thunderstorm?
7. Does lightning ever strike the same place more than once?
8. If you're outdoors in a thunderstorm, you should NOT
a. Seek shelter under a single tree
b. Stand in a field or on top of a hill
c. Keep swimming or boating
d. Do any of the above
9. If you're indoors in a thunderstorm, you should NOT
a. Stand in the door or near a window
b. Take a bath
c. Talk on the telephone
d. Do any of the above

ANSWERS

1. a., 2. d. Lightning flashes within a cloud may be only a few yards long. Lightning between a cloud and the earth may be as much as 8 miles long. Some lightning strokes between one cloud and another may be 100 miles long. 3. c. 4. Light travels much faster than sound. It takes five seconds for sound to travel a single mile (1.6 km), but light travels great distances almost instantly. To find the number of miles away from you the lightning is, count the seconds between the flash and the crash — and then divide by five. (Divide the seconds by three to get the number of kilometers.)

5. a. 6. Yes. Thunderclouds cause most lightning, but lightning also happens in snowstorms, sandstorms, tornadoes, over volcanic eruptions, and during nuclear explosions. 7. Yes. For example, lighting strikes the Empire State Building in New York more than a hundred times every year. 8. d. Whatever reaches highest into the air offers lightning a quick and easy path to the ground. So stay away from anything tall, and lie flat on the ground if you are the tallest thing around. Lighting can also travel through water, so make sure you're not in it during a storm. 9. d. The safest place to be is inside a closed car away from trees. Steel-framed buildings with lightning rods are also very safe.

4-H'ers Attend Forum

LEESPORT — Two Berks County 4-H members attended Citizenship...Washington Focus, an annual citizenship event at the National 4-H Center in Washington, D.C. The two members attending were Kevin Shollenberger from the Tilden 4-H Club and Debbie Price from the Eastern Berks 4-H Dairy Club.

The event focused on dealing with several aspects of citizenship, beginning with the individual and including community involvement. 4-H projects and activities and exploration of national and international issues, there resolutions and solutions. Delegates also had a opportunity to tour Washington, D.C. and attend sessions to develop a better understanding of the principles, structures and processes of our federal government.

Kevin and Debbie earned the trip on their outstanding achievement accomplished on their local 4-H club and county 4-H program.

Kevin stated "It was the best 4-H event I've attended!" I hope more 4-H members can have this opportunity in the future.

Debbie said "I made a lot of new friends and learned a lot about our nation's heritage. It was great!"

GIRAFFES ARE THE TALLEST OF ALL ANIMALS. A FULL GROWN MALE MAY BE 18 FT. OR MORE. AFRICA IS THE ONLY PLACE WHERE THEY LIVE WILD. THE GREAT HEIGHT OF THE GIRAFFE IS DUE TO ITS LONG NECK, AND LONG SLENDER LEGS. A BABY GIRAFFE IS ABOUT 6 FT. TALL AT BIRTH, BUT DOES NOT REACH MATURITY UNTIL IT IS 6 TO 8 YEARS OLD.

Do the job right with a John Deere Compact Utility Tractor and matched working equipment

John Deere 650 through 1250 Tractors are a valuable addition to any operation. Pick a model with 17 to 44 SAE gross engine hp and 14.5 to 40 PTO hp*. All have liquid-cooled diesel engine, color-coded controls, differential lock, 540-rpm rear PTO. Plus 8- or 9-speed transmission and 3-pt. hitch (Category 1 or Category 2). Mechanical front-wheel drive is available for all but the 850. And you can choose from more than 20 implements — five different types of mowers, posthole digger, post driver, tiller, front loader, front or rear blade, box scraper, to name a few.

* Maximum PTO hp at 2600 engine rpm for 650 and 850; 2400 engine rpm for 750, 950 and 1050, 2500 engine rpm for 1250. All ratings by official test, except for 650, 750 and 1250, which are factory observed

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 2

Lancaster Society 2 enjoyed a family picnic Aug. 13 at Ruhl's Picnic Grove. Food and games were enjoyed by all.

Special guests were former member Pauline Gordley and her husband, Ronald, who now reside in Florida, and Esther Sangrey, a prospective new member.

A traditional cake-walk concluded the evening.

Lancaster Society 3

Lancaster Society 3 met last Saturday at the home of Mary Schantz, who explained the Schantz Farm history.

Dwight Graybill, this year's recipient of the scholarship award, spoke to the group. He will be attending Wesley College, majoring in marketing and retailing.

The next meeting will be at Swamp United Church of Christ and will be a work day for the Ephrata Farm Show.

Lancaster Society 6

Lancaster Society 6 met recently at the home of Mary Hackman and decided to give a book to the Church of the Brethren library in memory of Esther Frey, who had been a member of the Society for more than 60 years.

The Society will serve chicken corn soup on Oct. 14 at the Christmas in October at the Farm and Home Center.

The program consisted of several quizzes led by Mary Lee Spangler and Muriel Saylor. There was also an auction of food items.

Lancaster Society 14

Lancaster Society 14 met at the home of Viola Hostetter for their annual food auction. Rhoda Landis was the auctioneer.

A new member, Eleanor Drennon, 514 Georgetown Road, Ronks, was installed.

Jean Rowe gave a presentation on how to have a pleasant vacation by securing your home before you leave.

A trip to Philadelphia is planned for Sept. 15.

Lancaster Society 27

Lancaster Society 27 recently entertained Society 19 at Donegal Presbyterian Church.

Sandy Stark, Rheems, presented a program on dolls.

Mary Sarver gave a brief history of the Donegal church. Special guests included the county president and second vice president of Farm Women.

Lancaster Society 34

Lancaster 34 met recently at the home of Khay Rutt for a program with Robert Ross Jr., a volunteer on the Quarryville ambulance, who explained the equipment that is on an ambulance and the procedure used in responding to a call.

Reports were given on the recent county picnic, the November craft fair and the dinner at the Robert Fulton Inn on Sept. 27. It was voted to send a donation to the Quarryville Ambulance Association.

The next meeting will be Oct. 17 at the home of Melody Krantz. The program will be a candy making demonstration by Debbie Althoff.

Find the one Safeguard equipment can't protect!

Because, whether you raise rabbits, pheasants, chickens, quail—or any other type of small animal or gamebird—Safeguard products provide lifelong protection.

There's the economical, modular Series 1200 cage. Or the rugged, space-saving Model 190 multi-stacking enclosure system. Feeders, drinking valves and countless other accessories. Plus 100 ft. rolls of galvanized wire mesh, for the do-it-yourself-er.

They all reflect Safeguard's engineering and design philosophy—to help your animals and birds thrive in a sanitary, protected environment.

Sewing Expert Offers Fashion Update

BY KIMBERLY HERR

LANCASTER — A red hot needle and a burning thread.

These, according to Marjorie Arch Burns, are the tools of her trade.

Mrs. Burns is a sewing expert, educator and author, who presented a Blue Ribbon Fashion and Sewing Seminar Tuesday at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center. The seminar was sponsored by the Extension service.

The all-day event began at 9 a.m. and included sewing forecasts in fashion, designer details for home sewers, sweater dressing and new fabric updates.

Women crowded into the auditorium, jotting down notes and offering their own suggestions to Mrs. Burns' advice. She discussed patterns in material.

"Paisley was a big look," she said. "The next look that took us by storm was the stripe. Polka dots started to come in, but they have not been that successful."

"I've always liked stripes," Mrs. Burns said, adding that they are still a big design in fashion. "I would not hesitate to buy a stripe."

She explained that when sewing with stripes, you can creat variations by using some stripes that go in the opposite direction of those on the majority of the garment.

The jacquard style, which is a design on a design, will also be big this year, according to Mrs. Burns.

"Look for it," she said. "It is a very, very good look."

Mrs. Burns talked about some new materials to watch for in the fall, such as facile, which is a new lighter weight ultra suede.

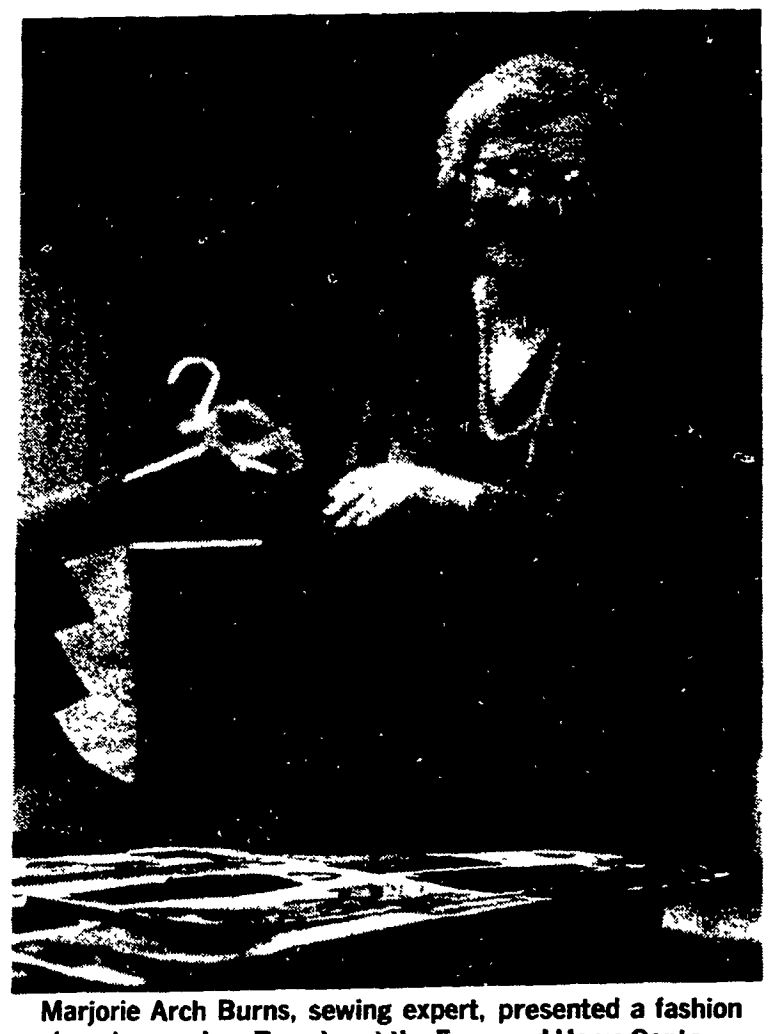
"Corduroy will be bigger and bigger," Mrs. Burns explained. "It will be softer - a great new look."

Sweaters, according to Mrs. Burns, will be a hit again this fall.

"Sweaters are a big investment," she said, and explained how old sweaters can be remodeled. As an example, she told the crowd that she had received a turtle neck sweater as a present. Not caring much for that style, she cut it down into a V-neck sweater.

"A very top, top fashion look is the long V," she said.

The "long, lean look" of a cardigan will also be seen in fashion in the fall.



Marjorie Arch Burns, sewing expert, presented a fashion and sewing seminar Tuesday at the Farm and Home Center.

"I really recommend that," Mrs. Burns said.

Mrs. Burns also spoke on the altering or fashioning of jackets.

"A lot of the top designers are keeping the lines very, very simple," Mrs. Burns explained.

She told her audience that a lining is not always essential to a jacket and brought one she had made to prove it. She also offered a trick that she had recently learned from a designer. When lining a breat pocket on a jacket, you can line it with the same color material as the blouse you intend to wear with that jacket. Then, instead of buying or making a handkerchief to put in that pocket for fashion flair, all you do is pull the lining out, and you have what looks like a silk handkerchief.

Mrs. Burns told the crowd how a boutique in New York is currently selling jackets made out of old linen napkins or tablecloths. With the right dye, Mrs. Burns explained, you could have an attractive linen jacket.

In addition to these sewing suggestions, Mrs.. Burns offered other helpful hints, such as putting a snap on the cuff of a blouse to keep the cuff from turning and sliding on your wrist.

Also for blouses, Mrs. Burns suggested tucking a folded piece of material into cap sleeves to give them more body. She also recommended using shoulder shapes, which give the sleeves the look you want.

"Nothing drives me crazy like something that doesn't work for me," Mrs. Burns said. "Interfacings have driven me crazy."

She explained that it is hard to keep interfacings organized. To prevent having to sort through

(Turn to Page B16)

Between demonstrations women in the audience were free to take a closer look at Marjorie Arch Burns' sewing samples and illustrations.

Heidi Haselhorst, one of the youngest seamstresses in the audience, takes a closer look at one of the bulletin boards designed by Marjorie Arch Burns.

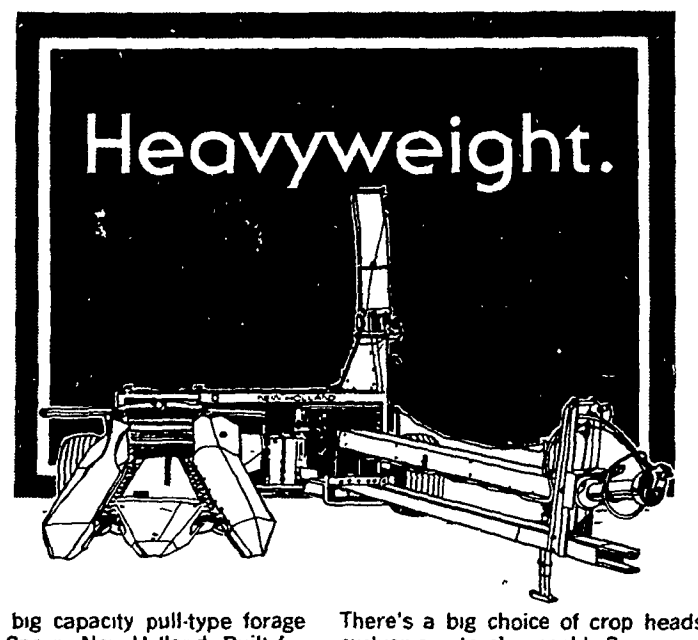
GOOD HAY AND FORAGE MANAGEMENT THE KEY TO HIGHER DAIRY FARMING PROFITS

At Sperry New Holland we're the world's leading producer of hay and forage equipment. That's because we understand how important dependable reliable equipment is to a farmer. And we've got more models with more features than anyone else. Stop in at your local SNH dealer today and ask for a demonstration.

Haymaking's finest 9-footer.

Full-width conditioning rolls in the Model 489 Haybine® mower-conditioner are located in the main frame, not the header. The lighter header responds quicker to ground contours and greatly reduces knife and guard damage. The "489" is designed for operators who demand the very best.

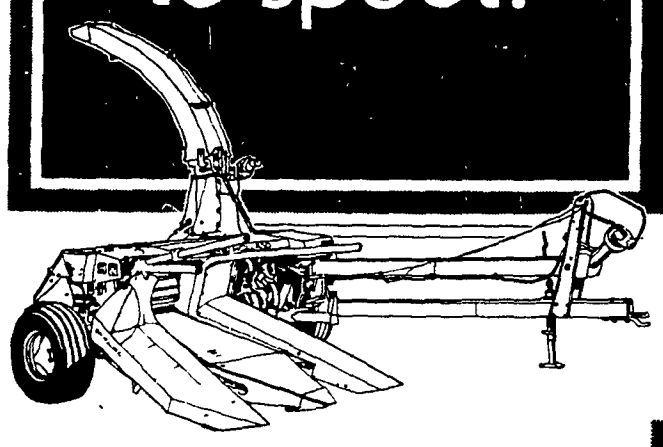
Heavyweight.



The Model 892 is a big capacity pull-type forage harvester offered by Sperry New Holland. Built for big-tractor horsepower, the "892" can be used with tractors up to 175 horsepower.
The optional METALERT™ electronic metal dectector — a Sperry new Holland exclusive — reduces harvester damage and can cut down on hardware disease. The "892" is available with 12-knife or 8-knife cutterhead. Exclusive underbeveled knives never need rebeveling and make knife sharpening fast and easy. Flip-up feedroll makes shearbar adjustment easy

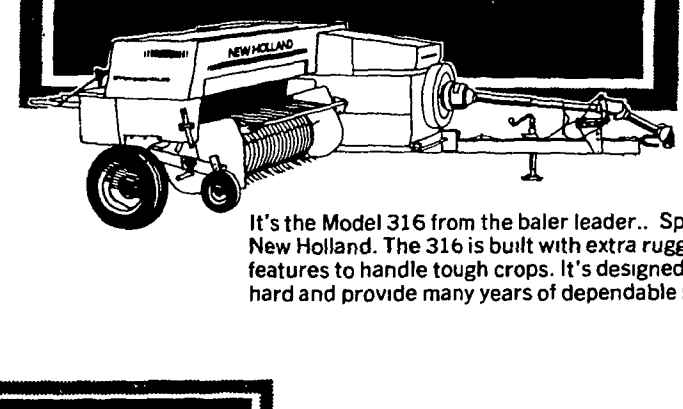
There's a big choice of crop heads, including the exclusive, interchangeable 3-row crop head/windrow pickup, 2-row low-profile crop head, conventional windrow pickup, sickle-bar and ear-corn snapping heads. Under-knife baffles increase capacity.
Like all Sperry New Holland machines, the "892" is backed by a service and parts system that's second to none.

Heavy duty from hitch to spout.



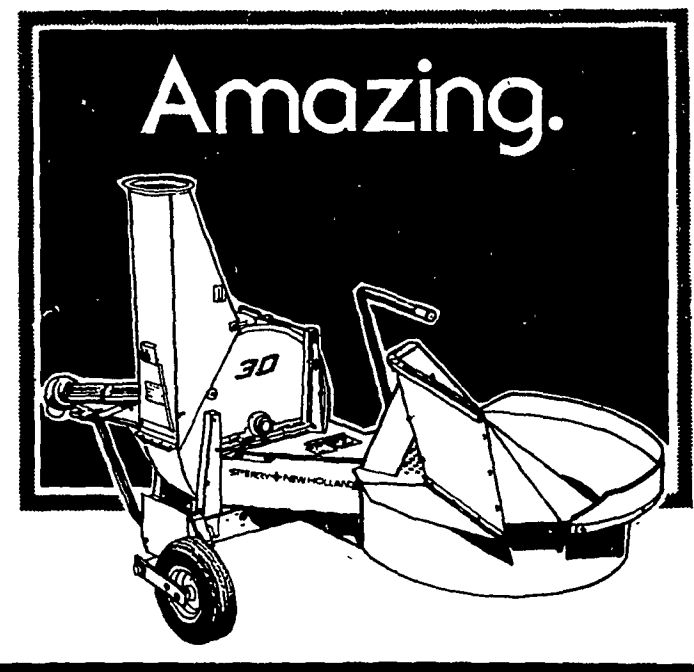
The Model 782 is built for heavy-duty performance The 12-knife cutterhead chops uniformly, without a recutter screen. But for special crops and conditions, recutter screens are available Check these outstanding features: Exclusive underbeveled knives eliminate the need for rebeveling Flip-up feedroll makes shearbar adjustment easy Choice of 540- or 1,000-rpm driveline You have a big choice of cropheads, including one- and two-row, low-profile cropheads, windrow pickup, sicklebar and one-row, ear-corn snapping head.

Latest in the best-selling 14" x 18" line.



It's the Model 316 from the baler leader.. Sperry New Holland. The 316 is built with extra rugged features to handle tough crops. It's designed to work hard and provide many years of dependable service.

Amazing.



The Sperry New Holland Model 30 1,000-rpm forage blower is more durable, compact and lighter-in-weight than most 540-rpm blowers But its performance will amaze you It features a 32-inch fan, bolt-on paddles and fan arms, an oil-filled gearbox on the Whirl-A-Feed' table and much more Stop in and let us demonstrate this amazing machine

Horticulture Show Scheduled

UNIVERSITY PARK — Autumn brings students, football games, and the annual Horticulture Show to Penn State. Sponsored by the Horticulture Club, the Horticulture Show will be September 17, under tents in the flower gardens on campus.

Open to the public, hours of the show will be from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Admission and parking are free.

This year's theme is "Horticulture, The Science Artfully Yours." Exhibits of fruit, ornamental, and floriculture crops will emphasize the science and art involved in horticulture practices. Visitors will see many ornamental plants used in landscaping designs. Also featured will be breeding techniques with several flowering plants, and different pruning and training methods of various fruit crops.

Annual plants in exhibits are grown over the summer months in greenhouses and flower gardens on campus by horticulture students. Mature plants are transplanted into exhibits seen by visitors to the Horticulture Show. Annuals grown include snapdragons and ageratum, alyssum and lobelia, and marigolds and zinnias, among others.

Perennials on exhibit at the Horticulture Show are ordered from nurseries and greenhouses in surrounding areas by students in the Horticulture Club. Students are advised of the availability and practicality of plants for their exhibits by faculty members in the Department of Horticulture. Degree of hardiness and individual cultural requirements are the limiting factors in selecting perennials for display in the show. Creeping junipers, azaleas, pines, and other trees, shrubs, and ground covers will be among the perennials used in exhibits.

Horticulture Club members will be avaialble during the show to answer questions, offer advice on plant care and pests, and help visitors select plants for their home, garden, and backyard areas. Students are responsible for all aspects of the Horticulture Show including design and construction of exhibits, ordering and growing animals and perennials, and promotion and financial management.

everything you own for the proper interfacing, Mrs. Burns recommended creating an interfacing file, in which every file would be marked with what type of interfacing it contained and what material it had worked best with.

As the seminar came to a close, Mrs. Burns answered questions from the audience, and left them with this advice, "Wear what is becoming for you."

Doris Thomas, Extension home economist, concluded the program with the awarding of sewing shears to 12 lucky door prize winners.

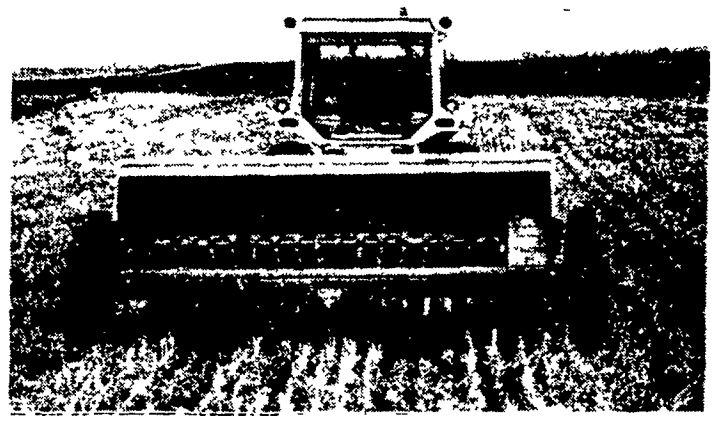
Flower Club Sponsors Annual Show

LEBANON — The Lebanon County Flower Club will sponsor its 34th annual Flower Show from 4 to 10 p.m. Wednesday and from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday at the Expo Building on the Lebanon Valley Exposition Grounds, Cornwall and Evergreen Roads, Lebanon.

This year's theme is "World of Beauty." All exhibits may be placed Tuesday from 7 to 9:30 p.m. and Wednesday from 7 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. The show is open to any amateur flower grower in Lebanon County, except for a few classes which are for members only.

Everything from houseplants to artistic arrangements to educational exhibits will be displayed. Prizes will be awarded to ribbon winners.

LILLISTON 9680
NO-TILL GRAIN DRILL



For Heavy Stubble and Hard Soils

The new Lilliston 9680 No-Till Grain Drill will operate in maximum severe conditions, where uniform penetration of heavy stubble and hard soils is required. Unlike some of the so-called "no-till" drills available today, which are actually conventional drills with front coulters added, the Lilliston is designed, from the ground up, for one purpose: No-till seeding.

Some Special Features

- Maximum empty weight of 7,160 lbs. transfers 390 lbs. of down pressure to each of the 18 openers on 7 inch spacings.
- Heavy duty 14 inch cutting coulters and double disc openers, spring-loaded scrapers and center rib gauge wheels.
- Three hydraulic cylinders regulate pressure on openers for precision depth control.
- Patented double-chambered feed cups which maintain even seed flow to the feed wheels.
- Cluster gear boxes for easy selection of 27 application speeds of seed and fertilizer.

Lancaster County 4-H'ers Recognized

BY KIMBERLY HERR

LANCASTER — After a summmer filled with lots of fun and generous amounts of hard work, Lancaster County's 4-H members gathered last Thursday for a Recognition Program.

The event, which featured 4-H projects and plenty of goodies, took up most of the day and culminated in the evening fashion show and achievement awards.

The highlight of the evening was the announcement of the Outstanding 4-H Girl of the Year. This year's winner was Debra Martin, a member of the Penn Manor Community Club, Central Tractor Club and Woolies Club.

The other contestants were Wanda Hershey, first runner-up and member of Elm Penryn Community Club; Monica Esh, Woolies Club; and Heather Johnson, Mastersonville Community Club.

Each girl presented a 30 to 60 minute commercial about 4-H.

This year's 16-year-old winner pretended to be cleaning her bedroom and sorting through 4-H momentos she picked up over the years.

"You've got a friend in 4-H," Debra told the crowd that packed the auditorium of the Farm and Home Center.

Wanda Hershey pretended to be selling newspapers with a hot tip about 4-H, Heather Johnson had a pleasant chat with a friend on the phone and Monica Esh told her audience, "If you have a hobby, 4-H has a program for you."

After their commercials, the girls had to answer a question.

Debra was asked how she would convince a friend to join 4-H and have an exciting summer. Debra explained what she would tell someone.

"4-H is time consuming, but in the end, it is worth the time you put into it."

In addition to the Outstanding Girl, other 4-H'ers were honored. All those who participated in State 4-H Achievement Days at Penn State received recognition, as did those named to the 4-H Honor Roll. Those chosen in the junior division were Betsy Royer and Lorri Rutt. Seniors named were Rhonda Witmer, Joseph Rohrer, Wanda Hershey and Mary Lou Rohrer.

Jay Irwin, Extension director, presented $200 Banker's Scholarships to LuAnn Brenneman and Liz Chapman.

Other special awards in food and clothing were given by Lancaster Farm Women Society 19. They were presented by Lavina Musser, vice-president of the society, to Deanne Myers, clothing; and Cindy Harnish, food. Both girls received a $50 savings bond.

It was announced that there were 759 exhibits on display and 85 of them had received gold ribbons, the highest award.

The Elm Penryn Club won the scrapbood contest, and the poster contest, designed for younger 4-H members, was won by Laurie Eshleman.

At the conclusion of the program, Donna Lucidi, Extension 4-H agent, offered a "genuine, heart-felt thank you" to all those who had made the day possible. Donna will be leaving the Extension to accept a teaching position in home economics.

"I very sincerely thank you for you help," she told her audience of parents, 4-H'ers, leaders and coworkers.

During their presentations about 4-H Wanda Hershey, left, portrayed a newspaper girl, Heather Johnson, center, chatted on the phone with a friend, and Monica Esh explained why 4-H was so meaningful to her.

Wanda Hershey answers a question during the Outstanding Girl competition. The other contestants wait their turn, as each girl had to choose a question and answer it to the best of their ability.

Debra Martin, the 1983 Outstanding 4-H Girl, explained various mementoes she had gathered through her 4-H adventures. This presentation was one of the reasons she was named winner.

4-H Pig Club Sponsors Show and Sale

SUNBURY — Twenty-seven 4-H swine exhibitors competed for ribbons and dollars at the Central District 4-H Swine Show and Sale at Keisters Middleburg Auction, Monday.

Grand Champion won by Sue Schock's, #235 Duroc, was sold to Hatfield Packing Company for a record $3.13 per pound. Lynn Schwalm represented Hatfield.

Miss Schock is enrolled at Bloomsburg University as a freshman in computer science and the funds will be used to buy college testbooks.

Reserve Grand Champion was placed on a 205-pound pig shown by Steve Miller and was sold to Keisters Middleburg Auction at $1.25 per pound.

Ten other buyers supported the sale of about 15 cents above the local market prices. Local buyers showing strong support for the 4-H'ers were Lee Fisher, Shamokin Dam Meats; Economy Lockers, Penndale; Keisters Farmers Market; Shamokin Packing Company; Double R. Skating Ring, Herndon; Zechman's Butcher Shop, Benfer; Gary's Farm House Restaurant; Shivelys Meats, Mifflinburg. Pa. Jersey youth receive production awards

COLUMBUS, Oh. — Hillacres Ben Ellen, a 4-yr.-old cow owned by Helen Arrowsmith, Peach Bottom, Penna., placed sixth in the 1982 National Jersey Youth Production Contest. This event is sponsored annually by The American Jersey Cattle Club, Columbus, Ohio.

Helen will receive a copper cow plaque and a certificate mounted on a plaque during the Junior Banquet and Fun Fest, held after the All American Junior Jersey Show in Louisville, Ky., on November 5.

"Ellen" had an actual record of 16,705 lbs. milk and 759 lbs. fat in 305-days at three years, one month of age, equivalent to 18,067 lbs. 4% fat-corrected milk. Her record, adjusted for age, was 18,550 lbs. milk and 820 lbs. fat for a dollar value of $2,704.19. "Ellen's" Cow Performance Index of +208 ranks her in the top 6% of the breed.

Mercury Aspen, a 3-yr.-old cow owned by Jay Clark, Enon Valley, Penna., placed ninth in the 1982 National Jersey Youth Production Contest.

Jay will receive a lucite cow plaque and a certificate mounted on a plaque during the Junior Banquet in Louisville, Ky., on November 5.

"Aspen" produced 14,615 lbs. milk and 676 lbs. fat in 305-days at two years, one month of age, equivalent to 15,986 lbs. 4% fat-corrected milk. Her record, after adjustment for age, was 18,129 lbs. milk and 825 lbs. fat for a gross dollar value of $2,684.40. "Aspen's" Cow Performance Index of +269 ranks her in the top 1% of the breed.

Pixys Secret Kathy, a 5-yr.-old cow owned by Jason Robison, Coal Center, Penna., placed tenth in the contest.

Jason will receive a lucite plaque and a certificate mounted on a plaque during the Junior Banquet.

"Kathy" produced 17,238 lbs. milk and 861 lbs. fat in 305-days at four years, two months of age, equivalent to 19,810 lbs. 4% fat-corrected milk. Her record, after adjustment for age, was 17,410 lbs. milk and 852 lbs. fat for a gross dollar value of $2,681.36. She has a Cow Performance Index of +212, which places her in the top 6% of the breed.

Brave Forest Gentle, a 3-yr.-old cow owned by Lisa Lusk, Charleroi, Penna., placed fifteenth in the Production Contest.

Lisa will receive a lucite cow plaque and a mounted certificate during the Junior Banquet.

"Gentle" produced 13,471 lbs. milk and 567 lbs. fat in 305-days at one year, 10 months of age, equivalent to 13,893 lbs. 4% fat-corrected milk. Her record, after adjustment for age, was 18,319 lbs. milk and 754 lbs. fat for a gross dollar value of $2,575.55. "Gentle" ranks among the top 1% of the breed with a Cow Performance Index of +272.

The contest is open to any 4-H or FFA member under 19 years of age with a Jersey project completing a DHIA or DHIR lactation. Winners are selected by computing the product value of the animals' production adjusted for age.

STOP THIS ROT.

Anchor Sila-Lator 2X or Silage Inoculant 160X keeps out rot, seals in nutrients.

Inside every untreated silo pit and bale of hay lurks rot The monster that eats protein and energy leaving a trail of waste nutrient loss and musty stale forage behind it

Now you can stop this rot with Anchor silage inoculants—Sila Lator 2X for dry application or Silage Inoculant 160X for liquid Both are proven microbiotic products that help preserve most types of silage —corn silage haylage and high moisture corn—and now baled hay

With Anchor silage inoculants you get the fastest protection possible against rot That's because they contain a specially selected team of beneficial bacteria aided by four enzymes featuring something no one else has—Streptococcus faecium Cernelle 68

This patented bacterial strain beats rot to the punch multiplying more than twice as fast as other strains And unlike other strains it grows in highly preservative pH's as low as 3 2 in both hot and cold conditions

With rot under control you get more protein and energy more dry matter improved palatability less heat loss and runoff That's proven in leading university trials So you can store your silage or baled hay longer and get better-doing animals from better-quality silage or hay

You might think that fighting rot is a costly battle Not true with Anchor silage inoculants It's less than a dollar a ton to treat silage And it's only a fraction of the cost of acid preparations to treat baled hay Application's also a snap

Now's the time to control musty rotten forage And nothing does it faster than Anchor silage inoculants—for higher protein higher energy silage and hay

Ask for Anchor Sila Lator 2X or Anchor Silage Inoculant 160X today from your Anchor animal health supplier Or call toll free 1 800-821 7467 and ask for Don Hoff (In Missouri call collect 1 816-233 1385)

York 4-H'ers Exhibit Hogs

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

THOMASVILLE — Brian Bankert, veteran 4-H hog exhibitor from Hanover, walked out of the showring with top honors at the York County swine round-up, held August 17 at the Thomasville Livestock Market.

The 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bankert then topped off his Grand champion win by earning the judge's nod as champion showman of the day-long event.

Bidding was spirited as the 240-pound purebred Duroc from homebred lines on the Bankert Duroc breeding farm trotted around the sawdust arena, having earned his young owner first spot in the sale that followed the show.

Victor of the champion auction competition was Hatfield Packing Company, with buyer Doug Clemens holding out to $3 per pound for the purple-ribboned winner.

Hatfield also hung into the bidding contest as the second animal crossed the sale block, paying $1.55 per pound for the reserve champion, shown by Gus Partlett, Airville.

Parlett's entry was a Chester White crossed with Duroc, and was a product of the select breeding lines used on the James Parlett's family hog operation.

In the pairs competition, Shawn Beard emerged the victor with his well-matched entries. Roger Bankert was buyer of the top pair, with the final bid of 75 cents per pound.

Reserve pair honors went to Chris Miller, York R10, and York feed firm, Spangler and Sprenkle, Inc., was the winning bidder at 80 cents per pound.

Champion fitter of the show was Monica Spahr, East Prospect. Reserve fitter ribbons went to Tim Ferrence, Spring Grove, and Melissa Trostle, Red Lion, earned reserve champion showman honors.

The total of 43 hogs sold in the round-up sale averaged 72 cents with the champion price included, and came to a 61 cent per pound average excluding the champion price.

A list of roundup winners follows:

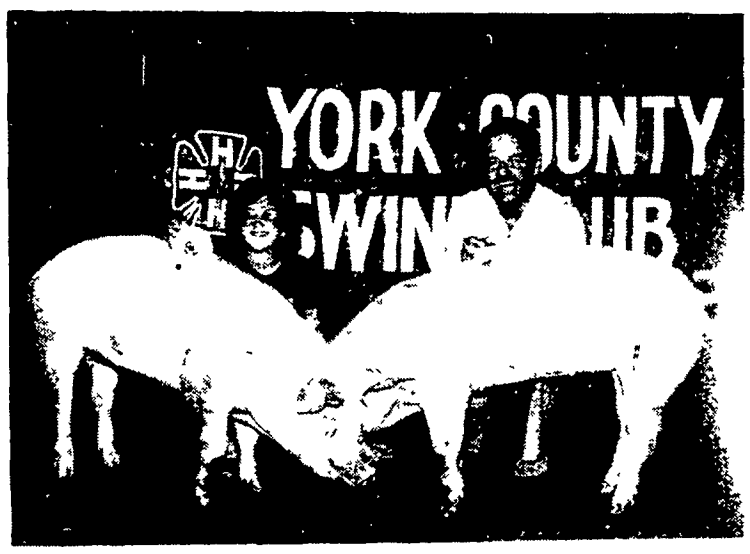
Hatfield buyer Doug Clemens was the winning bidder at $3/per pound for the York 4-H hog round-up champion, exhibited by Brian Bankert.

Champion pair was exhibited by Shawn Beard, with Bankert's Durocs, represented by Darlene Bankert, the winning bidder, at 75 cents per pound.

Gus Parlett earned $1.55 per pound for his reserve champion hog at the York round-up, selling to buyer Doug Clemens, for Hatfield Packing Company.



Loren Detter, for Spangler and Sprenkle feeds, bid 80 cents per pound for Chris Miller's reserve champion pair.

Calf Dressing Winners Named

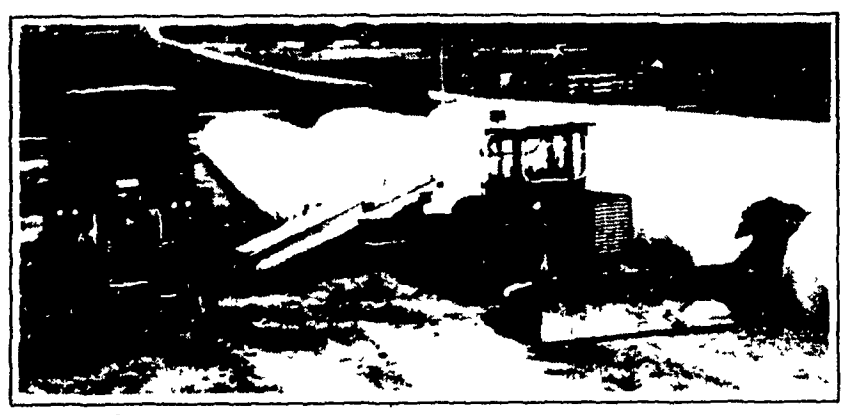
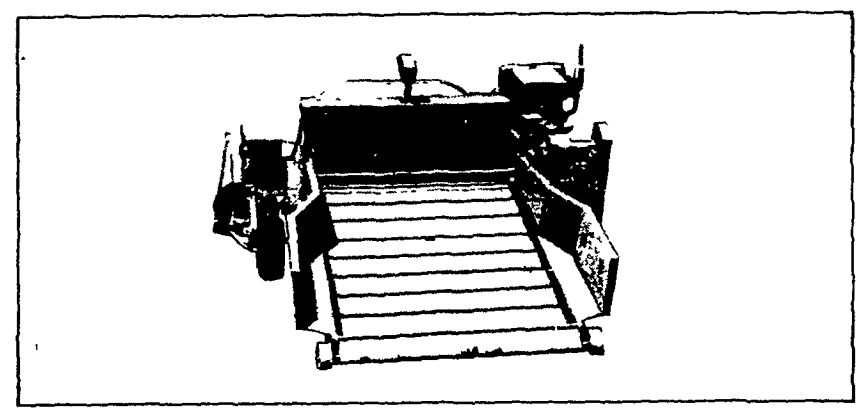
MORE FOR LESS.

The Storage System for the future. Here Now!

THE AG-BAG SYSTEM





MORE FEED. MORE STORAGE. MORE HIGH QUALITY TDN & PROTEIN.

Select from three models of AG-BAG Machines. Motorized, Hydraulic, and Gear-Driven. AG-BAG lets you match the machine to your job. Big or small. Whether you're DAIRY or BEEF AG-BAG will store More For Less. The AG-BAG System. Air-tight storage with more versatility than any other system. Just look at these AG-BAG ADVANTAGES:

1. UNLIMITED oxygen-limiting storage
2. Storage for ALL forages & grain
3. Transportable
4. Easy to use and little maintenance
5. NO dangerous silo gases
6. Silo fires WON'T occur
7. Higher moisture forage
8. NO unloader to break down
9. Extra income and potential from custom bagging
10. THE Forage System for the 80's

JUST LISTEN TO WHAT THESE AG-BAG BELIEVERS HAVE TO SAY:

Kenneth Popham of Floresville, Texas

Kenneth runs a 465 cow Dairy and said this about AG-BAG: "At today's interest rates you can't afford any other type of storage . . . Even with the yearly cost of bags it's still inexpensive storage . . a whole lot cheaper than building barns and hiring help I put up 13 bags last year and after seeing the results, I'll put up 25 bags this year. The bags are a good thing."

Don Carter of Parkdale, Oregon

"The best move I ever made" . . . says Don Carter in reference to his switch to bagging silage on his dairy near Parkdale, Oregon.

"I get 18% more feed from the same acreage and the feed lasts three times as long. I used to clean my bunks after three days, now I only need to clean them after 10 days."

Roland Rasmussen of Blair, Nebraska

"In addition to everything else, it's a management tool" . . . says rancher, Roland Rasmussen of Blair, Nebraska

Roland farms 350 acres west of Blair, Nebraska, and fattens about 650 cattle from 600 lbs. to finish.

"By labeling every bag as to date and kind of feed, I can mix my feeds and eliminate the guess work in making a ration. I feed alfalfa silage, corn silage and ground ear corn stored exclusively in the bags, purchasing only my minerals and vitamin supplements."

"The AG-BAG system has enabled me to increase carrying capacity per acre at a reduced cost of gain."

Bert Anderson of Sceptre, Saskatchewan

"At least 30% more feed . . . I can guarantee at least that" . . . says rancher, Bert Anderson, of Sceptre, Saskatchewan.

"I've been able to cut my grain feeding costs in half since converting to the bagging. It's just like feeding grass. I've also eliminated the need for a liquid supplement that we always fed before going to the AG-BAG System . . ."

HERE'S WHAT THE AG-BAG SYSTEM CAN DO FOR YOU
1 BAG	150 TONS
6 BAGS	900 TONS
12 BAGS	1,800 TONS

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

The other week I had a pleasant change from my usual work day of canning peaches or tomatoes or freezing beans. Cindy and I took a bus trip to Atlantic City. I knew that you can almost be paid to take the trip down to the shore, but I didn't realize that a bus stopped just three miles from our house.

I enjoyed going to the seashore again and was reminded of the first time that I saw the ocean. A great aunt of mine stood me at the railing along the boardwalk and said, "Now I want you to remember this scene always." There were the usual variety of people parading and the same noisy seagulls overhead. The number of shops selling novelties, food and clothes were just as I'd remembered them from years ago.

We had a nice meal and were seated overlooking the ocean and beach. The small planes flew by pulling their advertising banners, and the people lolled on the sand as usual.

New casinos are being built along the boardwalk. Those that are operating were shoulder to shoulder with folks jostling for position before the slot machines. I pondered as to how so many people were free on a weekday afternoon. While we ate our complimentary evening meal, a refund from the bus company, we talked to a couple who joked that they'd saved two welfare checks to come down there—actually he was a Conrail employee. But, I'm afraid that could have been true of some people that were there.

We came home through a rain storm and were glad to find that we had over two inches of rain at our farm also. It should help the corn and I know it gave a big push to my watermelon and cantaloupes. They are big and delicious.

N.Y. Dairy Princess Named

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Patricia Ellen Patterson, Watertown, formerly Jefferson County Dairy Princess, was crowned 1983-1984 New York State Dairy Princess at the coronation held recently at the Sheraton Inn, Syracuse, New York. She was selected from a field of 43 contestants and received a $500 cash scholarship.

As New York State Dairy Princess, Miss Patterson will serve as a spokesperson for the state's dairy industry. Her first official appearance as princess will take place in the Dairy Products Building at the New York State Fair today. Throughout her year-long reign, she will appear on radio, television and at agricultural functions, speaking on behalf of milk and milk products.

Preliminaries to the pageant included two days of competition, during which each contestant made a three to five minute school presentation in order to judge their speaking ability. In addition, a panel of judges held personal interviews with each girl, evaluating them on personality, poise, appearance and overall performance as a dairy spokesperson.

Miss Patterson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Patterson. They own a 400-acre dairy farm with 30 head of cattle.

Peach Season Is Underway

LANCASTER — The picking of peaches in Pennsylvania is just getting underway. Because each year's peach crop is affected by weather factors - too cold, too wet, hail, or just right - it's hard to say what a normal crop is.

According to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service, we'll have about 13 percent more peaches than last year. New Jersey will have about 25 percent more peaches than a year ago.

If you plan to freeze or can peaches you should find a source of supply, then start when your favorite variety ripens.

The most suitable peaches for freezing are the Haven varieties because they are firmer and hold their shape better than others. And they don't darken as quickly as some varieties when frozen. The Red Haven is one of the better varieties for freezing. It's an early variety, ripening during the first week in August. Since most varieties have a 10 to 14 day picking season, there tends to be some overlapping of varieties.

The Sun High and Loring are two mid-season varieties good for either canning or freezing. The Loring is probably the better variety of the two for canning. The Sun High tends to be a little stringy but if you like that old-time peach flavor with a little texture and body to your canned peaches, this may be the peach for you.

Another mid-season variety is the Blake, a beautiful peach with a bright red center. It's the epitome of what a cut peach should look like in a salad or freshly sliced. But when canned or frozen, that beautiful red center turns a murky muddy color, which makes the peach unappetizing even though it's okay to eat.

A couple of late season varieties for "putting up" are the Rio Rosa Gem and Jersey Queen.

The Elberta used to be a favorite peach for canning, but it's quickly being replaced by other varieties.

The way to be a "peach picker" in the marketplace is to look, not feel. Peaches aren't for pinching. Pinching peaches will just bruise the fruit, and the fruit will quickly turn brown.

Select peaches that are plump and well formed with no decay or injury. Then look at the color. A creamy yellow background color behind the red blush is what you want.

Peaches with green in the background are immature and will never develop a full flavor.

The red blush on peaches is pretty, but it doesn't tell you much about ripeness or flavor. Many varieties develop a good red color long before they are ripe. Look instead for the background color.

Peaches are picked at the firm-ripe stage of maturity. Firm-ripe peaches are left on the tree until enough sugar has developed to insure complete ripening. They are still firm enough to ship without damage, but are not yet ripe enough to eat. Full ripe or tree ripe peaches are just too fragile to ship.

Most peaches you buy in the supermarket today have been brushed and the fuzz removed. Most have also been hydro-cooled, too. They have been given an ice cold bath to remove the field heat and then place under refrigeration to slow the ripening process. When you buy them they are too hard to eat. Unless you aren't ready to eat them right away, don't put them in the refrigerator. Let them set out at room temperature for a couple of days, and they will become soft, juicy and fragrant. Since peaches give off ethylene gas, a natural ripening agent, you can hasten the ripening process if you put the peaches in a paper bag and tie it shut. When the peaches are ripe, use immediately or store in the refrigerator.

'Strengthen Your Family Seminar' Scheduled

HERSHEY — Caroline Bird, author of "The Good Years: Your Life in the 21st Century," will be the keynote speaker at the "Strengthen Your Family Seminar," scheduled for Oct. 6 at the Hershey Convention Center. Ms. Bird will speak on what to look for in the 21st century.

Eleven other speakers will also participate in the all-day program. "Families," a special comedy and drama presentation about American family life today by the Independent Eye will also take place. Other topics include: stress, calorie cutting cooking, premenstrual syndrome, solar homes, personal financial management and antiques.

The event is sponsored by the eight county Capital region of the Cooperative Extension Service, Penn State. The registration fee is $18 and includes lunch. Deadline for registration is Sept. 6 and should be sent to Doris W. Thomas, Extension home economist, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room L, Lancaster, Pa. 17601.

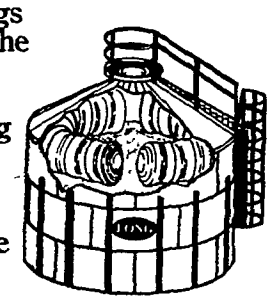
LONG'S CORRUGLASS™ BINS FOR HIGH MOISTURE GRAIN STORAGE

Long incorporates the strength of corrugated steel with the protective coating of glass to produce the most affordable, glass-lined, oxygen limiting storage system for high moisture grain that you can buy. This feed system allows livestock growers to carry more animals on the same number of acres.

OXYGEN LIMITING BREATHER SYSTEM PROTECTS FEED AND CONTROLS THE FERMENTATION PROCESS

Breather bags suspended in the roof of the bin provide an oxygen limiting environment for the feed. This oxygen limiting feature controls the amount of fermentation that takes place within the bin. Feed stays fresh longer, feed losses are cut—both quality and quantity, and the need for drying equipment and heater fuel is eliminated.

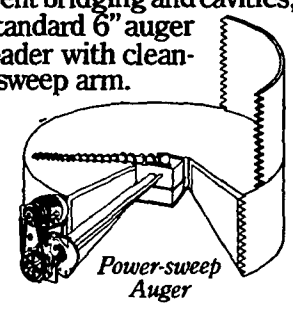


HIGH MOISTURE GRAIN IS MORE DIGESTIBLE, MORE PALATABLE, AND MORE NUTRITIOUS

The controlled fermentation process helps livestock to utilize more of the nutrients available in the feed. The high moisture feed also tastes better, and helps to obtain greater milk production and weight gain at a more economical cost.

BOTTOM UNLOADING SYSTEMS

Bottom unloading systems feature proven dependability and low maintenance cost. Your choice of tapered, power-driven sweep auger to help prevent bridging and cavities, or standard 6" auger unloader with clean-out sweep arm.



Power-sweep Auger

OTHER FEATURES

Glass-fused-to-steel wall and roof panels for maximum protection.

Corrugated, glass-fused-to-steel wall sheets with exterior stiffeners provide extra strength.

Radius drawn roof with 30.5 degree pitch offers extra strength against snow build-up.

4-H Members sell hogs

QUAKERTOWN — Spirited bidding highlighted the recently held 4-H market hog sale at the Quakertown livestock auction.

4-H members from Bucks and Montgomery counties exhibited some 72 pigs, weighing from light weights of 155 lbs. to 285 lb. heavy weights.

After a morning of showing their animals to a judge for championship honors in type, fitting and showmanship, nine Montgomery County 4-H'ers waited for the sale to find out if they were to break even on their projects or perhaps make a little profit.

Generous support was afforded by all buyers as Hatfield Packing Company purchased the Reserve Grand Champion of the show owned by Mike Bergey, Telford, for $3.35 a pound. The same buyer purchased Mike's champion pen of three hogs at $1.85 per pound.

Other Montgomery County 4-H members and successful buyers included: Dan Cochran, Trappe, and P.J. Kulp, Collegeville, whose hogs were purchased by Leidy, Inc, of Souderton; John and Dan Mentzner, Royersford, and Lauren Bergey, Telford, with animals bought by Hatfield Packing Company, Hatfield; Moyer and Son, Souderton, and their purchase from 4-H owner Rebecca Roth, Collegeville; Megan Roth, Collegeville, and her buyer Henning's Market, Harleysville. John Mentzner also had Farm Bureau, Souderton, as a buyer of one animal.

Peaches are Sweeter than Ever

LANCASTER — There is good news for peach lovers.

First, Pennsylvania produced 12 percent more peaches than last year, and second, this year's peaches are tastier.

"Because of the drought, the peaches are better," said Bill Smedley, marketing specialist from the Pa. Department of Agriculture.

"This year's peaches have a higher sugar content because of increased sunlight," Smedley explained. "They are better than they've been in years."

This is the height of the peach season, and prices, according to Smedley, are low.

Two peaches currently available are the Sun High and Loring.

"They are the best buy of the season," Smedley said. "They are very sweet and very good for canning."

The Blake peach, which will be coming out soon, is an "excellent eating peach," according to Smedley.

Two peaches to look for in a few weeks are the Rio Rosa Gem and the Jersey Queen.

Here are two ideas to try with fresh peaches.

Peach Fritters

1 egg
1/2 cup milk (maybe a little more)
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder

Beat egg and milk well, add salt, flour and baking powder. Peel peaches and half them; dip into batter and dry slowly. Dust with 4X sugar and a little cinnamon.

Peach Crumb Cake

1 package (4-serving size) butterscotch flavor instant pudding and pie filling
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarin
1 cup chopped nuts
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
2/3 cup milk
1 egg, beaten
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
2 1/4 cups all purpose biscuit mix
1 cup diced peeled fresh peaches

Combine pudding mix, sugar and butter in bowl, blending with pastry blender or fork until mixture forms coarse crumbs; stir in nuts. Measure one cup crumb mixture, add cinnamon and nutmeg; set aside. To remaining crumb mixture, add milk, egg, almond extract and biscuit mix; stir to blend well. Fold in 3/4 cup of the peaches. Pour into greased and floured 9-inch layer pan. Scatter remaining 1/4 cup peaches over batter and sprinkle with reserved crumb mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes. Cool 5 minutes. Invert on rack, turn crumb side up and cool. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar, if desired.

Reflector Pans Do a Big Job

NEWARK, Del. — Reflector pans are those metal bowls that sit under range burners, collect boiled-over liquids and get grimy. Hardly anybody takes them very seriously.

But believe it or not, these pans are among the hardest working parts of the range, says Delaware Extension agent Deborah Walker. They help keep the energy efficiency of the surface unit at its maximum.

Reflector pans must withstand temperatures of up to 1,000 degrees F and thermal shock caused by cold liquids spilling on the hot metal. The salt and acids in many spilled foods also take their toll. With all this wear and tear, reflector pans need proper use and care so they can continue to perform their vital energy-saving function.

Keep reflector pans clean, but avoid excessive scrubbing with harsh abrasives. Don't use pans that are too big for the burner, which restrict air flow. And prevent boil-overs caused by leaving cooking utensils in the pan. Otherwise reflectors lose their original shine, and can't do the job they're meant to do.

Wipe up spills as soon as possible to prevent hardening. Soak the reflector pan in hot water and detergent for up to 20 minutes, depending on the degree of soiling.

Rub the soiled area with a dishcloth to remove burned-on foods. If they won't come off, apply a cleanser and let it soak in for several minutes; then scrub. Repeat the process if necessary.

Reflector pans should be replaced as they wear out to keep the range operating efficiently. How long they last will depend on the care they receive.

One of Lowest Feed Costs/cwt. Milk in County

Corn Silage, Hay, Haylage, and Brown's 20 Hi Milker make up the feeding program. All feeds are purchased, yet according to his farm accountant Ken has one of the lowest feed costs/cwt of milk in the County.

Grain Quality Important

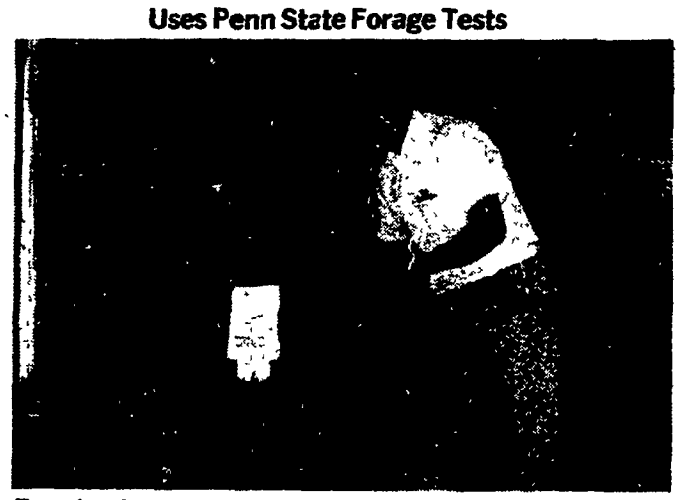
Uses Penn State Forage Tests



Regular forage testing and ration balancing are keys to herd health. In the past 12 months he has had only 2 cystic cows. His calving interval was as low as 11.8 months this year. Carl Brown (pictured) works closely with Ken's veterinarians at Willow Creek Vet Clinic to maintain good herd health.

Service is Important

Bag and bulk delivery are made promptly. Ken likes the way Ken Kratz, Brown's bag truck driver, delivers and stacks his bagged feed, and Paul Reedy, his bulk truck driver, gets feed to him when he runs short, even on a Saturday.

Bidding is spirited at Lebanon sale

BY DONNA McCONAUGHEY

LEBANON — The 1983 Lebanon Area Fair was concluded with the 4-H and FFA Junior Livestock Sale. Although prices didn't reach last year's record breaking totals, the seats and ringside were filled with buyers and spectators from the Lebanon Valley area.

The Grand and Reserve Grand Champion lambs, both Dorsets, sold for $2.90 a pound each. The Champion Lamb was shown by Matthew Hetrick, son of Linda and Dennis Hetrick, of Palmyra. A member of the Northern Lebanon FFA Chapter, Matthew bred and raised his lamb as part of his Dorset breeding project. The 15-year-old is a rookie at Lebanon Fair but has six years of experience showing sheep as a member of the Dauphin County 4-H Sheep Club. In addition to experience at his county 4-H Roundup, Matthew has shown at KILE and Farm Show. The meaty champion was sold to Lebanon Valley National Bank.

Another rookie claimed Reserve Champion Market Lamb honors. Darren Grumbine, son of Dennis and Barbara Grumbine, of Myerstown, ended his first year in 4-H by topping the competition with his Dorset lamb. The Grumbines have a Dorset flock but purchased this stretchy lamb. The results of Darren's first attempt at showing sheep, the Reserve Champion sold to Wenger's Farm Machinery of Myerstown.

Perhaps Darren's toughest competition of the show was his brother, Daryl's lambs. When asked how it felt to win over his brother, Darren glanced over his shoulder and quietly said, "Good, Really Good!"

The Champion Sale Steer was shown by Rich Boger of Lebanon and sold for $1.90 a pound to Horn and Horn Restaurant, of Lebanon. The Simmental cross had claimed Grand Champion Open Show honors and was moved into the Champion spot in the sale after Heisey decided to take her Champion Steer of the Junior Show to the Chianina Field Day and on to other shows this fall. Although not living on a farm, Rich keeps his 4-H hog and steer projects on his uncle's farm near Lebanon.

The Reserve Champion Steer was exhibited by Heather Heisey of Lebanon and sold to Dutchway Farm Market, of Myerstown, for $1.40 a pound.

Brian Kreider's Grand Champion started the hog sale with a bang. Auctioneer Glenn Wenger found the bidders unwilling to budge from the $5.00 mark until Carl Wenger of Wenger's Farm Machinery cast his hat into the bidder's circle after Glenn announced last year's top price was $7.60 a pound. The rise to the final price of $7.00 a pound was rapid after that, but the owner was Peoples National Bank of Lebanon with Wenger as contending bidder. Peoples National Bank representative Joseph K. Kreider had a special interest in this hog as it was shown by his grandson.

Young Brian Kreider did not show any evidence of the tears that are often seen on the faces of first year 4-H'ers after their project animal is sold. When asked how he felt after the sale of his first Champion, Brian just smiled with a look that showed he knows what $7.00 a pound for a 216 pound hog can mean. Will he return to the show ring next Year? "Yep, You bet!" says Brian. He's had a taste of success and is not about to quit.

A veteran showman, Daryl Grumbine sold his 232 pound Reserve Champion Hog to Wenger's Farm Machinery for $4.60 a pound. Daryl, too, has had a taste of success and continues to come back year after year to claim the well deserved prizes which signify many months of hard work.

Lebanon Valley buyers paid an average of $1.08 a pound for 22 market lambs, $1.21 a pound for six steers, and 86 market hogs averaged $.96 a pound. The sale total was $28,693.15.

Buyers at the 1983 Lebanon County Junior Livestock Sale were:

H.L. Meyer, Inc., M.C. Hershey Farms, LeAnn Yorkshire Farms, Evergreen Tractor, D.L. Grumbine & Sons, Sheridan Supply, Richard Kreider, Pioneer Seed, J. Walter Dunlap, Wengers Farm Machinery, Wengers Leasing, J.K. & B. Inc., Wenger's Farms.

People's National Bank, Agway Farm and Home Store, Agway Bldg. and Equipment, Lebanon Valley National Bank, Arnold Durocs, Laudermilch Meats, Swope and Bashore, Hatfield Packing, Friendly Persuasion Farms, Willie the Butcher, Dutchway Farm Market, Horn and Horn Restaurant, Keller Brothers Ford, White Birch Farms, School Creek Suffolk and Locust Ridge Farm.

USDA reports on NIRS testing

WASHINGTON, D.C. "The main problem is evaluating forage quality is the lack of a method that provides quick, accurate, and precise measurements of protein, fiber, and digestibility," Gordon C. Marten, USDA forage researcher, reported at the American Society of Agronomy here today.

In an effort to solve the problem, Marten put to work the near infrared reflectance spectroscopy (NIRS) system, a simplified version is now in common use in grain research and marketing to measure oil, protein, and moisture. He added some computer technology to enable scanning of complex samples of alfalfa, birdsfoot trefoil, red clover and white clover, representing a wide range of quality. The samples were used to provide base information (quality standards) for the NIRS system.

"We found that NIRS, via our scanning monochromator spectrocomputer system, can evaluate forage quality as accurately as the slow, laborious chemical or biological methods now in common use," Marten said.

Marten, with the Agricultural Research Service, stationed at the University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn., said the results of his studies indicate NIRS can be used for routine assays of protein, fiber and digestibility of legume forages.

This new test for forage quality will allow farmers, especially dairymen, to be more accurate and therefore more efficient in developing feed mixes.

Big Farmer's Market

One way to attract some attention to the farmer's problem is to sell produce to the consumer at the same price that farmers normally receive for their crops. That's exactly what they're doing in California in a great big two-day farmer's market.

Information about this farm-city extravaganza comes from Leavitt White, a retired DuPont company public relations man. He's been involved for years with various kinds of farm-city projects and has served as chairman of the National Farm-City Publicity and Public Relations Committee.

This special two-day farmer's market will be held in August in the Cow Palace in San Francisco. It was first held in 1981 and drew more than 20,000 people. Planners think this year's event will be even bigger. They also feel it will provide an excellent meeting ground for farmers and consumers where they can create a little goodwill and some understandings of some of their mutual problems

1,000 Tons of Produce

Lev says farmers and their wives will bring more than 1,000 tons of fresh produce and other agricultural items to the market and will price them at what they normally receive at the farm. In other words, if a farmer gets 50 cents a dozen for eggs at the farm, that's what they'll be at the farmer's market during those two days. The same philosophy will be followed for a whole range of agricultural goods produced in the nation's number one agricultural state.

Obviously, consumers are going to get some good buys, and maybe they will also realize that the seemingly high cost of food is not the farmer's fault. There's no more graphic way to point out to consumers the farmer's share of the food dollar than to sell farm products for the farm share. Obviously, that kind of marketing has its limitations. There aren't many urbanites ready to buy a steer, a pig, or a bushel of corn in hopes of taking it home and fixing the evening meal. But in California, there are literally hundreds of fresh farm products that can be consumed directly and will no doubt be purchased at bargain prices.

Adopt locally?

Is this an idea that could be borrowed locally. Why couldn't the Delaware Council of Farm Organizations, or some other statewide group, get behind such an effort? Why not stage it on the Market Street Mall, draw on some of the agriculturally-oriented companies to provide promotion, and have a great big farmer's market, where Delaware farm products could be sold directly to consumers at bargain prices.

Add to that some educational exhibits and handouts that drive home the point—that the farmer's share of the food dollar is small and getting much smaller. That the American consumer is the best fed consumer in the world at the smallest relative cost and that our agricultural abundance, both locally and nationally, is a blessing, even though at times it seems a little costly.

What better place to tell agriculture's story—right there in a farmer's market where food buyers are bagging up fresh roasting ears of corn and beautiful ripe tomatoes at prices well below what they would expect to pay.

Better Understanding

Such an event would take some time to plan—perhaps it's too late for this year. But what about next summer? It will take a few folks that are really willing to work to get it organized, but I believe there would be ample support from agribusiness and from farmers themselves. There might also be some civic and farm organization support.

Some people say better farm-city understanding is a waste of time and energy. After all, what difference does it make. Consumers are looking for cheap food, the government maintains a philosophy that provides cheap food, and the farmer takes it on the chin. Well, that's the farmer's point of view. Listen to consumers and you know some of them feel like they're being ripped off in the supermarkets. And in many cases, they think the farmer has got a pretty good deal.

Somewhere between those two positions there must be room for understanding. Maybe that understanding won't be putting money in a hardpressed farmer's pocket, but in the long run it's bound to help. Laws and regulations that affect farmers are passed by consumers and understanding consumers will make better laws. Understanding consumers will also make farmers feel better about what they're doing even if they're not making as much money as they'd like.

Any number of surveys of farmers themselves reveals that one of their top priorities is a better understanding from their city cousins about agriculture and how it works. If farmers themselves say that, it must be fairly important.

Brockett's Ag Advice

By John E. Brockett
Farm Management Agent
Lewistown Extension Office

Reduced Feed Costs

Reducing feed costs in relation to income or production is a challenging goal. How can it be done?

1. Balanced rations so each category of feed (energy, protein, minerals, vitamins) complements the others. In otherwords just enough energy to make maximum use of protein as well as just enough protein to use all of the available energy.

2. Producing and feeding top quality forage especially hay crop forage. The better the forage, the more protein and the more energy that a cow gets from each bite.

3. Air movement is critical in hot weather and in cold weather (and all weather in between). Air movement causes a cooling effect by drawing off some moisture when it is warm. It also removes odors, reduces fly problems, and provides fresher air for breathing. Air movement can be causes by natural air flow or forced air flow via fans. Usually the first is supplemented with the second. Anytime a cow feels more comfortable, she eats more feed and thus does better in the milk pail.

4. Reduce stress and strain on the cow especially her milking system. High somatic cell counts are an indication of stress. It could be from poor milking techniques (too many machines, too long machine time, stimulation too far ahead, fluctuating vacuum, etc).

5. Forage test to see what you have with which to work. It is the starting point for a balanced ration Test forage starting now then retest whenever forages change (at least every 4 months). Know what you are feeding don't guess.

6. Weigh your grain for each cow. Why feed a 40 lb. cow the same as a 60 lb. cow? Again a scale should be more accurate than your eye. Feed by need of the cow not your emotions.

7. Feed at least a partial mixed ration if you have a tree stall system.

8. Use a milk weighing and testing program. Notice I said use not just be on one. Don't worry about your neighbor. The dairy business has become too competitive. You can cry if you want, but 5 years down the road 1 out of every 4 of your neighbors will no longer be in business if you survive.

Machine Costs

One of the big variables in cost is machine costs. (repairs, fuel, hire, depreciation). High repair bills can indicate a number of problems Some of these can be easily changed some may be inherent, and some seem to be a fact of life

The first two can be corrected The last will have to be accepted.

1. Driving too fast for conditions is a number one cause of high repair bills. This can be corrected. Down time far exceeds time saved by too fast driving. I can often pick out farms where inexperienced hired help, uncaring hired help, or teenage boys are the principal drivers of equipment by the repair bills. Slow down for economy as well as safety.

2. Inadequate maintenance is another real bugaboo. In fact I would have to plead guilty on this one. It is easier to tolerate a squeaky fan belt than to tighten it (that ease is shot when it breaks).

3. Old machinery causes high repairs simply because parts become stressed, brittle, worn, or loose. There comes a point in time when it is no longer worth while to fix it.

4. Excess driving is a hard one to pinpoint but perhaps an example could help. One farmer had a high repair and fuel bill. We discussed it at some length. Since he did most of the tractor work himself it appeared as though fast driving would not be a factor He regularly serviced all of his machinery and even kept it in a shed. After awhile we worked around to distance driven. First he admitted to some custom work. Next he rented several fields of from right next door to ten miles away Finally he came "back to the barn" four to five times a day when he was out in the field. (check cows in heat, forgot to treat a cow, inseminator was coming, cup of coffee, lunch, feed cows hay, etc).

5. Stoney ground is hard on knives, plow points, and disc blades. This is inherent but still a factor that could be somewhat reduced. Go to minimum tillage.

Cool season grasses help beef

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Steers gained just as well as well grazing cool season grasses all summer as they did on native pasture in a three-year study at the Northern Great Plains Research Laboratory, Mandan, N.D.

Lenat Hoffman, research agronomist, USDA's Agricultural Research Service, told members of the American Society of Agronomy that smooth bromegrass and Russian wildrye produced just as much beef during summer grazing as did native pasture.

Normally, he said, cattlemen graze their cattle on cool season grasses in the spring and hold the native pastures for use later in the season on the theory that native pastures hold up better during the summer. Cool season grasses provide more early season forage than native pastures and are much easier to establish than native grasses on cropland and strip-mined land.

Hofman's research, in 1980 through 1982, showed that yearling steers grazing smooth bromegrass or Russian wildrye throughout the grazing season, about 120 days, gained just as well as steers on native pastures.

"It appears from our limited study that ranchers could reseed grasslands to grass species, such as the ones we tested, and have the option of season long grazing as well as the more rapid and earlier growth," Hofmann said.

It's more important than ever to practice good swine management

NEWARK, Del. — With corn prices rising, and hog prices declining, it's more important than ever to keep the lid on feed bills, says University of Delaware extension swine specialist Kenneth Kephart.

There are two ways to hold down feed costs, he says. Change the diet composition to take advantage of low cost ingredients, and use sound management practices that increase feed efficiency.

A lot of feed on the floor in front of a feeder means pigs could be wasting 10 percent or more of their rations. With feed costs accounting for 60 to 75 percent of the total budget in most swine enterprises, it's worthwhile to take steps to correct the problem.

To minimize waste, lift feeder lids periodically to check feed flow — especially if there's feed on the floor. Whatever time it takes to adjust an overflowing feeder is a good investment, Kephart says.

If feeders sit directly on slats, consider putting solid wood or steel underneath to keep feed from dropping into the pit.

Environmental temperature is a critical factor in maintaining a desirable feed/gain ratio. When a hog is forced to consume extra feed to keep warm, feed conversion suffers. When temperatures drop to freezing, feed conversion rates approach 10:1.

This doesn't mean hogs can't be raised in cold environments, the specialist explains. But they must have a way to stay warm without burning up a lot of feed. Straw, hovers, insulation, proper ventilation, and supplemental heat when necessary deserve attention during cold weather.

This time of year when it's hot, pigs eat less and their growth rate slows. But feed efficiency doesn't suffer until the temperature rises above the comfort zone, Kephart says.

Studies show that when temperatures for finishing pigs are between 86 and 95 degrees F, feed conversions can be as high as 5:1. The pigs actually use extra energy trying to stay cool. So it's important to keep them as cool as possible in summer. Outside, provide adequate shade. Inside, maintain proper air movement and consider the use of foggers.

Pigs consuming pelleted feed will be more efficient than those eating the same feed in meal form. Nutritionists suggest that the high temperatures used in the pelleting processing increase starch availability and so improve the usefulness of the feed.

Pigs also tend to waste less pelleted feed compared to feed in meal form, and this may partly account for increased efficiency.

How much improvement can be expected with pelleting? Research has demonstrated improvements ranging from 3 to 10 percent, with most in the 5 to 7 percent range. So a producer can afford to have a ration pelleted if it adds no more than 5 percent to the total cost For example, if feed costs $160 per ton, pelleting should cost less than $8 per ton to be feasible.

Any disease will reduce the feed/gain ratio, Kephart says. Mycoplasma pneumonia is particularly notorious. It is characterized by a dry cough, and is particularly noticeable after the hogs are up and moving.

Lincomycin is currently the only drup approved for control of mycoplasma in swine. Treatment and prevention of this disease can be quite expensive, especially if it's associated with atrophic rhinitis. But the expense of ignoring it is almost always greater, Kephart says.

Internal and external parasites can also destroy the feed/gain ratio. Even when worms can't be seen, one can't assume they're not present. Controlling worms is simple and inexpensive. Kephart advises putting pigs on a regular worming program, or having fecal samples checked periodically for worm eggs.

Mange, besides making hogs miserable, also makes them inefficient. Mange is characterized by small raised areas on the skin covered with red or brown scabs. The most obvious symptom is uncontrolled scratching. Whenever a hog rubs a fence, chances are it has mange and its feed conversion ratio likely isn't what it should be.

To control mange, use a good insecticide. Kephart says most producers have good results with products containing lindane. Spray with high-pressure (100-250 psi) equipment to force the insecticide into mite tunnels within the skin.

Treat at least twice, since treatment has no effect on eggs. A second treatment seven to tend ays after the first will control newly hatched mites.

Kephart says implementing these management practices costs little compared with the benefit derived from increased feed efficiency of the swine herd.

Beef Recipes Available

STATE COLLEGE — The best of over 200 recipes submitted to the 1983 Pennsylvania Beef Cook-Off are available for distribution. Recipes, based entirely on beef as the meat contained in the entrees, and unique, usually inexpensive, nutritious and good tasting. The Pennsylvania Beef Cook-Off, held June 20, at the Trinity Area High School, Shiremanstown, resulted in Eleanor Minor, Prosperity, winning the first prize with the winning recipe, "Mexican Delight." Mrs. William Minor will represent Pennsylvania at the National Beef Cook-Off, September 19-21 in Bismarck, North Dakota.

Copies of winning recipes can be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the PA Beef Council, 862 Webster Drive, State College, PA, 16801. Limited copies of the 1982 winning PA recipes are also available and can be obtained at the same address.

The PA Beef Cook-Off is co-sponsored by the PA Beef Council, the PA Department of Agriculture, the PA Cattlemen's Association and Moyer Packing Company, Souderton. Copies of the winning national beef cook-off will also be available at a later date.

Northumberland plans no-till meeting

SUNBURY — The Northumberland County Conservation District is sponsoring a no-till field meeting on Wednesday, Aug. 31 at 6:30 p.m. The meeting will be held at the Jeff Pontius farm, three miles south of Sunbury on Rt. 147.

The purpose of the meeting will be to observe the results of a no-till soybean demonstration plot planted by Pontius. The plot is one of three no-till demonstration plantings planted in Northumberland County in a pilot program that is being coordinated by the Northumberland County Conservation District.

Also highlighting the program will be the demonstration of a Haybuster no-till grain drill. No-till wheat will be seeded into an oat stubble field. The drill is being supplied by Stanley's Farm Service, Klingerstown. No-till equipment from Meckley's Farm Supply will also be on display.

Principal speakers for the program will be Amos Zimmerman, Cooperative Extension Service, Tom Klucick, Soil Conservation Service, and George Phillips, Northumberland County Conservation District. Zimmerman will discuss no-till planting methods and weed and insect control. The meeting will serve as an update training session for pesticide certification renewal. Klucick will explain the soil conservation benefits of no-till planting and Phillips will present a slide program on the results of the demonstration plantings.

Representatives from several seed and chemical companies whose products were used on the demonstration plot will be present to answer questions concerning their products. Attending will be John Harmon of Rohm & Haas, manufacturers of Blazer, Neal Orr of Ciba-Geigy, manufacturer of Dual, Pete Johnson of Stanford Seed, and Harold Mengal, Crop Specialist for Agway.

George Phillips, Farm Planner of the Northumberland County Conservation District, puts up a sign marketing the no-till soybean demonstration plot. The plot is located three miles south of Sunbury on Route 147.

Running Out

Time is running out for the Congress to pass a new dairy price support bill in this session. The House was scheduled to adjourn on July 29 but may take an extension to complete a budget before the summer recess. The Senate was expected to head home on August 5 but they may have to stay in town for the same reason. In any case, it would take a small miracle to get dairy price support legislation enacted since nothing has come to the floor for a vote in either chamber. It was hoped that when the Senate Agriculture Committee agreed on the compromise bill two weeks ago that some action would follow quickly and it would be sent to the House. Even then it would face battles from amendments and other bills but none of that has happened.

Part of the blame can go to a lack of support for the compromise bill when it was first adopted. Lately it has picked up some backing from the cooperatives including the Northeast Coordinating Committee and even the administration seemed to be getting used to it but it all may have come too late. At least the delay provided the opportunity for other ideas like the Conable bill that would have given the Secretary of Agriculture the discretion to drop the support price $1.50 to $11.60 as fast as he felt it would be necessary to get milk production levels down to milk demand levels. This idea has support from National Farm Bureau Federation and the administration. Some Pennsylvania Congressman had "serious reservations" about the compromise bill and was "looking very carefully" at the Conable bill.

Square One

If Congress adjourns without acting on new legislation the price support program will continue under last year's law at least until they reconvene after Labor Day. The new marketing year starts October 1 and it would be possible to get a new bill in September but if that happens it won't be the compromise bill with the paid diversions to start October 1. There wouldn't be enough time to put the bureaucracy together. So, without something new we're back to square one and the Omnibus Budget Reconciation Act of 1982 which included last year's compromise dairy price support program enacted on September 8. So, if you think you've heard this song before - you're right. It's the same old melody with all the difficulties of getting agreement on a budget as well as a dairy price support program. However, if it's hooked on to a budget bill this year it will probably be a straight support price cut with no diversion payments, no promotion set asides, no refundable assessments, no nothing but lower prices.

What's In It

When the present law was passed last September everyone was so busy fighting it that most have forgotten what it contained. It did give you a support price of $13.10 for two years which would take you to October 1984. It also allowed the Secretary to deduct 50 cents a hundred from all milk for partial payment of the subsidy. He wanted to start this last December but court battles by farm organizations and co-ops delayed it until April 16. The law also allowed a second 50 cent assessment on all milk to be refunded to farmers who reduced production. This could have started last April 1 but has been delayed for the same reasons until September 1. The only other provision was a change in the support price in October 1984 to the same level of Parity that $13.10 was on October 1, 1983. That didn't necessarily mean a reduction in price - just a change. But now that you look back and see what you've been fighting all year it doesn't seem so bad as a $1.50 cut in the support price and to many it looks a lot better than the compromise bill under consideration. Especially if you have expanded production in recent years or you're a young farmers with a growing family and growing demands for income.

So, if you have not been aware of what's not happening in Washington you may have been sleeping better than those who have followed the inaction. For most dairymen, however, the uncertainty of the future has nearly driven them to be ready to accept anything - even the worst - if they could just have a program on which to base their future plans.

Uncertainty

The uncertainty of national dairy price support legislation was magnified for over 300 northeast Pennsylvania dairymen this week when Shep's Cheese Company filed a Chapter 11 bankruptcy petition. The uncertainty followed a meeting of Shep's producers on Monday, July 18, when the owners announced they were in financial problems after losing $500,000 in operating capital. Since then the management has been working hard to get the money to pay its creditors and is still attempting to do so even after filing the bankruptcy petition. Milk is still being received at the plant with payments even seven to ten days. Most of the producers are still shipping to Shep's in the belief that it is their best hope for receiving full payment for June and July milk. Credit letters were sent to all Shep's producers on June 20 by the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board but only 35 were received. Producers holding such letters are urged to return them but there is a possibility of another mailing by PMMB.

The ten million dollar facility financed by public and private funds started operations in April right in the spring flush and has had some difficulties since handling large volumes of milk and maintaining payment schedules. However, it is hoped that with declining production and credit extensions a reorganization can be developed that would include full repayment to all producers. However, some farmers who were shipping to proprietary handlers who in turn were selling to Sheps have received their 28 day notice to find a new handler. Thanks to the cooperatives, every producer who wanted to make a change has been accommodated and one co-op is even providing a 'trial period' of several weeks before a farmer decides that he wants to 'join'. The uncertainty among producers it unavoidable is certainly understandable but in the eye of the storm is the hope of all dairy interests in the community that Shep's will recover with full payment because they're an asset to the northeast dairy industry.

Grange supports stream protection

HARRISBURG State Grange Master Charles Wismer said his organization is generally pleased with the Environmental Quality Board's adoption today of coal subsidence regulations with the inclusion of protection for perennial streams.

In the State Department of Environmental Resources proposed set of subsidence regulations published in the July 2 Pennsylvania Bulletin, protection for perennial streams was removed in conjunction with an identical change in federal regulations with the exception of streams that serve as a significant source of public water supply. As a farm organization, the Grange was concerned about the effects of subsidence damage on streams flowing through pastureland which supply water for livestock or for irrigation of crops. In a letter to DER, the Grange requested that the perennial stream protection be reinserted in the proposed regulations. The Grange also met on several occasions with DER officials to discuss the perennial stream problem as well as several other deficiencies in protection for landowners.

"The State Grange is very much concerned about the lack of protection or compensation for landowners in the proposed regulations for subsidence damage to homes built after 1966, farm structures and domestic and farm water supplies," Wismer said.

Protection for water is probably the major issue in coal-mined areas of the Commonwealth."

Wismer said DER Secretary Nicholas DeBenedictis has agreed to include this compensation in legislation to be introduced by the Department this fall. The Grange will also seek compensation for damage resulting from coal mining on properties within a half-mile zone of the permitted land. Grange members have reported instances where they have been affected by the diminution of water supplies or actual subsidence when their properties were adjacent to permitted areas.

The Grange plans to aggressively pursue this legislation in the fall session of the General Assembly.

Cool Clothes Beat the Heat

NEWARK, Del. — The right clothing can help you keep cool this summer without spending a fortune on air conditioning, says University of Delaware Extension home economist Debbie Amsden.

Good summer clothing takes advantage of nature's own cooling system. The body removes excess heat through perspiration. When the moisture on your skin is absorbed into the air, you feel cooler.

Cotton and linen clothes feel cool in summer because these natural fibers absorb perspiration and "breathe" like skin.

On the other hand, tightly woven, nonabsorbent synthetic fabrics trap perspiration next to your body, so you feel uncomfortably hot and sweaty.

However, well-designed summer clothes made from synthetic fibers can be just as cool as cotton, the home economist explains. A loosely woven, lightweight summer top of polyester would be perfectly comfortable, she says, since the body's moisture could evaporate through the spaces in the weave.

Consider the fact that football players—among the most physically active people around—wear nylon tops. They wear them because this synthetic fiber is strong and does not fade. To compensate for its inability to absorb moisture, small holes are stamped into the fabric so sweat can evaporate.

Loose fitting garments with large openings at the neck, arms and legs are cool to wear because they allow body heat to escape. That's why skirts are cooler than slacks.

For those who must wear a business suit, unlined jackets are cooler than lined. Also, lightweight fabric belts are cooler than leather or plastic. Perspiration can escape through a cotton belt, but it will collect uncomfortably under one made of leather or plastic.

For greater summer comfort, select underwear and socks made of cotton rather than synthetics. You'll also be cooler without an undershirt.

White and light colored clothing helps keep you cooler by reflecting the sun's radiant heat, Amsden says. Avoid dark colors, which absorb the sun's heat.

Psychologically, you'll look and feel cooler in the "cool colors"—light blues and greens, the colors of cool water. Save the fiery reds and oranges for fall and winter.

Even your jewelry makes a difference in how cool you look and feel. Don't weigh yourself down with large, heavy jewelry in summer. You'll look cooler if your accessories are lightweight and small.

Pa. National Horse Show set Oct. 13-22

HARRISBURG, Pa. The 1983 Pennsylvania National Horse Show opens at the State Farm Show Arena, Harrisubrg, on Thursday, Oct. 13 and runs through Saturday, Oct. 22.

The Pennsylvania National Horse Show, one of the largest and most prestigious horse shows in the country, attracts over 1,000 horses and 700 riders from the United States and Canada. This year they will compete for more than $75,000 in prize money and trophies.

The Show opens with the Junior Championship Weekend, Thursday, Oct. 13 through Sunday, Oct. 16, and features the best young riders, ages 8 to 18. Competitors earn qualifying points by winning American Horse Shows Association (A.H.S.A.) equitation events at sanctioned shows which begin in October of 1982.

The Saturday of Junior Weekend, Oct. 15, is slated for the Official Grand Opening Ceremony.

"This year the Pennsylvania National Horse Show is being designed as a family entertainment experience," according to James W. Hagar, show president.

"Each visitor to the show will receive a special card which explains the different kinds of horses and events they will see each day," Hagar continued.

In addition, visits by special celebrities are being planned as an integral part of this year's show.

The show's events are divided into several major divisions: Hunter, Jumper, American Saddle Horse, Tennessee Walking Horse, Hackney and Harness Pony, Roadster Horse and Pony, Driving, Junior Exhibitor and Equitation.

The highlight of the Junior Weekend will be the A.H.S.A./Insilco "Prix des States," individual and team jumping competitions for junior riders.

A team consists of four horses and riders and a coach. The winning team is the one with the least total number of faults following the second round of competition. Individual competition will also determine the A.H.S.A. Junior Jumper Champion of the United States.

The Hunter Seat Medal Class National Finals will also be held the first Sunday. This event is one of the two most important events in the U.S. for junior riders, with the competitors considered the best of the best.

The Grand Prix, a qualifying event for the World Cup, will be seen later on the closing Saturday, October 22. This event attracts riders from across the United States, Canada & Mexico who compete throughout the year in Grand Prix events at other prominent shows. The Grand Prix jumping competition involves the highest obstacles (4'-6'), the widest spreads and the most unique, and difficult, course design. It is the highlight of all the events in the Jumper division.

Special consumer attractions will highlight each day's horse show activities.

The Dillards, one of the world's best western trick riding teams, will make appearances several times each day. A polo exhibition will be featured Monday, October 17, and on Tuesday, Ladies' barrel racing will be the feature attraction. Thursday, October 20, a Dressage exhibition will be given. The U.S. Park Police Horsemounted Drill Team will appear Friday, October 21, and the Valley Forge Military Academy Marching Band will perform on Saturday, October 22.

The 1983 Pennsylvania National Horse Show benefits the Kiwanis Youth Foundation, Inc. The show has raised more than $425,000 to benefit such Kiwanis activities as Boys Clubs, Boy Scouts, Girls Clubs, Girl Scouts, 4-H and Future Farmers of America Youth Programs.

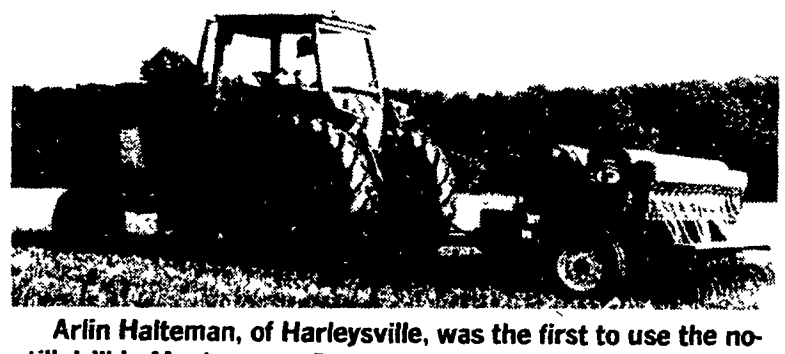
NORRISTOWN — The Montgomery Conservation District urges County farmers to think about late summer no-till forage seedings to ease winter feed shortages.

Seedings such as winter rye and spring oats can be no-tilled from mid-August through the first week of September to provide fall forage or green chop. "Many dairy farmers will be harvesting drought stricken corn earlier than normal this year, and may be able to take advantage of the additional fall forage," says Edward Brzostek of the USDA, Soil Conservation Service (SCS).

No-till will also help conserve limited available moisture on new seedings. Brzostek added "that the no-till drill also would be available for winter grain seedings, and would not only save time this fall, but more importantly, helps save topsoil over winter. Winter grains can be no-tilled right through existing corn stalk residues."

The SCS will be co-ordinating the use of the Conservation District Drill. The District is leasing the drill to County farmers at a rate of $10/acre. The Cooperative Extension Service will help provide agronomic information concerning no-till seedings. County farmers have first used the drill for double cropping soybeans and buckwheat after barley and wheat harvest. Some early problems in using the drill have been overcome, through the use of additional weight and dealer service people making adjustments to the planter.



Arlin Halteman, of Harleysville, was the first to use the no-till drill in Montgomery County, and plans on using it again in the near future for re-seeding hay.

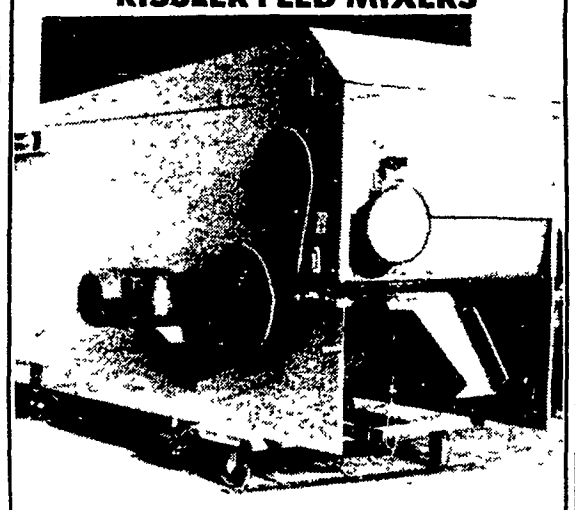
RISSLER FEED MIXERS



More and more farmers are finding that mixed rations are producing healthier and better livestock, plus better feed efficiency. Veterinarians, nutritionists consultants and feed analyst are recommending (TMR) feeding systems. Perhaps you can also increase profits by turning to this system.

This UNIQUE design was developed so farmers can have more for less. A 15,000 lb. pintle web with 2" high paddles will tumble feed from end to end. An auger with left and right flighting will bring feed to center and keep the pile crowned. This auger will mix the feed from side to side at the rate of 1200 lbs. of feed per minute and will unload when drop out is opened. Convenient crank allows flow from 0 to 1500 lbs. a minute whatever desired.

Box is coated with urethane on inside with glass like finish that is abrasion resistant. All stress points are lined with ¼" and 5/16" heavy steel. Heavy duty bearings can be relubricated and easily accessible. Takes less HP than conventional mixers.

Optional stainless steel floor. Electronic or mechanical instant-weigh scales.

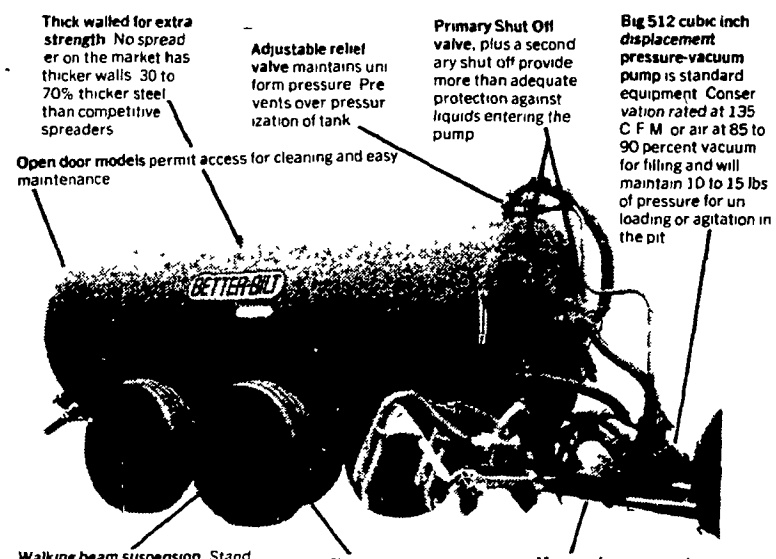
Outstanding Features



Thick walled for extra strength No spreader on the market has thicker walls 30 to 70% thicker steel than competitive spreaders
Adjustable relief valve maintains uniform pressure Prevents over pressurization of tank
Primary Shut Off valve, plus a secondary shut off provide more than adequate protection against liquids entering the pump
Big 512 cubic inch displacement pressure-vacuum pump is standard equipment Conservation rated at 135 C F M or air at 85 to 90 percent vacuum for filling and will maintain 10 to 15 lbs of pressure for unloading or agitation in the pit
Open door models permit access for cleaning and easy maintenance
BETTER-BILT
Walking beam suspension Standard on 2 600 3 150 3 600 and 4 600 gallon models (Optional on 1 500 & 2 100 gallon models) Front & rear wheels on each beam follow contour of the ground provides a smooth level ride
Flotation tires reduce soil compaction let you spread on soft ground early in season
Massive frames resist the wrenching twisting jolting shocks of hard field usage year after year

Sizes - 800 gal. thru 4600 gal.

1 - 1974 Ford LT 9000 tandem axle tk tractor with PT 270 Cummins engine, 6 speed Fuller trans., power steering, air slide 5th wheel, good 10.00x20 tires.

Don't be fooled by lower prices on "will-fit" parts. The management of other brand dealerships recognize the value put into genuine Sperry New Holland parts and service. This is what made Sperry New Holland the leader and No. 1 in hay and forage equipment. When a problem arises or you need parts or service, call your authorized Sperry New Holland dealer.

BUSH HOG®

250 SERIES Rotary Cutters

5/6/7 Foot Models - Available 3-Point Lift or Pull • Tapered Rear Design — For Easy Discharge • Unitized, Z-Band Deck Construction

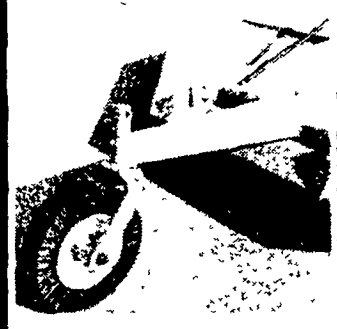
THE PERFECT CHOICES FOR ALL MEDIUM-DUTY CUTTING JOBS

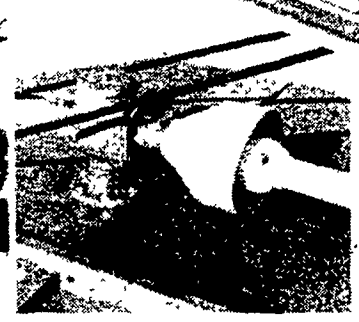
Extra muscle is built into all 250 Series rotary cutters... from the Z-band design (which also helps to prevent scalping) to the unitized steel deck construction. Side bands are 8", allowing plenty of room to handle larger capacity material.

Threaded ends of Category 2 pins are a new, larger size (1 1/8" diameter) for extra strength.

The new box-type triangular tailwheel design provides maximum strength when turning. The tailwheel attaches to the cutter strongbacks — distributing heavy shock loads encountered when operating in rough terrain.

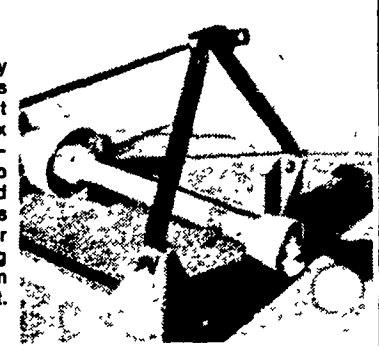
The heavy duty steel front member provides even more strength. Predrilled holes are provided for fast attachment of front safety chains, if desired.





A new heavy duty gearbox design on 256 and 257 models makes service fast and easy. All gearboxes are 540 rpm with 1000 rpm gearboxes available on 257 models. Heavy duty ASAE Category 4 drive shafts are standard.

A 3-point Category 1 or 2 hitch is offered for lift models. The top flex link is slotted — allowing the unit to follow ground contours. Tie rods stabilize the cutter to prevent bouncing on rough terrain during transport.



SLIP CLUTCH STANDARD ON ALL 250 SERIES ROTARY CUTTERS

I need 335 pups for Tues., Aug. 30. The pup market has really picked up for the Labor Day Weekend. I especially need Boston Terriers, paying $100 if marked well. There will be a $25 prize for the farmer who comes the farthest distance on Aug. 30 and sells me pups.

Attention Farmers - If you have good dogs to sell, contact me at 609-452-8903 early mornings. Let me know when they are 2 wks. old so I can take orders for them on the Greater New York market, thereby assuring you a better price when they are ready for market.

I have some nice summer JoJo caps for farmers who sell pups to me.
Attention Farmers: To avoid fines, be sure you sell pups to a licensed dealer
Please dust or bathe the pups for fleas & ticks as it makes for a better sale.

HOW TO GET GEHL FORAGE EQUIPMENT NOW. AND PAY FOR IT NEXT SPRING.

Stop in at your Gehl dealership now and you'll see a full line of quality forage equipment.

You'll also see how you can put it to work now and pay it off later.

Delay final payment until April 1, 1984.

Our Delayed Payment Program means you won't have to make a final payment until next spring. It also means your participating Gehl dealer is in a dealing mood!

Here's the deal

When you come in, choose a new Gehl 750, 1000, 1200 or 1250 forage harvester. Then put down 40%, in cash or trade, and take it home.

Or, buy a new 640, 940 or 960 forage box, a 99 blower, or 7200 flail chopper with 40% down and delay your final payment 'til December 1, 1983! No interest. No curtailments!

More capacity for your money.

Buy now and you can put a high-capacity forage harvester to work without paying the high prices you'd expect. Choose from a wide range of choppers capacity-matched for any tractor from 60-250 hp

All Gehl forage harvesters give you high output thru nonstop forage flow And our exclusive water injector option reduces haylage gumming. It speeds up harvesting. Slows down fuel consumption.

Gehl even saves you time when sharpening knives. Our patented in-head hydraulic knife sharpener is fast . . . and simple. And our single-station cutterbar adjustment is the easiest ever.

Faster unloading.

The new 960 box and our popular 99 blower team up to speed up unloading at silo.

The box's extended cross conveyor fits perfectly with our capacity-matched blower hopper. And the blower is really two blowers in one. Twin spinners and a two-sided blower fire forage up and into the tallest silo.

As you can see, Gehl's got some mighty good ideas. To see even more good ideas, visit the Gehl dealer closest to you.

WE PUT GOOD IDEAS TO WORK

BUSINESS NEWS...

"Fundamentals of No-Till Farming" is a new 148-page full-color student manual for young farmers and vocational agriculture students. The book was developed jointly by the American Association for Vocational Instructional Material and Chevron Chemical Company.

No-till textbook available

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. — The first textbook on no-till farming, designed especially for the young farmer and vocational agriculture student, is now available.

Entitled "Fundamentals of No-Till Farming," the 148-page book was published by the American Association for Vocational Instuctional Material (AAVIM) in cooperation with Chevron Chemical Company.

Intended for vo-ag students and teachers at the secondary and post-high school level, the book will also be of value to anyone, farmer or layman, who wants to learn no-till farming principles, according to the publisher.

The 8½ by 11 inch soft-cover manual contains 227 photos and illustrations of no-till techniques, crops, equipment and chemical application procedures. Most photos are in full color.

The ten-chapter text begins by explaining the no-till concept. It then discusses benefits and limitations of no-till, and examines the many different no-till cropping systems and geographical adaptations developed over recent years. The manual then presents practical "how-to" information on subjects such as no-till site selection, planting, fertilization, weed and insect control. It concludes with a discussion of no-till economic considerations.

Material for the book was compiled by Chevron Chemical Company from many published works as well as from the company's own 20 years experience in the no-till field. The manuscript was reviewed for accuracy and content by 48 university, government and industry experts from 21 states.

"The book represents Chevron's past and future commitment to conservation tillage agriculture," said Ira Ravel, National Product Manager. "It is our hope that the book inspires a new generation of farmers to try no-till techniques, and gives them the information they need to be successful."

AAVIM, publisher of the manual, is a non-profit organization supported by universities, colleges and divisions of vocational education in the U.S. and Canada. The book retails for $12.95 per copy plus $2.00 for postage and handling. Discounts for quantity purchases are available. To purchase copies, or for additional information, contact the publisher: AAVIM, Driftmier Engineering Center, Athens, GA 30602. Phone (404) 542-2586.

Farm Bureau names Cannon

SOUDERTON — Farm Bureau, 115 Washington Ave., Souderton, has appointed Thomas J. Cannon to the position of Dairy & Livestock Nutritionist.

Cannon, a native of Hornell, N.Y. has previously been employed at Cornell University Cooperative Extension as Dairy Agent in Delaware County, N.Y. for the last 3 years. He holds an A.A.S. degree from the State University of N.Y. at Alfred, a B.S. in Dairy Science from the University of Georgia and a M.S. Degree in Dairy Science from Louisiana State University.

Cannon's responsibilities will be formulation of dairy & livestock feeds, program development, training of the sales staff and support of 4-H, Livestock Clubs and Extension Programs.

The two new Pennsylvania-bred bulls in Select Sires Holstein lineup include Mowry-K Elevation Epitome, left, and Kowraygan Glendell Lad-Twin.

2 new Pa. bulls in Select Sires lineup

PLAIN CITY, Oh. — Based on the July, 1983 sire summaries, Select Sires has included two new sires from Pennsylvania in its proven Holstein lineup.

7H966 Mowry-K Elevation EPITOME (Very Good-88) is a graduate of Select Sires' Program for Genetic Advancement (PGA) sampling program. He was bred by Kenneth Mowry of Roaring Springs. EPITOME is an Elevation son that is out of a Roybrook Starlite daughter. His dam made a tremendous record of 28,058M, 4.4% test and 1,227F as a two-year-old. EPITOME sires tall, upstanding daughters that are well balanced with correct set to the rear legs. They have smooth, well attached fore udders, good high, wide rear udders, and above average teat placement with a strong center support. EPITOME is also good for butterfat test improvement as he is +.02% on test.

7H1505 Kowraygan Glendell LAD-Twin (Excellent-90) has been added to "Select's" proven lineup with an outstanding production and type proof. LAD was bred by Hagen, McKown and Seidel, of Richland, and acquired from Genuine Genetics of New Windsor, Md. At +1,788 PDM, this Glendell Arlinda Arlinda Chief son is already +1.29 on type. LAD's dam is an Excellent (91-2E) daughter of Ellbank Admiral Burke Ideal that has an Excellent Mammary. She has accumulated to date a lifetime total of 124,420 of milk and 4,993 of fat averaging a 4.0% test. LAD daughters are very sharp with medium strength and are above average in size. Their well attached fore udders, high, wide rear udders, and excellent udder support make LAD a good udder improver. He also sires above average rump width and correct slope from hips to pins.

It's time to control broadleafs

UNIVERSITY PARK — Right not is the time to start thinking about controlling broadleaf weeds on land idled under the government's PIK program. A fall control program can pay big dividends in terms of a more weed-free crop next season.

Nathan Hartwig, Extension Weed Control Specialist at Penn State, says that farmers have had an opportunity to bring several weeds under control on PIK-idled acres this year, including hemp dogbane, common milkweed and Canada thistle.

For hemp dogbane control, the weeds should be sprayed when the dogbane is in the "pink bud" stage in late summer or early fall, according to Frank Sobotka, Product Development Representative for Velsicol serving Pennsylvania. He recommends one-half pint of Banvel herbicide plus one to one and a half quarts of 2, 4-D amine or ester, or one to one and a half quarts of Banvel alone. Sobotka reports that field trials show 90 percent or better control with both treatments.

For best control of common milkweed, tests indicate that Banvel at a two quart rate or a tank mix of Banvel and Roundup, both at a one quart rate, is best for late season control, according to Sobotka. In extremely severe infestations, two quarts of both herbicides may be needed.

In some cases, farmers may have treated milkweed in the spring or early summer, either chemically or mechanically. In these situations Dr. Sobotka says that such treatments will weaken common milkweed, but will not control underground rhizomes. The weeds should be allowed to regrow to a six to eight inch height prior to fall treatment in order to allow the herbicides the opportunity to translocate.

For control of Canada thistle, Sobotka recommends a two quart rate of Banvel in the late summer or early fall with 20 gallons of water for adequate coverage. "This treatment provided 95 percent control of thistles in a recent Ohio trial," he says. "Again, if a farmer has mowed or cultivated idle ground during the summer, then he should allow the thistles to regrow now prior to herbicide application."

While tillage is another control alternative, it poses a number of problems, according to Sobotka. First, it is expensive in terms of equipment, fuel, and labor. Second, it often compounds the problem by spreading the perennial's reproductive root systems. And third, it enhances the opportunity for wind and water erosion, which must be controlled to comply with PIK rules.

Sprayer features shock absorber

PENDLETON, N.C. — A new sprayer especially designed for precise applications of fungicides is being introduced by Agrotec, Inc. Agrotec manufactures both the Johnson and Agrotec line of sprayers at Pendleton, NC.

The sprayer boom is designed for thorough and even coverage of fungicides or insecticides on plant foliage. It is hydraulically operated for ease of opening and closing.

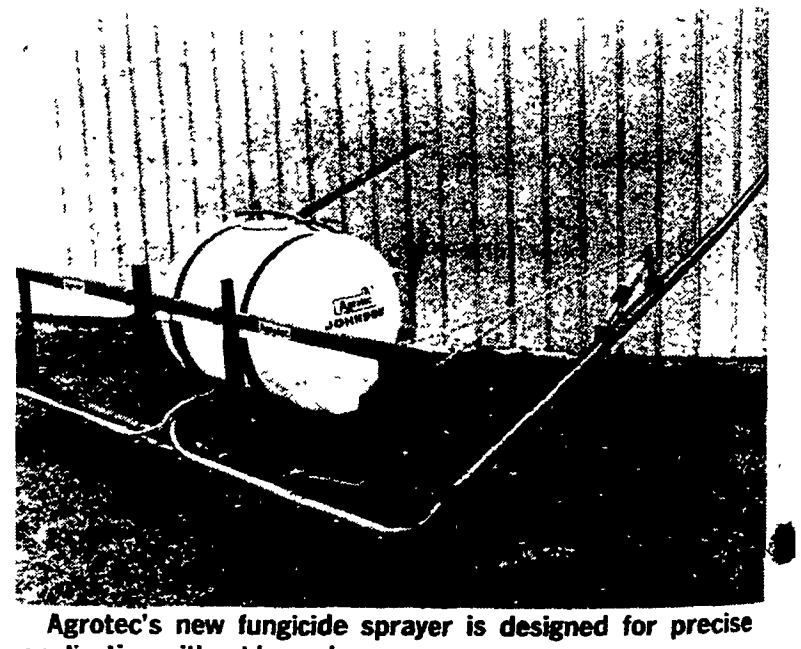
The boom has three nozzles per row for total coverage of plants and dense foliage. A variety of pump options is available. Good droplet break up is assured by the various pumps available, including a diaphragm piston pump unit that will deliver 250 PSI.

Agrotec has named the new sprayer the Johnson Peanut Special, but it is equally good on soybeans, potatoes, tomatoes, and strawberries. The boom covers 12 rows to reduce the number of trips across the field and reduce crop damage. A unique shock absorber design prevents "boom bounce."

The boom design is adaptable and available for all 3-point hitch or trailer sprayers, regardless of make or age. Agrotec officials say, growers with relatively new sprayers can replace their boom with this new precise unit at relatively low cost.

A 3-point hitch carrier to use with front-mounted saddle tanks is also available. The unit is available with fiberglass or polyethylene tank options.

For more information, contact Agrotec Inc., P.O. Box 49, Pendleton, NC 27862.



Agrotec's new fungicide sprayer is designed for precise application without boom bounce.

Ciba-Geigy to build biotech center

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Gov. Jim Hunt, of North Carolina has announced that CIBA-GEIGY, one of the world's largest manufacturers of chemical and agricultural products, will build a $7 million agricultural biotechnology research center at the Research Triangle Park.

"This center will be one of the first commercial research laboratories in the United States dedicated to agricultural biotechnology, and will establish North Carolina as a leading state for research in this exciting new field," Hunt said in announcing the project.

CIBA-GEIGY officials say the new center will initially employ up to 58 researchers, technicians and administrative personnel, including a world-class team of biotechnology specialists recruited from around the world.

The center will conduct advanced research in plant molecular biology aimed at developing new products for CIBA-GEIGY's Agricultural Division. The center will also provide biotechnology research support for CIBA-GEIGY development programs around the world.

The center will be directed by Dr. Mary-Dell Chilton, whose work in plant molecular biology at Washington University in St. Louis has already won worldwide recognition.

CIBA-GEIGY expects to begin construction of the 40,000 square foot facility in early September, with occupancy scheduled for mid-1984. The facility will include laboratories, administrative offices and greenhouses.

Garber adds test vehicle

SMOKETOWN — Jim Garber, President of Garber Scale Company, Smoketown, announces that the company has acquired a specialized truck for calibrating truck and heavy capacity scales. Capable of carrying up to 24,000 lbs. of certified test weights in 1000 lbs. increments, the truck is unique in that the weights are moved by a hydraulic boom and that hydraulic outriggers can actually lift the front of the truck off of the ground to place the entire 45,000 lbs. gross weight on a 9' deck area.

The company sells and services a wide range of electronic and mechanical industrial and agricultural weighing equipment.

The truck was fabricated by Dean L. Rohrer, Intercourse.

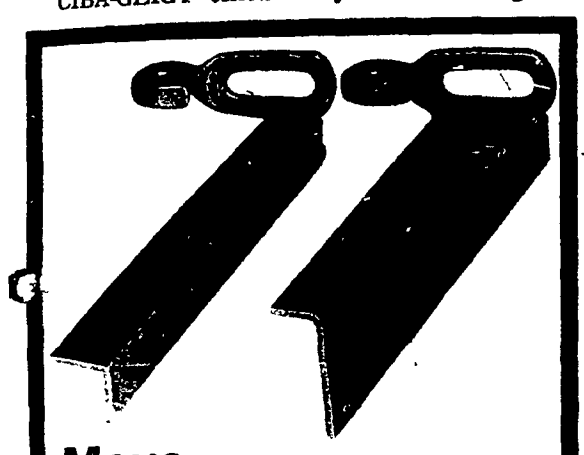
Dairymen District 14 to meet

BALTIMORE, Md. — Dairymen, Inc. members in the four southern Pennsylvania counties will cast their votes for a director/delegate Monday in Gordonville. District 14 of the cooperative's Middle Atlantic Division will conduct its annual membership meeting at the Harvest Drive Restaurant beginning at 7 p.m.

Division President Fred G. Butler and Division General Manager will report on the operations of the cooperative, national legislative issues, and the sales and pricing outlook.

A director/delegate will be chosen to serve the 234 District 14 members for a three year term from 1983 to 1986. A director/delegate sits on the Division's board of directors and attends the corporate annual meeting as a voting delegate representing the division. Victor K. Ziegler, of Myerstown, is the incumbent. Kenneth G. Groff, of Strasburg, serves as the district's other director/delegate.

Field representatives for the district, which includes Berks, Chester, Lancaster, and Lebanon Counties, are Gene Frey of Lancaster, Mack Newton of York, and George Tyson of Port Deposit, Md.



Move manure efficiently

Patz gutter cleaner flites handle manure types ranging from packed box stall manure to slurry manure. Choose the Patz 2" steel-angled flites or high flites. 12", 18" and 24" flite spacing offer more flexibility. Heavy steel flites welded to either size of Patz links at an angle prevents binding.

For more information on replacing your gutter cleaner flites, expanding or a new installation, contact:

Inside this machine is an answer to higher crop yields

HIGHER GRAIN PRODUCTION
Through the use of soil injection, AD+SOIL uses sludge to build up the needed nutrients and organic matter in your farmland, AND at a surprisingly low cost per acre when compared to other fertilizers.

GREENER PASTURES
Spread either as a solid material or compost, sludge can give you thicker greener pastures, producing better grazing, and more hay crop yield per acre.

AD+SOIL WORKS IN HARMONY WITH NATURE
By using the carefully processed sludge, and a variety of applications for each specific need, we can more than meet the needs of today's modern farmers.

Heat hasn't hurt the grapes

BAINBRIDGE — While many area crops have suffered from the lack of summer rain and from high temperatures, grapes are doing very well this year.

John Nissley, vineyard manager at Nissley Vineyards, R1, Bainbridge, expects a full crop from his 25 acres of producing vines. "All varieties are ripening well and we expect about six to seven tons per acre," Nissley said.

"Rain at this time would hurt the crop," Nissley continued, "because the grapes could swell and cause the skins to split."

Harvesting began this week at Nissley Vineyards with the Aurora grapes, generally the first to ripen. Other varieties such as the Seyval Blanc, DeChaunac and Chancellor are traditionally ready two weeks later.

The decision as to readiness is made by tasting the grapes as well as using laboratory measurements to determine the sugar and acid content of juice pressed from randomly selected clusters.

For the harvest, the work force is increased from 15 yearly employees to 40 or more.

"We really have to hurry to get the grapes picked," Nissley commented. "When they're ready they won't wait, so we need all the good pickers we can find."

The grapes are picked by hand — one cluster at a time, loaded into barrels and taken into the winery for processing into juice. First the stems are removed by a crusher-stemmer; then the juice is removed by an automatic press.

"It is important to press the grapes on the same day they are picked," advised Nissley. This requires late night pressings when other local growers deliver their grapes in the evening.

Jon Nissley checks ripening Aurora grapes at Nissley Vineyards.

As soon as the juice is ready, winemaker Dick Nissley, John's father, takes over. Each grape variety is fermented separately in stainless steel tanks. The progress of the fermentation and the temperature of each batch is watched closely.

With the grapes and juice needing attention at the same time, both John and Dick agree that harvest is a very intense time.

Nevertheless, the Nissleys pause each year to hold the Bainbridge Harvest Festival for the benefit of the Bainbridge Fire Company. This year's festival will be held on Saturday, Sept. 10 from 4 to 9 p.m. on the lawn of the winery.

While hayrides through the vineyards, grape stomping and dancing proceed, the fire company volunteers will serve freshly prepared dinners and snacks. Chilled Nissley wines from previous harvests will be available. Admission for the festival is $1.50.

Anchor debuts implant system

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Anchor Laboratories introduces the exclusive Magnum Implanting System for STEER-oid Growth Promotant recommended for pasture and feedlot cattle over 400 lbs. to improve weight gain and feed efficiency.

With the Magnum Multi-Dose Implanter and Magnum 20-Dose Cartridge Belt implanting STEER-oid is easier and quicker. Now, cattlemen can implant 20 steers before reloading. By simply advancing the Magnum Implanter to the next implant, the producer is ready to process the next steer.

The Magnum Implanter is made from a durable, plastic compound and was specially made for STEER-oid implants. It has been feedlot tested for convenience, performance and durability. It features simple, plunger action and a "cartridge drum" which holds the new Magnum 20-Dose Cartridge Belts and protects the Magnum Implants from rain, snow and dust.

The convenient viewfinder on the implanter shows that the next dose is ready for implanting. In addition, the Magnum Multi-Dose Cartridges also aid the producer in maintaining a quick and accurate head count of the animals already processed. Plus they eliminate spilling of single-dose implants from open trays.

STEER-oid contains a combination of two natural hormones—200 mg of progesterone and 20 mg of estradiol benzoate. No withholding is required before slaughter. For best results, observe label instructions.

For more information on the new STEER-oid Magnum Implanting System, visit your local Anchor Animal Health Supplier, or write Anchor Laboratories, 2621 North Belt Highway, St. Joseph, Mo. 64502.

PennAg gets insurance computer

EPHRATA — On January 1, 1984, PennAg Industries Insurance Trust will offer fully computerized claims service through special arrangement with the Hartford Insurance Group, based in Connecticut. The STAG (System To Automate Group Claims) computer comes to PennAg in the guise of a pilot project to establish that marginal savings from a small operation will bear out the installation as cost-effective. As it stands, PennAg is the first and only non-Hartford office to have authorized use of the Hartford's computer system for insurance claims.

PennAg was designated by Hartford as the recipient of this project based on a long history of superior claims service. PennAg has earned Hartford's coveted "Distinguished" rating (the higest recognition obtainable by a Hartford insurance claims office) in three of the last four years. The privilege of acquiring this technology (earned by and awarded to PennAg) means that PennAg claims will be processed using state-of-the-art equipment.

This new high-technology service will provide fast, efficient claim settlements for individual insured employees, improved cash flow for health care providers and absolute recall of pertinent claims history information to facilitate rapid handling of ongoing claims. This innovative, cooperative effort between policyholder and underwriter will also serve to reduce health care costs by reducing administrative expenses.

Corn Growers get $10,000

SPRINGFIELD, Il. — The National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) celebrated its 25th anniversary during the group's annual meeting recently, and received a $10,000 check for Dekalb-Pfizer Genetics commemorating the occasion.

John McCarter, president of Dekalb-Pfizer Genetics, presented the gift and commended the group for working to increase demand for corn products through market development, and for the foresight to develop such a strong organization.

However, McCarter said that the work is not yet done. "To offset the price-numbing impact of our current oversupplies, we each need to recognize that we also have the responsibility of buiildng and substaining our markets around the world."

Although McCarter spoke of the challenges facing American farmers, he was optimistic about the future. "These next 25 years and beyond can be the best years ever for the American corn grower and the rest of American agriculture," he asserted.

Lutalyse report available

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — A management report on the use of Lutalyse in lactating dairy cows and heifers is now available from The Upjohn Company.

The report explains the use of Lutalyse in treating unobserved estrus (silent heat) in dairy cows, the total herd health program that is needed to maintain top reproductive efficiency and how the dairyman benefits from using Lutalyse in his herd. It also covers the economics of maintaining a calving interval of 12 to 13 months, reporting data from Washington State University.

Bucks demonstrates Rhino plow

BY HAROLD SHELLY

DOYLESTOWN — More than 60 Bucks County farmers attended a day-long conservation demonstration hosted by Delaware Valley College recently. Sponsored by the Bucks County Conservation District, the Bucks County Extension Service and the Soil Conservation Service, the demonstration high-lighted building cropland terraces with both conventional tractor and plow and with the newly developed "Rhino" plow.

The latest no-till corn and soy bean planters supplied by local equipment dealers also were demonstrated, as was a chisel plow.

Rodney Beers, driving a White 2-135 tractor and pulling a White six-bottom plow, built the first cropland terrace in approximately half an hour, making six passes over the 250 foot demonstration plow.

By comparison, the Rhino plow, pulled by a Stihl "Versatile" tractor, driven by Grant Cunningham, did the same job in three passes, taking just under 15 minutes. Andy Pinto, field sales manager for the Rhino Company, of Dallas Tex., said the tillage implement could be delivered in Pennsylvania for between $5,800. and $6,000. depending on transportation costs.

The plow itself consists of two gangs, each with ten 24-inch coulters. Either gang can be hydraulically controlled to a desired depth, making the shaping of the terrace comparatively easy.

Dave Tindal, Bucks County Conservationist of the SCS, addressed the gathering, and noted a change in the definition of "minimum tillage." Previously defined as the weight of the residue on the ground after planting, Tindal said it is now measured by the amount of the ground that is covered, after planting.

Charlie Hoober, of C.B. Hoober and Sons, Intercourse, local distributors of the Rhino plow explained use of the machine. He said that cost studies showed the cost of construction by bulldozer to be approximately $1.00 per linear foot. Similar construction by the Rhino plow cost .30 to .35 cents per linear foot, depending on the depth of the slope. Depending on the experience of the operator, the average is four passes to complete the terrace, he said.

Tindal said that the ASCS would give financial assistance by cost sharing with the farmer. John Thomas, Bucks County conservationist said that the Bucks County Conservation District was available to help in planning conservation construction.

Finishing touches are put on terrace built during Bucks County conservation demonstration.

Conservation tillage tour Sept. 1

LANCASTER — The Lancaster Conservation District is cooperating with the Ephrata area and Solanco Young Farmers Associations in conducting an on-site tour of five comparison plots, to compare performance, weed control, insect damage and other traits, in no-till corn production.

Charles Ackley, Ephrata Young Farmer's Supervisor, says they plan to visit plots at Vernon Leininger, Clark Stauffer and John Zimmerman.

Ronald Althoff, Solanco Young Farmer's Supervisor, says they plan to visit the farmers of A. Dale Herr, and Martin Greenleaf, Jr.

The Tour Group will leave the Ephrata Junior High School at 8 a.m. on Thursday, Sept. 1, 1983 and Solanco High School at 2 p.m. the same day. Lancaster Conservation District's Tillage Specialist, H. Grant Troop, will be on hand at both places to answer questions. He can be contacted at 786-3300.

Anyone with questions, call Charles Ackley at 733-7961, Ron Althoff at 786-2151 or Bob Gregory at the Conservation District Office, 299-5361.

Vegetable meeting Sept. 1

ZION GROVE — A twilight vegetable growers meeting sponsored by the Schuylkill County Cooperative Extension Service will be held on Thursday, Sept. 1, starting at 6 p.m. at Labenberg Brothers Farm located at Zion Grove.

Cyril Smith, Penn State plant nutritionist, will discuss his three-year study to determine the most efficient use of lime and fertilizer in vegetable production. This plot location is one of 12 throughout Pennsylvania. Also, Pete Ferretti, Extension Vegetable Specialist, will give a update on the 1983 vegetable growing conditions. For additional information, contact George P. Perry, Jr., County Agent - Horticulture at the Schuylkill County Extension Service.

Chester - Del. Farmer's Assn. sets policy meetings

WEST CHESTER — "Grass roots farm policy starts at the policy development meetings," Chester/Delaware Farmers' Association Directors emphasized at their monthly meeting, which was held at the Hodge residence near West Chester. In other business, the Directors set the annual meeting for Tuesday, Sept. 27; appointed Elmer Mast, Parkesburg, Chairman of the Nominating Committee, re-appointed Tom Merroth as Membership Chairman, and heard a report on the P.F.A. insurance programs.

Al Bartels, West Grove, President, said that local policy development meetings had been set for: Aug. 31 at the residence of Horace Mower, Spring City, (for information call 323-2409), Sept. 6, New Garden Township Building (869-8360), Sept. 8, Upper Oxford Township Building(869-2126), Sept. 8 home of Robert Hodge (793-2168), and Tom Merroth (384-0918). Bartels said that all members would vote on acceptance of proposed policy at the Fall Banquet, Sept. 27.

Tom Merroth, Dowingtown, Membership Chairman, said that present Chester/Delaware membership is 756 farm families. Merroth was re-appointed Membership Chairman for 1984 with Judy Merroth as recording secretary.

"Due to P.F.A.'s collection of facts and figures, workman's compensation rates for dairy farmers is down from $12 per thousand of coverage to $6 now" Mitch Edwards, Oxford, Pennsylvania Farmers' Association insurance representative told the Directors. "Coverage for mushroom farmers is down almost one half, to $5.96 per thousand, from the cost a few years ago. The P.F.A. program has developed more than nine million dollars in premiums in about six and one half years," Edwards continued.

Edwards said that the competition by P.F.A. for lower rates had helped farmers obtain lower insurance rates from other companies.

Denise Wilkinson, Landenberg, Chairman of the Women's Committee, was complemented for the successful picnic held recently for county members and their families.

Don Mismer, Harrisburg, Regional Organization Director, said that a Congressional tour is being arranged by the P.F.A. in Chester County during the month of September. Congressional staffers from Washington will tour a veal raising farm, a mushroom farm and visit New Bolton Center, University of Pennsylvania's veterinarian center.

Hopkins gets service clubs award

NEWARK, Del. — The 1983 winner of the Sussex Service Clubs Award is William N. Hopkins of Green Acres Farm near Coolspring. The award was announced at the Sussex Service Clubs annual picnic, traditionally held the evening before the University of Delaware's Farm and Home Field Day at the Georgetown substation.

Hopkins, a native of Lewes, graduated from Lewes High School in 1937 and the University of Delaware in 1942. That same year he married the former Dorothy Elizabeth Cann. After a short stint as a vocational agriculture teacher he went into farming.

Hopkins helped organize the Delaware Farm Bureau, Delaware Guernsey Cattle Club, and Delaware Artificial Breeders Association. He was a member of the original planning board of the Sussex County Vocational and Technical Center, and has continued to serve on the board for 18 years.

He has also been a member of the Coolspring and Henlopen Grange, Delaware Holstein Cattle Club, Delaware Safety Committee, Henlopen Ruritan Club, Delaware 4-H Foundation, and Conley United Methodist Church.

Hopkins has served on the Lewes School Board for 17 years, with one year as its president. He has been the Sussex County ASCS Committeeman, and during the Eisenhower administration chaired the state ASCS Committee.

The Hopkinses have 10 children and 11 grandchildren. All the children have completed or are completing college, eight of them at the University of Delaware.

Dear Burnell and Paul,

We purchased a 1½" Hydro-Mag water conditioner from you in March. We want to let you know how well this unit has worked for us.

We raise about 1500 hogs, 50-100 beef, and milk about 50 head of dairy. We also have about 20 chickens in a small coup. Our water is 40-50 grains hard due to limestone soil and we have 120 ppm of nitrates as well.

We were told by our feed consultants that our bad water may be the cause of our poor milk production and mastitis in our dairy cows. We proceeded to install two commercial water softeners, a chlorinator, nitrate tank, and a ultra violet light over the course of time. This investment of close to $7500.00 didn't solve our problems, but our bacteria was reduced with the ultra violet light. For nine months this equipment failed to show any improvement. Sharon and I were seriously wondering how much longer we could last under these conditions. Our dairy was producing about 40 lbs. (daily herd ave.) and sometimes even in the thirties.

When you contacted us about the Hydro-Mag we were skeptical, but we knew of nothing else to try and our problem still persisted. We had nothing to lose with your money back guaranty.

In March when we installed it, all the other water equipment except for the ultra violet light was disconnected. At the time our dairy cows were drinking about 1200-1300 gals. a day of water. Within a week their water consumption started to increase till it reached 1800-1900 gals. a day. Through the summer the water consumption has maintained between 1900-2100 gals. a day. The hotter the day the more water they drink and the more milk they would produce. Currently our milk production is up to 50+ lbs. daily herd ave. The appetite of the cows has also improved greatly. We also had two cows in the hot weather which didn't clean but neither got sick or smelled bad as other years. Another thing we noticed is that this summer the cows didn't have the feed trough wet and slopped up like other summers. Our milk quality has improved that much that last month, for the first time, we were on our Co-op's Honor Roll.

Concerning our pigs, on the last lot of pigs we only used half the medication we normally use in the first couple of weeks after arrival. The pigs also increased water consumption and feed consumption from day one. We had very little scouring and have no problem getting the pigs to drink as we normally do. These are the healthiest and most uniform lot of pigs we've raised.

Even our twenty chickens, which are a year old, went from 6-8 eggs a day to 15-17 eggs a day within a few weeks of the installation of the Hydro-Mag.

Other areas of improvement we notice is that the lime no longer builds up on our tea pot as a hard scale but now can be wiped out with a cloth. Also the scale buildup on our coil in our hot water heater has been greatly reduced.

We must say the Hydro-Mag has performed far past our expectations and are quite satisfied with the unit. We would recommend this unit to anyone with similar water related problems.

Sincerely,

Glenn R Longenecker

Dyarman, Stamy share Carlisle Holstein honors

BY BETH HEMMINGER
Staff Correspondent

CARLISLE — At the Cumberland County 4-H Dairy Club Roundup, held during Carlisle Fair week, Rebecca Dyarman and John Stamy IV took home top honors during the day-long judging activities.

Rebecca Dyarman, a veteran Cumberland County 4-H Dairy Club member captured the Grand Champion title of the 4-H Holstein show with her 4-year-old cow, Dyar-Acres Lorrie Quality. This Champion 4-year-old, owned and bred by the Dyarman family, has helped Rebecca claim many victories at the local, regional and state competitions.

John Stamy, IV, a county dairy club member for over 5 years claimed the title of Reserve Grand Champion of the 4-H Holstein show. John's 5-year-old cow, Manor-Grove Jake Heidi, won the award after officiating judge, Jed Beshore took a final look at all the other competing animals, then quickly nodded John and Heidi into the Reserve slot.

Two younger members claimed the Junior Champion title of the Holstein show of the Cumberland County 4-H Dairy Roundup. R&M-Acres Boot-Nick Ladi Di, a senior yearling, claimed the Junior Champion title. Ladi Di is owned by 4-H member, Robert Smith, II of Shippensburg.

McCulloughs Choice Dona, captured the Junior Championship while his senior calf won the Reserve Grand Champion award.

Christine Young claimed the Milking Shorthorn show for herself, winning both championship awards. Christine won the Junior Championship with her junior calf, Three Springs Angie and claimed the Grand Champion award with Three Springs P.J. Bell. Both animals are owned and bred by Christine.

Sheaffer wins steer show

CARLISLE — Carlisle Fair's grand champion steer trophy went to Cumberland County 4-H member, Allyson Sheaffer.

Allyson walked into the show ring with a heavyweight steer weighing in at 1005 pounds and walked out with two trophies, Heavyweight Champion and Grand Champion.

Weighing in at 1000 pounds, Chris Hopple's steer claimed the titles of Heavyweight Reserve Champion and Reserve Grand Champion of the show.

Karen Nailor stepped ahead of the other eight entries in the Mediumweight division, walking away with a Mediumweight Champion trophy. Keith Baker claimed the Meidumweight Reserve Champion title. Both Mediumweight Champion Steers weighed in over 800 pounds.

Denise Baker captured the Championship ribbon in the Lightweight division and Irvin Shultz received the Lightweight Reserve Champion title.

Prior to the type judging competition, the junior members entered a Showmanship Contest with the steers.

In the Junior Division, Jeff Swank caught the judges eye and made all the right moves and won the Junior Showmanship Trophy. Allyson Sheaffer stepped to the top of the Intermediate Division and claimed the Champion Showman award.

All the trophies presented at the Junior Market Steer Show were sponsored by Farm Credit Association.

After all the livestock judging was complete, 4-H and FFA went back into the showring for one final Showmanship competition. However, this competition is a little out of the ordinary. The competition consists of each competitor showing each of the CARLISLE — Tough decisions confronted officiating judge, Jed Beshore, at the Cumberland County 4-H Dairy Club Round-up Showing and Fitting Competition, held at the Carlisle Fair.

The inexperienced 4-H competitors entered the ring first, intently watching the judge and their animals, and making some right and wrong moves.

After having the animals and showmen circle the ring several times, examining each members techniques, Beshore selected the top winners in the competition in each division.

Jennifer Reasner collected the top honors in the inexperienced division. Beshore remarked that Jennifer intently watched the judge and used the alter to control her animal. Chester and Galen Smith donated and presented an engraved trophy to the inexperienced winner.

In the Senior Inexperienced division, Brad Hock led his way to be named the Senior Inexperienced Champion. Walter Loy of Production Credit presented the trophy to the winner.

After much deliberation over the Carlisle names Jr. Market Lamb winners

BY BETH HEMMINGER
Staff Correspondent

CARLISLE — Some tough decisions confronted officiating judge Rodney Gilbert, Livestock Specialist of Delaware Valley College, at the Junior Market Lamb Show at the Carlisle Fair.

The Junior Market Lamb started off with a Sheep Fitting and Showmanship contest.

The first into the show ring were the Senior Division competitors. Of the five competitors, Angie Fought won both the fitter and showman award.

Robert Day captured first place and the title Champion Fitter of the Intermediate Division. Claiming the Champion Showman award in the Intermediate class was Ed Wenger.

In the Junior Division competition, Jessica Wenger walked away with both the fitter and showman awards.

All the champion fitters and showmen received trophies sponsored by Farm Credit Association, Carlisle Chamber of Commerce, Mr. and Mrs. John Holstry and Blue Ridge Winery.

Angie Fought captured more than the showing and fitting awards during the days judging activities.

large class of experienced competitors, Beshore named two top experienced winners, Lori Davidson and Michelle Cornman, both receiving engraved plaques from American Breeder Service.

These two experienced winners moved on to the Honorary class, however numerous years of experienced really paid off. Two veteran showmen won the top awards in the class. Becky Dyarman won the second place slot, while John Stamy won the Overall Champion Showing and Fitting Award. This is John's fourth consequetive year to win the award. John received an engraved trophy from Cumberland Valley Cooperative.

Curtis tops Carlisle Fair junior swine winners

CARLISLE — Carl Curtis topped the list of winners at the Junior Market Swine Show at the Carlisle Fair.

Curtis claimed the award of Grand Champion Market Hog with his mediumweight animal. This 226-pound mediumweight hog of Curtis's also captured the Champion Mediumweight title. The Reserve Champion Mediumweight award also went to Curtis with his second place Mediumweight hog weighing in at 236 pounds.

Winning in the heavyweight division was Steve Otto claiming the Heavyweight Championship with his hog weighing in at 256 pounds. Karen Fought claimed the Reserve Champion Heavyweight award with her hog weighing a total of 262 pounds Stacy Suffel claimed both the Champion and Reserve titles in the Lightweight division.

Prior to the type judging the exhibitors participated in a fitting and showmanship contest. After numerous circles around the ring and trying to keep an eye on the judge and the roving hogs, the winners were selected in each of the three divisions.

Junior division competitor, Stacy Suffel, captured both the showing and fitting awards in her division, having the best trained and fitted animals for the event.

Senior Champion Fitter and Showman awards were claimed by Chris Hopple.

All the Champion Fitters and Showmen received trophies sponsored by Farm Credit Association.

Hunterdon plans applicator course

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Pesticide applicators certified by the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) need to earn eight core recertification credits plus 16 credits in private or a commercial category for each 5-year period.

"The end of the first five-year period for many Certified Pesticide Applicators is October 1," says Elaine Fogerty, County Agricultural Agent. "That means if they do not accumulate the required 24 credits total, their license expires and they cannot purchase restricted chemicals," Miss Fogerty said.

The Hunterdon Extension Service is offering an eight-credit Core Recertification Course for those already certified. They will be held Tuesday, Sept. 6, and Wednesday, Sept. 14, at the Extension Center, Route 31, north of the Hunterdon Medical Center. Both programs start at 7:30 p.m. sharp and end at 9:45 p.m. There is a 50-cent registration fee for each session, payable at the door. "No preregistration is necessary, just show up if you need the credits," continued Miss Fogerty.

The Timpte Twins are Tough.

Got Grain? Then get the trailers that are Timpte tough... the Super Hopper or the level floor Super Grain Trailer. They're not only built to take it... they're also built to cut fuel costs. The Super Hopper and the level floor Super Grain Trailers are lightweight and aerodynamically designed to reduce wind drag. When there's grain to be hauled, Timpte does the haulin' best and pulls a lot easier than the rest.

TROY — Cattle competition was the scene as dairy enthusiasts competed in the 4-H and FFA, Open Holstein and Open Colored Breed Shows at the Troy Fair, July 26, 28 and 29.

Competition began with a combined 4-H and FFA Show, July 26, featuring the Holstein, Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey and Jersey breeds. Following the class competition, showmanship and fitting contests were held.

Grand champion winners were: Holstein — Terri Packard, Troy, and 3-year-old Pack-Herd Elevation Brassey; Ayrshire — Vonda Andrus, Towanda, and her senior yearling Win-Ayr C.P. Nan; Brown Swiss — Donald Cole Jr., Columbia Cross Roads, and 3-year-old High Spruce Beau Sonya; Guernsey — Michelle Wright, Canton, and her 4-year-old cow, Way View Fayvor's Cathy; and Jersey — Lisa Chapman, Columbia Cross Roads, and her 4-year-old cow, Windy Acres Samson Darlene.

Named the reserve grand champion winners were: Holstein — Terri Packard, Troy, and Pack-Herd Jaguar Bronze, a 4-year-old; Brown Swiss — Ellen Marie Cole, Columbia Cross Roads, and her 3-year-old High Spruce Beau Loni; Guernsey — Stacey Travis Brackman, Canton, and 3-year-old LeRoydales Deacon Lynne; Jersey — Brian and Patricia Watson, Columbia Cross Roads, and Smokey Hill Samson Candy, a 3-year-old.

In the Class A, ages 8 to 11, showmanship contest, Daniel Hoppough was named winner while Jon Brackman won the class fitting contest.

Michelle Wright and Tammi Swain were the Class B, ages 12 to 13, showmanship and fitting winners, respectively. Class C, ages 15 and over, honors went to Carl Aden, showmanship, and Jack Belcher Jr., fitting.

In the Holstein Show, Pack-Herd Farm, owned by the Richard and Marilyn Packard Family, Troy, was named both the premier breeder and premier exhibitor.

The show's grand champion was Royal-Haven Unique Crisco, a 6-year-old owned by Ben and Regina Jackson, Columbia Cross Roads. Reserve champion honors went to the Packards and their 3-year-old, Pack-Herd Willo Bingo.

Earning both the premier breeder and exhibitor honors in the Colored Breed Show were the Brackman Family, Canton, in the Guernsey breed, and the William Eick family of Columbia Cross Roads, in the Jersey category. No Ayrshire or Brown Swiss winners were named.

Judged the grand champion Guernsey was Way View Cindy, a 4-year-old owned by Michelle Wright, Canton. The reserve champion was Jacksons Deacon Pearl, a 3-year-old owned by Ben Jackson, Columbia Cross Roads.

Crops Day to stress soil fertility

ROCK SPRINGS — Several important areas of soil fertility management will be the focus of attention during the annual Crops Day Sept. 27 at the Agricultural Research Center of Penn State, nine miles southwest of State College on Route 45 West.

Included will be (1) ways to reduce losses from fertilizer nitrogen, (2) side dressings of nitrogen, (3) use of home grown legume nitrogen, (4) manure management, and (5) use of starter fertilizer.

"Soil fertility is one of the most important factors that farmers can control in growing a crop," declared Douglas Beegle, extension agronomist arranging the soil fertility demonstrations for Crops Day.

"To make sound and intelligent management decisions, farmers need and understanding of soil fertility and guidance for applying this infomation efficiently on their farms," he added.

And he indicated side dressing of nitrogen, as opposed to applying all of the nitrogen at planting time, has been shown to increase corn yields significantly. Research results and application techniques, including a display of side dressing equipment, will be highlighted September 27.

Beegle said manure management for optimum nutrient utilization by crops is another important topic that will be covered during the Penn State Crops Day. Corn yield data from "surface" versus "injected" liquid dairy manure applications will be presented to illustrate the importance of working manure into soil to conserve nutrients.

"We will also be looking at fertilization of no-till corn, emphasizing the importance of starter fertilizer," he commented. "Research has shown that starter fertilizer increases corn yields. Current work at the Agronomy Research Farm, a part of the field day tour, will show the effect of different methods of applying starter fertilizer to no-till corn."

The Sept. 27 Crops Day will emphasize corn and soybean research and management practices. Tours will start at 9:30 a.m. and end at 4 p.m. Lunch will be available at the Agronomy Research Farm.

Egg board names sought

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has asked certified egg producer organizations for nominations to replace nine American Egg Board members and their alternates whose terms will expire Dec. 31.

H. Connor Kennett, a poultry official with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said the new appointees will serve two-year terms beginning in 1984. Nine members of the current 18-member board will continue serving through next year.

"Fifty-three producer groups are now certified to submit nominations under the egg research and promotion order," Kennett said.

Area 1 (North Atlantic states): W. Robert Park, Valencia, Pa., member; Donald E. Horn, Ephrata, Pa., alternate.

Nominations should be sent by Oct. 1, to H. Connor Kennett, Poultry Division, rm. 3932-S, AMS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250. Phone: (202) 447-4476.

The egg research and promotion order, authorized by the Egg Research and Consumer Information Act, provides that certified egg producer organizations within each geographical area can meet to jointly nominate members and alternates.

The American Egg Board administers the producer-sponsored national research and promotion program that is designed to strengthen the egg industry's competitive position in the marketplace.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1983
1:00 P.M.

Auction to be conducted on the premises located at Route 4 Lebanon, S. Annville Township, Lebanon County, Pa. From route 322 turn north onto route 934 and proceed 1.9 miles to farm on left or south off route 422 in Annville at traffic light 1.6 miles to farm on right.

This auction features one of the larger Lebanon County farms ever to be auctioned. Many unique features and unlimited possibilities are available through the auction of this very desirable property.

Large 2½ story, 3 bedroom limestone and frame house with the first floor having a large living room with picture windows, cozy dining room with hardwood floor, beam ceiling and fireplace and kitchen with storage areas. Home heated by oil hot water, has drilled well and on lot sewerage system. Spring fed water supply in basement. Stream flowing past house and mature trees and shrubbery making this a very attractive setting.

Feature of the auction is an appx. 40' x 100' lodge type barn which is presently being used as an entertainment center. Main floor contains hardwood floors, knotty pine ceiling and 2 fireplaces. Basement area has a 3 car garage, storage and work area and rest rooms and shower facilities. Outside limestone patio which adds to this fine building and its nice setting.

New 30' x 60' alum. open front livestock building with fenced coral and pasture. Gently rolling contoured farm land and pasture along with some wooded area. Tree lined driveway, lots of mature trees and shrubbery and other unmentioned particulars and features are a part of this lovely property. For a pictured brochure write or call auctioneer. Inspection by calling 717-273-1781. 10% down required on sale day with full terms and conditions given by attorney.

If in need of some real estate in the heart of Lebanon Valley with unlimited possibilities and potential with a zoning of R-1 residential but presently in full state of cultivation this is the property to inspect.

NOW YOU CAN CONTROL EGG SIZE TO IMPROVE PROFITS ®

PROGRAMS FOR PROFITS

Why control egg size.

Eggs are sold in the U.S. in a unique combination of very specific minimum egg weight classifications, but with a wide weight range within each class for which the same price per dozen is paid. Further, there is a strong consumer demand for eggs in the "Large" classification — a demand that does not match well the hen's biological capacity of producing that single egg size.

Even when hens are producing mostly eggs in the Large classification, you could be selling up to 13% more product by weight (the range from 24-27 ounces per dozen) and not receiving a cent more.

To maximize profits it is necessary to move eggs out of the Small and Medium classification to the Large size. Further, Extra Large and Jumbo classes should be avoided because of additional feed costs and egg breakage. Only if a large premium for the larger classes is paid (a rare situation) should these egg sizes intentionally be produced. Generally, minimizing egg weights to just over 24 ounces is most profitable.

How maximizing production while controlling size is possible.

Purina nutritionists have found the nutrient needs of hens are higher for maximum egg weight than for maximum egg production. Shifts in fortification can be made that will increase or decrease egg weights ½ lb./case while maximizing egg production.

Production rates increase until sufficient amino acids are consumed to allow hens to reach their maximum genetic egg production capacity. However, egg size continues to increase with further amino acid intakes until the genetic capacity potential for maximum egg weight is finally achieved. This nutritional concept allows you to modify egg size, while maximizing production rates.

Nutritional accuracy

To regulate egg size without reducing production rates there must be very accurate ration formulation.

Accurate nutrient standards for today's high-producing hens must be set. The usable nutrients in ingredients must also be determined.

Some nutrients in all feed ingredients remain undigested and/or unavailable to the bird. The quantity of usable nutrients depends upon the ingredient, processing methods and other factors. Obviously, it is critical to accurately know the amount of usable nutrients there are in any feedstuff.

To increase the accuracy of Purina's knowledge of biological availability, new techniques were implemented. These new techniques, developed by Canadian researchers, were refined by Purina Research. These new procedures developed during the past five years give True Metabolizable Energy (TME) and True Amino Acid Availability (TAAA) values.

True metabolizable energy system is an important breakthrough for ration formulation. It is the best indicator of the energy that is truly usable by the pullet or hen. It is a very rapid system which permitted Purina to reevaluate every feedstuff used in Accu-Line rations. This means that Purina energy values accurately reflect the usable energy in the ingredients Purina uses to manufacture Accu-Line rations.

Other feed companies continue to formulate rations using published tables for various feed ingredients. These may not accurately reflect current values.

Purina places great emphasis on accurate energy values. Energy is used in all body functions and egg production. It also governs how much hens will eat. When energy requirements are met, birds will stop eating — whether or not they have consumed enough amino acids, minerals and vitamins for maximum performance.

Having accurate energy values is the foundation of precise ration formulation. If the actual energy value is different from the theoretical energy value used in formulation, one of two things will happen:

1. Performance will be reduced because of underfortification of amino acids, vitamins and minerals.
2. Added costs result from an excess amount of these same nutrients that were added to balance an incorrect energy level.

True available amino acid values are equally important. The more accurate Purina knowledge of the usable amino acids in the feed ingredients, the more accurately they can be balanced to the usable energy in the feed.

As a result of these new values, Purina Accu-Line Laying rations can be made from the most efficient combination of ingredients available. The rations accurately supply the hen's daily nutritional needs at the best value possible to Purina customers.
